BRITAIN SPURNS EMPIRE TRADE MONOPOLY PLAN

Baldwin Hits Hopes of Dominions.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 15.—A warning note to those who are expecting great diversions of international trade from the British imperial conference, which is expected to end Thursday, was struck today by Stanley Baldwin lord president of the council of the United Kingdom and leader of the British delegation at Ottawa. Mr. Baldwin, who was the guest of the Canadian club, dashed the hopes of those Canadians who have been looking for a self-contained and self-supporting empire from which other nations would be excluded.

"The policy of imperial isolation is not desirable either for the peace or prosperity of the world," said Mr. Baldwin. "International trade ought to be a great civilizing instrument."

In this sentence many saw the answer to the demand of Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada that Russian goods should be excluded from British markets.

Building for Eternity.

"In the last analysis the empire is not built on trade agreements, nor can it be maintained on tariffs and preferences," Mr. Baldwin continued. "Our ultimate goal must be spiritual unity—the kingdom of heaven on earth. We build for eternity. Each country must be true to itself, must build its own prosperity, its own literature, its own culture, its own spiritual life. Dominion status means freedom, but it also means coöperation."

This sentimentalism puzzled the 700 Canadian business men, who had assembled in the hope of hearing the British Conservative leader tell how Britain was going to restore prosperity to Canada by giving her a monopoly of her markets, rescue her from the financial dominion of the United States and, generally, hand over to her the leadership of the empire.

Finally, there was a gasp of astonishment when Mr. Baldwin said that true education meant the ability to distinguish between a job well done and "humbug." This word was reminiscent of Secretary for Dominions J. H. Thomas' characterization of Mr. Bennett's proposals at the last imperial conference as "bloody humbug."

Canada-British Deadlock.

No progress was made today toward a Canadian-British agreement. The British still insist they are going to have the final meeting on Thursday and will start for home on Saturday. The Canadians are furious and declare the British are trying to force them to yield on what are to them vital matters.

Various officials assert negotiations have reached the stage when everything could be settled in a few hours if the delegates would only sit down around a table, but there is no sign of that round table being available.

Meanwhile, THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent was assured on official authority that not one single agreement has yet been completed between Britain and any dominion. Some interdominion agreements have been completed in negotiations, but none has yet been signed.

May End in Fiasco.

Britain's deals with the two most important dominions—Canada and Australia—are deadlocked, and while Australia may be straightened out the situation with Canada is regarded as tense. The entire conference may end in a fiasco which will either be acknowledged publicly or—and this is more propable—covered up with a coat of imperial whitewash.

Meat and Russia are the two stumbling blocks in the case of both Canada and Australia. Both dominions want a preference on beef in the British market and both want Russian products excluded from it. Britain is willing to give a preference on mutton, which the dominions say means nothing, as New Zealand and Australia now supply 95 per cent of the imported mutton used in Britain. The mother country will not consent to tax Argentine beef for the benefit of the dominions and she will not at any price exclude Russian products from her markets and thus destroy her rapidly growing Russian trade.

Meetings were held today between Premier Bennett and Mr. Baldwin in an effort to get closer together.

The delegations of Australia and Canada and New Zealand and Canada also met as did South Africa and Britain. It has been learned that even if definite agreements are reached, it

ARMED PATROLS ON ROADS GUARD MEN IN MINES

Taylorville to Fight Foes of $5 Wage.

Students Halted

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A party of approximately 20 men and women, most of them university students, were stopped here tonight and prevented by officers from continuing their trip to Benton, where they had intended to investigate conditions among coal miners in that district.

Members of the party, including four women, were told that they would be arrested if they failed to leave Mount Vernon or if they continued to Benton. Leaders promised the group would return to Chicago tomorrow, and they were allowed to spend the night at a tourist camp.

Sheriff William Groves of Jefferson county stopped the group here at the request of Sheriff Browning Robinson of Franklin county of which Benton is the county seat. Sheriff Robinson arrived and told them that "no agitation is needed in Franklin county right now."

Victor Sulerts, who described himself as a University of Chicago student, is in jail at Benton. The sheriff said he was arrested for "his own safety."

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Like a city under martial law this community of 8,000 looked over far flung barricades tonight and waited for the promised "march on Taylorville" by striking coal miners from Springfield and southern Illinois. Sentinels of townspeople and farmers, armed with shotguns pistols and farm implements, kept vigil on the highways at the borders of Christian county. In every township vigilantes deputized by Sheriff Charles Wieneke awaited calls. Scouts toured roads outside the county.

SHERIFF WEINEKE.

Within the rough barricades of tractors, trucks and farm machinery four big mines of the Peabody Coal company were hoisting coal at capacity. More than 2,000 diggers were below today—2,000 diggers whom the strikers seek to enlist in their movement against the new $5 wage contract.

All Shafts Ready for Work.

Nowhere, however, was any movement toward Taylorville reported. At Springfield pickets stood at entrances of all mines. All the shafts were ready for work, but no diggers could be found who would go into the tunnels.

Throughout the state the opposition was quiet after yesterday's massmeeting at Benld. Ten thousand miners were reported present there and decided to remain idle until their leaders determine future strategy. A policy committee was formed.

A state convention of the "rank and file" probably will be called to repudiate the $5 contract signed by union leaders last week following disappearance of official returns of a referendum.

Report 22 Mines Working.

Despite the strike movement twenty-two mines were reported working in Illinois today in a survey made by the Illinois Coal Operators' association. Among them were the Orient mines No. 1 and No. 2 in Franklin county, the largest coal properties in the world. Coal was hoisted with full crews.

No accurate statistics were available on the number of men at work, but estimates placed it at 10,000. The mines hoisting coal, according to the survey, were:

Drake mine, Canton; Crescent No. 6, Peoria; Energy No. 5, Franklin county; Old Ben No. 15; Christopher; Old Ben No. 18, Johnston City; Centralia Coal company, Centralia; Bell & Zoller Coal Co., Centralia; Orient No. 1 and No. 2; Peabody No. 24, Westville; Peabody Nos. 7, 8, 9, and 58, Taylorville, and Peabody Nos. 14 and 15, Duquoin.

Mines at work cleaning up were: O'Gara No. 3, Harrisburg; Bell & Zoller Nos. 1 and 2, Zeigler; Peabody No. 42, Harrisburg, and Peabody Nos. 18 and 19, Harrisburg.

A massmeeting of strikers is scheduled at Springfield tomorrow and lead-

THE OLD MEN OF THE SEA

PREACHER IS SEIZED FOR MARRIAGE MART IN COUNTY BUILDING

The Rev. Wesley L. Sledge, a Negro, assistant pastor of the Quinn chapel, 2401 South Wabash avenue, was arrested yesterday in the first floor corridor of the county building on the charge that he had been soliciting colored couples who were on their way to get marriage licenses and afterward had been taking them to a room on the ninth floor of the adjoining city hall, where he married them.

Sledge charged that his arrest was caused by professional jealousy on the part of another Negro minister. This preacher, he asserted, maintains a post outside the marriage court on the second floor of the county building and diverts couples away from the court, which is the official agency for performing marriages.

"He's mad because I'm smart enough to stand downstairs and get them when they come in the door," Sledge charged.

Policeman Charles Bennett, who made the arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct, denied that he had heard of the rival preacher. His duty is to keep the corridors of the building free of loiterers, he said. He added that Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court had warned Sledge a month ago to cease using vacant courtrooms for his marriage ceremonies.

Is Eating Hut a Love Nest? Battle Rages

For an hour last night the trustees of Elmwood Park, a community of about 12,000 northwest of the city along Grand avenue, debated a solemn question.

The question was: Are eating huts love nests?

Trustee Albert Redmer contended they were. Frank Hayes, owner of the Hayes barbecue stand at Harlem and North avenue, argued that they weren't. The Hayes stand was erected last year at a reported cost of $30,000, and at the time it was reported that his partner would be James Murray, Rondout mail robber, who was paroled from the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., in May, 1931, after serving five years of a 25 year term. The place was described then as a hot dog stand. It was not learned last night whether Murray is still connected with it.

What Disturbs the Board.

The question before the Elmwood Park board arose when owner Hayes, of the barbecue stand sought sanction for four so-called eating huts which he had erected on his premises last week. The huts stand about eight feet high, are about eight feet long and seven feet wide. Within are small tables, and wooden benches of almost the maximum length possible.

Trustee Redmer attacked Hayes' request on the ground that the huts were of frame construction and in other particulars did not comply with the village building code.

"They're only damn shacks," he shouted. "Besides, they're not eating huts; they're really love nests."

Some one else was heard to side with Redmer with the remark that the huts would be ideal for "necking."

Huts Have Their Defenders.

But defenders of the huts rushed to the rescue.

"I investigated these huts last week," said Trustee T. Vincent Neil. "I took with me some members of the Parent-Teachers association, and they approved them."

"These are really eating huts," said Owner Hayes. "They're not love nests. They're not demoralizing, and there's no question of morals at all."

The verbal battle raged for a half hour longer, mainly over the application of the building code to the huts, and then the trustees voted. Four approved the eating huts. Two voted against the alleged love nests. The eating huts won.

Bull, Head Caught in Pail, Plunges in River, Drowns

Grover, Utah, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A bull owned by Joseph Winck pushed its head into a grain bucket, the handle catching on the animal's horns. Frightened, the animal ran across a field and plunged into a river, the bucket filling with water. The bull drowned—standing in water up to its knees.

WIFE WILL SUE JESSE LIVERMORE IN RENO COURT

Reno, Nev., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Dorothy F. Livermore has arrived here to file suit for divorce from Jesse Livermore, known as the "boy plunger of Wall street," who resides at Great Neck, Long Island.

Livermore gained his title by running a shoestring into millions of dollars. Ever since then he has been up and down with the market—sometimes broke and sometimes worth millions. Every time he lost his money, he would soon come back again. In more recent years he has been more often reported broke than affluent. During the stock market crash of 1929-'30, however, he was reported on the "short" side and to have cleaned up millions.

Dorothy Fox Wendt Livermore is his second wife. They married in Brooklyn in 1927, after Livermore had obtained a Reno divorce from his first wife, the former Nettie Jordan.

CERMAK INSPECTS VIENNA WITH EYE OF CONNOISSEUR

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—Mayor Cermak of Chicago today inspected some of Vienna's municipal achievements with the eye of a connoisseur. The Marx and George Washington, giant blocks of workmen's apartment houses, he pronounced architectural achievements from which the United States could take an example.

Tomorrow Mr. Cermak will be given an official reception by the municipality of Vienna and will then go to Budapest and later to Prague to visit President Masaryk of Czechoslovakia. Warsaw, Berlin and Munich will be the mayor's next stopping places before he sails for the United States.

31 Deaths Are Reported in Germany's Heat Wave

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Thirty-one deaths have been reported during the heat wave which is making all Germany swelter. Seven deaths by drowning have been reported in the Rhine country and five persons have drowned in Berlin. Ten mountaineers, vacationing in the Bavarian Alps, have been killed, one of them, Count Guido Liyburg, brother of the former minister to Argentina. A dozen excursionists have died in automobile accidents and two persons died of sunstroke in Berlin.

Georgian Escapes Prison, Can't Get Job, Goes Back

Dayton, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A man giving his name as Pozey Abernathy, 31, surrendered today and said he was an escaped convict from the Georgia prison farm. He escaped Sept. 1, 1931, after he had served seven years of a 20 year term for murder. Failure to find work prompted him to surrender, he said.

Indiana Cuts $12,500,000 Off Tax Bill

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Approximately $12,500,000 was cut from Indiana's total tax bill by the special session of the general assembly that ended a 40 day meeting tonight.

That will reduce the average tax rate on property from the present $2.82 to at least $2.57 on each $100, tax experts in the legislature estimated. Many retrenchment and revenue proposals fell by the wayside.

What Legislature Did.

General bills designed to reduce taxation—the purpose for which Gov. Harry G. Leslie called the session—that were passed, provide:

A general salary decrease applying to all public officials receiving $1,200 a year or more, estimated to lop $4,500,000 from government cost.

Distribution of one-half of the gasoline tax and one-half of the automobile license receipts to counties, cities and towns, estimated to increase local government revenue by $7,000,000.

Suspension for three years of the 2 cent state levy for building of the state universities and normal schools, to save approximately $1,000,000 a year.

Reduction in state budget for next fiscal year of $1,872,000, of which most of the saving is reflected in the salary cut bill.

Pass Two New Taxes.

The legislature passed two revenue raising measures, one imposing a filing fee of 50 cents on mortgage notes recorded, and another legalizing betting on races by the pari mutuel system. The mortgage filing fee bill, it was said during debate on it, will raise about $7,000,000 annually for local governments.

The pari-mutuel bill, establishing a license fee of $100 a day and also giving the state 10 per cent of the admission price, will return $1,000,000 a year if approved by the governor, it was said by its sponsors.

A bill putting a tax limit of $1.50 on each $100 of taxables was the outstanding tax measure passed. It has become a law and, according to tax experts will result in a deficit of at least $5,000,000 in the state general fund next year.

Let Dry Change Die.

Prohibition had a prominent part in the special session. The house passed a bill modifying the state liquor law and providing for sale of whisky for medical purposes. The senate changed it to provide for a referendum in the November election on the question and there the thing ended. Neither side would budge.

Both branches of the assembly tonight approved the Norris "lame duck" amendment to the United States constitution advancing the date of convening of a newly elected congress and the date of inauguration of the President and Vice President.

Coal Miner of 60 Becomes a Father for the 34th Time

Whitesburg, Ky., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—John L. Sloan, lank 60 year old mountaineer of the Knott county border, just became a father for the 34th time today. The child is a husky boy. Sloan, who has been married twice, lives on a farm, but has been a coal miner for 30 years.

By his first wife there were 13 children including a set of triplets and two sets of twins. By his present wife he has had 16 children, including one set of twins. The mother is 43.

Oak Park Show Window Smashed for 4th Time

Three slingshot vandals, riding in an automobile, cracked the display window of the Cadillac Motor Sales company at 918 Madison street, Oak Park, late last night. On three previous occasions windows of the display room have been shattered with bricks. L. H. Triplett, attendant in the place, saw the trio shoot pebbles at the window.

MAYOR FORCED TO TESTIFY ON HIS FINANCES

Two Women Figure in Evidence.

BULLETIN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Record says it learned today from "responsible sources" that James J. Walker will resign as mayor of New York within the next few days—before Gov. Roosevelt can announce his final decision.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Once more the name of that most elusive "unnamed person" who figures so mysteriously in the financial affairs of Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York was safeguarded from the public eye today.

There was considerable discussion of this "unnamed person" whose sex, even, is carefully hidden from the public records during today's session of the hearing being conducted by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to determine whether he will remove Mayor Walker from office.

Sums Paid by Sherwood.

It was put in testimony that the "person" obtained large sums from the account of Russell T. Sherwood, financial agent for Mayor Walker, who for months has hidden himself away from the prying gaze of the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee.

To the dismay of the army of newsgatherers at the hearing, who have been expectant that the "person's" name would be disclosed at this time, still another "unnamed person," this one quite definitely a woman, was brought into the case. She also was connected with the missing Sherwood's tangled finances, and the inference was made by Samuel Seabury, chief accuser against Mayor Walker, that this woman, too, was connected with the mayor.

Makes Explosive Denial.

The mayor, occupying the witness stand most of the afternoon, put in an explosive denial that he had authorized the payments from the Sherwood account to the "unnamed person." He was not asked at all about the "unnamed woman," whose entry into the picture came through another witness.

During a long cross-examination by Gov. Roosevelt Mayor Walker explained his connections with Sherwood. He admitted that the fugitive Sherwood, who banked close to $1,000,000, of which $760,000 was in cash, in various brokerage and bank accounts, had transacted practically all his personal business. Sherwood saw to the keeping of his personal checking accounts; he deposited the mayor's salary checks from the city.

Incidentally, in this connection Mr. Walker confessed from the witness stand that he never had any idea as to how much he had in his own bank account, except when he overdrew it, "and then somebody told me about it."

Denies Any Knowledge.

But so far as Sherwood's deposits were concerned, and so far as Sherwood made payments to the "unnamed person," the mayor said he had no connection with them; knew nothing of them, and wanted to disown them completely.

The bringing up of the charges concerning Sherwood resulted in a decision made by Gov. Roosevelt which many followers of the hearing believe spells the doom of Mayor Walker unless the mayor can give a full and frank explanation of his dealings with his so-called law clerk.

The mayor's attorney, John J. Curtin, rose at the outset of the Sherwood matter, and moved that the governor exclude all of it from his consideration on the ground that the mayor's association with Sherwood was in no way connected with his duties as mayor, and that further it was an unconstitutional invasion of the right of privacy granted to every citizen.

Mr. Curtin was citing a particular case in which Mr. Seabury had appeared as counsel, and in which Mr. Seabury had presented a brief contending that witnesses who had refused to give testimony "have done what self respecting American citizens ought ever to do, and that is insist upon and maintain their constitutional right to privacy, as against the craving of administrative officials for the public exposure of private and personal affairs."

Gov. Roosevelt broke in upon the discussion with a most significant query:

"Mr. Curtin," he said, "I remember that case very well. Weren't all the defendants interested? Were any of them public officials?"

The defense lawyer asserted it wouldn't matter if they were—that public officials have no less right to privacy than any other person. And again the governor broke in:

"Did you read my decision in the Farley case?"

This was the case in which Gov. Roosevelt removed the sheriff of New York county, in an identical proceeding to the pending Walker case. In that case the governor laid it down that a public official shall always be called upon to explain his personal finances.

Mr. Curtin said he had read the case, but that he did not consider it an "exposition of law," and he added that nowhere would the governor find any justification for "the waiving of any constitutional rights, or private rights, by a public official."

"Perhaps you are right in not calling it a law," the governor replied, "but you would also be right in calling it my public policy in regard to this state."

Battle Over "Unnamed Person."

The governor then went ahead with his questioning of Mayor Walker.

Quite a battle was raised over the introduction of the subject of the "unnamed person." In the thick of it an expectant audience waited to learn whether the mayor, or Mr. Seabury, or the mayor's chief counsel, John J. Curtin, or Governor Roosevelt, all of whom were fully aware of the name of the person, might slip and use a personal pronoun such as "he" or "she." But there was no such slip.

It is quite generally bruited about that the "unnamed person" is a young woman, either a prominent moving picture actress, or a leading star of the musical comedy stage.

"Person" Paid $75,000.

The evidence before the Hofstadter committee showed that the "person" was paid approximately $75,000 out of the Sherwood account, and testimony has been given that this same "person" in one instance was paid $7,500 from the account upon the authorization of Mayor Walker.

When the subject came up, Mr. Walker was being asked concerning payments made through the Sherwood account. He admitted that Sherwood had arranged for a letter of credit for Mrs. Walker, in January, 1930, to provide her with funds for a trip to Europe. Walker had testified that Sherwood was an accountant employed by the law office of Blaufeld & Warren, with which the mayor was connected prior to his election as mayor, and that Sherwood did financial work for other members of the firm.

Governor Questions Him.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Do you know of any other letter of credit issued to other people through purchase by Sherwood? A.—I know of it as a matter of testimony in the Seabury committee. I mean the legislative committee. I don't see [ironically] how any one would make that mistake.

Q.—Were any of them authorized by you? A.—There were not.

White haired Mr. Seabury got up slowly, and in his dignified drawl he stirred up the tempest.

MR. SEABURY—Would I be out of order if I were to call to your excellency's attention that there was a letter of credit arranged for by Sherwood—two of them—that amounted to $16,000 in cash, and that those letters of credit were made for the benefit of the person for whom a check——

Mayor Voices Objection.

MAYOR WALKER—Now I object.

MR. CURTIN [defense attorney]—I object.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Well, I have to——

MAYOR WALKER—I know but—may I be permitted, in my own stead, to object to these hourly summations by Mr. Seabury?

MR. SEABURY—I am not making any summation.

MAYOR WALKER—Well, of course, it is testified. Your excellency has just asked me the question about that, which counsel must have heard, but he knows newspaper values and how to dress it up.

MR. SEABURY—That's just about as true as the answers to many of the questions that have been made.

Walker "Resents" It.

MAYOR WALKER—Now I resent that.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Let Mr. Seabury finish.

MR. SEABURY—What I was about to call to your attention is that the evidence shows this, that letters of credit aggregating $16,000 to the same person to whom a check was drawn at the order of the mayor on the Paul Block account and turned over by the mayor to the person mentioned on the stub of the check book——

Mr. Seabury was carefully omitting the name of the person, but Attorney Curtin stopped the accuser there and protested the "impropriety" of the question.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Let me ask my own questions.

MAYOR WALKER—Now, your excellency, after 14 months of this gentleman with that kind of parading, must he be permitted here——

Fails to Mention Name.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—As a matter of fact, you will look at my own memorandum—it is right here.

The governor was hedging away from giving the name.

MAYOR WALKER—I haven't any doubt about it; your excellency wouldn't miss it, but the judge [Seabury] might be out of the picture if he didn't inject himself——

MR. SEABURY—I see no way to call this to your attention other than I have; there it is. There is the exhibit, if your excellency is interested in it, and it is by the same person as the person for whom Sherwood later——

MAYOR WALKER—My God, he hasn't confidence enough in himself that it registered the first time; he must repeat it.

Governor Chides Walker.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Mayor, will you please let me ask the questions?

MAYOR WALKER—I am testifying, he is not, but he is doing more testifying than I am.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Strike out all of the conversation.

MAYOR WALKER—I am under oath, too.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Strike that out of the record. Now, let me go on, Mayor, it appeared from the record here that a payment was made from the Paul Block account by your office for $7,500 and it also appears that a letter of credit and increases thereon were issued to the same person at the request of Sherwood. Did you know anything about those letters of credit?

MAYOR WALKER—I did not and I assume also, as counsel might in any effort for fairness, that the same person might have had charge accounts, the same person might have bought clothes, might have bought real estate, and that assumption wouldn't any more follow except for publicity purposes than the observation which he just made.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Strike out the answer. It is not responsive to the question. Strike out everything that he said after I did not. You have got to stick to this issue.

MAYOR WALKER—I am willing to do that. You appreciate that I have a very definite interest, I repeat, in it. It isn't the truth.

Herrick Is Questioned.

The incident relating to the "unnamed woman" occurred during the questioning of Walter R. Herrick, park commissioner for the borough of Manhattan. He had been summoned directly by Gov. Roosevelt himself. Herrick in sessions of the Hofstadter committee gave testimony damaging to the mayor's account.

This concerned the circumstances under which the mayor had procured the privilege for several friends, Herrick among them, to cut in on an advance subscription for a new stock, the Interstate Trust company, an issue which was expected to give a considerable profit as soon as it was placed on the stock exchange.

Mr. Walker had testified that former Gov. Sulzer of New Jersey had offered him the opportunity of buying 350 shares of the stock on subscription, but that he had not wanted to go in on the deal. He passed it on to several friends, and among these, it was shown, were J. Allen Smith and Senator John Hastings, who had interested the mayor in a franchise deal, favoring the Equitable Coach company, which has been discussed during these hearings at length.

"Thought" It Was for Walker.

Herrick testified, as he has before, that he thought or "assumed" that the stock, all of which was bought in his name, was for the personal account of Mayor Walker. The money used by Herrick in buying the stock came, he said, from Edward Stanton, then the mayor's official secretary.

Later, Herrick said, he delivered 300 shares of the stock to Stanton, keeping 50 for himself. He quoted the mayor as telling him later that he had put up all of the stock as collateral for a loan, and had lost it, which was indirect contradiction to the mayor's story that he never owned it. The undisputed facts before the governor have shown that Mayor Walker did not hypothecate the stock; that it was put up by Smith, Hastings, and one or two others to secure a loan for funds which were used to defray the expenses of obtaining the Equitable Coach franchise.

Holds Mayor Knew of Loan.

Mr. Seabury drew the conclusion from Herrick's testimony that the mayor knew of the loan and Seabury concluded that this disputed the mayor's assertion that he had no knowledge whatever that the Interstate stock was bought, sold or put up as collateral.

When this matter had been gone into at some length, Defense Attorney Curtin announced that he wished to question the witness on another matter, and this brought on the point of the mystery woman.

MR. CURTIN—Do you know a man by the name of Russell T. Sherwood? A.—Yes, very well.

Q.—Have you ever had any business transactions with him? A.—Yes, I have.

Commissioner Herrick gave the details of several transactions and then described one in which a woman, a client of his, had asked Herrick to turn over $20,000 she had received in alimony to Sherwood for investment purposes.

The money came from "out of the country," Mr. Herrick said, and when asked by Mr. Curtin to explain where the money came from, the witness said it had been sent from Havana, Cuba.

"I represented the lady in the litigation as her New York attorney," Herrick explained.

Mr. Seabury then rose to cross-examine the witness on the point.

MR. SEABURY—Who introduced this client to you?

Thinks It "Improper."

MR. CURTIN—I think that is improper. The only question before this body is whose money it is.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I think it is an entirely proper question and going to the subject, Mr. Curtin.

WITNESS—I couldn't tell you, judge, who introduced her because it goes back fourteen or fifteen years.

MR. SEABURY—And had you met this client long before you undertook the adjustment of her affairs? A.—O, yes, I had been doing legal work for her for some time.

MR. SEABURY—And had she been recommended to you by the mayor?

MR. CURTIN — What difference does it make?

Came on "Own Hook."

WITNESS—I don't know that she had. I think she came to me originally on her own hook.

MR. SEABURY—You are not very sure on that? A.—No, I am not.

A moment later Mr. Curtin took up the examination again and striding up before the witness he went to the point of the woman's identity.

MR. CURTIN—Now, let's not have any mystery about all this. Let's have the name of that client, Mr. Herrick.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I don't see that it is very material.

MR. CURTIN—Why have any mystery about it? Let me ask one question. In view of the implications here as to who introduced this client, and though I don't see what that has to do with this, let's do away with the mystery and say who is that person.

Roosevelt Is Willing.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I would just as soon. Go ahead.

WITNESS—If your excellency please, without any disrespect, that is a matter between client and attorney, and I don't think, inasmuch as I have gone into the nature of the matter, I should mention the name of the client, and I respectfully refuse.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I think Mr. Herrick is entirely within his rights, unless you show some particular reason.

Mr. Herrick was excused, and the governor then directed Mayor Walker to take the witness chair. Gov. Roosevelt read the first charge connected with Sherwood, which was that Sherwood had been paid $22,000 more for stocks which Sherwood had sold to Samuel Ungerleider & Co. than the market value of the stocks.

The charge held that the company paid the extra sum to Sherwood, the mayor's agent, and that thereafter Mayor Walker actively sponsored legislation in which Ungerleider & Co. were interested. It was also charged that J. A. Sisto, mentioned in previous testimony, was interested with Samuel Ungerleider in the securities of the Parmalee company, operating taxicabs on the streets of New York.

The mayor admitted that he had met Ungerleider at a luncheon in the mayor's club, but he denied having discussed the taxicab legislation with him.

Mayor Walker volunteered the statement that there has never been any legislation passed in the city to restrict the number of taxicabs in New York and Gov. Roosevelt took the mayor up on this point.

Questioned On Ordinance.

Q.—That is what we had the other day, the actual ordinance that was passed in '31 and signed by you in '32. A.—Exactly, but that was not for the limitation of cabs. That was for the increase of taxicab rates.

Q.—It didn't have to do with the increase of taxicab rates, but it created the board of control? A.—But that didn't limit in itself the provisions of the bill, the number of the taxicabs and the board of control—

Q.—It gave the board power so to do? A.—Not specifically.

Q.—But in effect? A.—The best answer to all the allegations of this conclusion is that with the powers granted taxicabs have never been limited.

Q.—But they could be? A.—Well, yes, I suppose they could be put out of business. Conditions might be set that would make it impossible to operate a taxicab.

Takes Up Sherwood Case.

Then Gov. Roosevelt went into the beginning of the mayor's acquaintance with Russell Sherwood. The mayor said Sherwood was employed by the law firm of Blaufeld & Warren when Mr. Walker joined the firm.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Did he do any personal work for you; this was while you were still practicing law? A.—He might have, yes, probably did, what time it was I don't know except that he was available for any services that were requested of him.

Q.—Did he make out your income tax returns? A.—He did. And he did every other member of the firm, I guess.

Q.—Was he authorized to sign checks for you? A.—He was not. Never had a power of attorney of any kind.

Just Made "Inspections."

Q.—Did he take care of your bank accounts? A.—After I went to the city hall. The only attention he had to give them, as I recall off hand, was inspections, was to arrange for the deposit of my salary check, which was sent always from the city hall, after I signed the pay roll, down to the law office, but if he did not do it, somebody else in the law office would have done it.

Q.—And did he keep your check accounts, personal check books? A.—They were kept in the office, in the law office.

MR. SEABURY—May we have an answer to that question, as to whether Sherwood kept his personal check books?

MAYOR WALKER—They were kept in the law office; he kept them. Some one else might have kept them, they were kept in the law office, by somebody in the law office, but I assume because of his duty it was more likely that he did most of it, or most likely that he did most of it.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Did he on the first of each month balance the check book to see if it tallied with the bank report? A.—I don't know. I never got any balance from him or anybody else.

Q.—How did you know that? A.—I didn't know it. As a matter of fact, most of the time there were times when it was too low to meet checks that I was making out, and I was told of that, but when it was all right, nobody told me, and I didn't inquire.

The mayor explained that he never allowed a city employé to do any personal work for him; that everything of this nature was sent to the law office of Blaufield & Warren.

The hearing will be resumed at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

500,000 BRITISH COTTON MEN MAY STRIKE AUG. 27

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A general strike affecting 500,000 workers in the Lancashire cotton industry was threatened today. A decision to declare a strike, effective Aug. 27, unless the employers make a "more reasonable" offer, was reached today by the central board of the northern counties' textile trade federation, representing the ten principal unions in the manufacturing section of the industry.

The present situation is a sequel to the refusal of the operatives early this year to accept either the system of working more looms per man or a reduction of wages.

STATE RELIEF NEED FOR REST OF YEAR PUT AT $26,279,475

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday submitted a report to the Reconstruction Finance corporation setting forth that a total of $26,279,475 of federal funds will be required to maintain relief work at its existing standards in distressed areas of the state during the last five months of this year. The period includes August, and the amount includes the $3,000,000 advance of funds already made by the corporation.

The report was prepared at the request of the corporation. It gave a detailed statement of local and state, public and private funds, and national funds from private organizations used for relief during 1931 and the first six months of this year. In addition it supplied specific data on relief needs in the forty-five counties to which the commission has allotted funds.

The estimates of future needs are based on "present low emergency relief standards," the commission said.

IOWA FARMERS' STRIKES SPREAD; 4,000 ON GUARD

100 Deputies Will Try to Break Blockade.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 15.—[Special.] The farmers' strike to withhold produce from markets until prices rise spread rapidly over northwestern Iowa today, with indications that it would soon invade neighboring states.

At the same time the separate strike of the milk producers for the fifth day prevented delivery of milk from farms to Sioux City and caused the sheriff of Woodbury county to swear in 100 deputies today for the purpose of coping with the 4,000 farmer pickets who are guarding all roads to the city. The armed deputies will ride the farmers' trucks and attempt to run the blockade. Thousands of gallons of milk have been dumped on the roads.

Leaders Map Plans.

In Des Moines a group of leaders of the National Farmers Holiday association gathered to make arrangements to spread the movement. It was started last Monday and was intended to remain in effect for 30 days or until the leaders decided prices had risen to a level that would make a profit for the farmers.

A mild protest for the first few days, the farmers' strike seems to be gaining momentum. At Kingsley, a small town near here, produce dealers were warned not to open for business. They complied.

A heavy steel cable was strung across the bridge at the Woodbury county line and more than 40 trucks prevented from bringing live stock into the city. The Sioux City stockyards today received 3,500 animals as compared to 6,500 a week ago and 8,500 on a corresponding day last year.

Illinois Farmers Strike.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A sellers' strike, called among central Illinois farmers for 5 a. m. today, seemed to be facing failure at the outset so far as results tonight would indicate.

Grain growers, seeing nothing attractive in the present market, were disposed to hold their grain in the bins at least until they need cash, but the truck and dairy farmers were not inclined to withhold their vegetables and milk until their products spoiled.

E. E. Kennedy, secretary of the Farmers' National union, had instructed the dairymen to sell no more milk until it reached a price of $3.17 a hundred pounds. Creameries said the order had no appreciable effect.

Truck farmers conducted their regular sales at roadside stands and commission merchants said there was no dearth of offerings.

North Dakota Strike Begins.

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 15.—(AP)—North Dakota's farm "strike," aimed at raising the price of wheat to $1 per bushel, was launched today. In Grand Forks en route to Minnesota for a series of meetings to further the wheat holding project, Dell Willis, Tolna farmer, originator of the movement, was optimistic.

Willis said reports from over the state indicated little wheat was going to market.

A plan of financing the threshing bills of farmers who hold their wheat now is being worked out by officials in northwest states, Willis said. He added that the dollar wheat movement had made progress in eleven states.

MAN, WIFE, OTHER MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH AT COLORADO RESORT

Salida, Colo., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Two youths, on an outing near here today, came upon the bodies of two men and a woman at the Wellsville Hot Springs resort. All three had been shot to death.

Authorities said the deaths apparently were caused by murder and suicide. The dead are John Lehr, 52, his wife, Daisy, 33, and W. E. Sampson, 53, of Denver. It is believed that jealousy of Lehr over attentions paid his wife by Sampson caused the tragedy.

One note, signed by the Lehrs, said: "Sampson is dead and we soon will be. He will never break up another home."

Sampson's body was found in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Lehr were in the swimming pool. In the water also were a flashlight and a thirty-two caliber revolver.

CALL LEADERS TO PLAN FINANCING OF STATE G. O. P.

Invitations to a luncheon at the Palmer house Thursday were sent to prominent Republicans yesterday by Silas Strawn, chairman of the Republican campaign fund committee for Illinois.

Mr. Strawn was reluctant to release the names of those invited until he has had acceptances.

"I can't say yet how much we hope to raise in Illinois," said the chairman. "That will likely be decided Thursday. I do feel, however, that Republican prospects are considerably brighter since President Hoover made his acceptance speech last Thursday night. The favorable reaction was amazing."

In Springfield yesterday, Franklin J. Stransky, chairman of the party's state central committee, announced the appointment of George W. Schwaner, former internal revenue collector, as director of the state Republican campaign. Schwaner expects to attend the gathering of the party chieftains at the Kankakee fair today.

The state central committee, it was announced, will include the following: William R. Allen, Peoria; Robert R. Bookwalter, Danville; Joseph Zlentek, Chicago; Orval P. Tuttle, Harrisburg, and John H. Zearing, Carbondale. The campaign is scheduled to get under way in earnest in about a month.

Greece Gives the Miracle Healing Business a Boost

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

ATHENS, Aug. 15.—A police request to the minister of interior for expulsion from Athens of Father Gymansios, alleged miracle worker, because he was pretending to heal the sick, was refused by the minister today on the ground that the priest had healed his own son after he had been given up by the greatest of foreign specialists. The minister's statement inspired hundreds of ailing persons to storm the priest's dwelling in hope of being healed.

Elmwood Park Treasurer Sought in Fund Shortage

Announcement was made at a meeting of the Elmwood Park board last night that Herman F. Bloechel, 30 years old, former treasurer of the village, was $9,500 short in his accounts. Bloechel, whose wife lives at 7917 Oakley avenue, Elmwood Park, disappeared late last month when an audit was started on his books. He was appointed treasurer last March. Search for him is now under way. The board declared that the loss was covered by insurance.

Three Tons of Aspirin Stolen; Hunt Watchman

Three tons of aspirin tablets, with a wholesale value of $13,464, were stolen from the North Pier terminal, 550 East Illinois street, between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning, police were informed yesterday by Edward P. Gibney, manager of the Bayer company. The police were searching for a Negro watchman who is missing.

Allman Weighs Plea to Put Capt. Ptacek Back in Old Job

Commissioner of Police Allman last night had under advisement a petition seeking the return of Capt. John E. Ptacek to the Lawndale police station from which he was transferred a few weeks ago. The petition was submitted by Emil Denemark, west side automobile dealer, on behalf of business men and residents of the district.

Earlier the captain had returned to his home in the Austin district, where he now is in command, and elaborated on the charges he had made that Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d] had brought about the transfer because he [Ptacek] wouldn't permit gambling in the Lawndale district. In answer to this charge Sonnenschein had declared that the shift was made by Commissioner of Police Allman because the captain had tolerated gambling.

Captain Tells Story.

"Gambling apparatus had been moved into a building in 22d street near Sacramento avenue," said the captain yesterday. "The 'front' was to be a cigar store and the proprietors were awaiting for a cigaret license before opening. Sonnenschein came to me and asked me to approve the application for the license. I took a look at the place and refused."

In that neighborhood it was reported that Vincent Gorecki, a jeweler, and two other men, who were identified as a deputy sheriff and a court bailiff, had rented a store and that gambling equipment had been moved in but never used.

"Before I went on my furlough," the captain said, "I went to see Commissioner Allman and told him that Sonnenschein had spread the word that he was going to have me transferred. The commissioner told me he was the only one ordering transfers.

Recalls Visit to Mayor.

"Also, before the mayor sailed I called at his home to wish him bon voyage. We've been friends for forty years, and if he was going to have me taken out of the Lawndale district he would have told me. I don't believe that he had anything to do with the order.

"Sonnenschein started this fight, and I'll stick to the finish. I would not have said anything about the transfer had not the alderman made the charges he has. All I want to do is to round out my fifty years on the police force at Lawndale where I have been for twenty-eight years."

Meanwhile, it was reported from Vienna, where Mayor Cermak is now visiting on his European tour, that the mayor had made a statement that he would back Allman's transfer of Capt. Ptacek. He was quoted as saying that Ptacek had been called before the chief and warned to stamp out gambling in his district.

In presenting the petition to Commissioner Allman the delegation, headed by Denemark, said that the people in the district had been satisfied with its condition and would like to have Capt. Ptacek back. After listening to them the commissioner said he would take the petition under advisement.

After reading published reports in which Ald. Sonnenschein was quoted as saying that "bombing interests" were responsible for the bombing of Denemark's home and place of business, the latter announced that he would sue the alderman for $300,000.

"The statement is not true," said Denemark, "and I'll give him a chance to try to prove his statement in court."

START ACTION TO VOID PROBATION FOR 3 GUNMEN

Judge Kelly to Hear Swanson's Protest.

A legal fight to expunge the probation granted three convicted shotgun bandits last Friday by Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court will be made by State's Attorney John A. Swanson, he announced yesterday.

The announcement was made after Prosecutor Swanson had conferred with Judge Kelly. He quoted the judge as saying:

"If you can convince me that I am wrong in granting these men probation I will be glad to expunge my ruling and hear the cases again. Otherwise, my action will stand."

Confess 4 Shotgun Holdups.

During the day Judge Kelly interrogated Sergt. Timothy Dwyer, who rearrested two of the three bandits, Clair McInerney, 24 years old, and George Dilley, 35 years old, after they had been placed on probation by Judge Kelly. The third bandit is Ralph Trimble, 30 years old. All three admitted four daylight stickups of loan companies. They used a sawed off shotgun to intimidate their victims, they admitted.

McInerney and Dilley were arraigned yesterday morning before Judge Leon Edelman in the Felony court on new charges of robbery and larceny. Their case was continued until today because of the absence of the complaining witness. Judge Edelman raised the bond of McInerney from $5,000 to $15,000 and that of Dilley from $2,500 to $10,000 on motion of Assistant State's Attorney Tom Johnson. Neither had been able to gain his liberty up to midnight last night.

Policeman Denies "Peeve."

Judge Kelly did not inquire of Sergt. Dwyer concerning the new arrest of McInerney and Dilley. He asked the policeman if he had protested to the judge in open court against the probation, pointing out that the men had records and were known to the police. Sergt. Dwyer said he had not protested to the judge but had asked the state's attorney if he should rearrest the men and had been advised to do so.

"Are you peeved because they were placed on probation?" asked the judge.

"No, your honor," answered the sergeant. "You have a different slant on life than I have, that's all."

Judge's Conscience Clear."

Judge Kelly was asked to comment on the records of the crime commission which show that he granted probation in 127 of the 629 cases he heard from February, 1931, to July, 1932.

"My conscience doesn't bother me," he said. "I have done nothing I am ashamed of. Otherwise, I have no comment to make."

The announcement that the probation would be fought in court was made by Prosecutor Swanson after a conference with his acting first assistant, Homer Dodge; Attorney Charles R. Napier, representing the Household Finance company, which frequently has been victimized by robbers, and a number of other loan company officials.

May Seek High Court Test.

"The state's attorney's office always has opposed probation for defendants convicted of robbery with a gun," said Mr. Swanson. "Judge Kelly will be asked to expunge his order granting probation to the men. If, after hearing our arguments, he refuses, a mandamus suit will be filed in the Supreme court which will test the power of Criminal court judges to grant probation to defendants convicted of robbery with a gun."

Barton Taylor, 30 years old, 4026 North Keystone avenue, was placed on probation yesterday for six months for carrying a concealed weapon by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy. Taylor threw away the gun when police arrested him in an alley behind 300 South Spaulding avenue, June 26.

PLOT TO MURDER TOKIO CABINET CHIEFS REVEALED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 16 [Tuesday].—A plot to assassinate Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, premier; Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto, home minister, and Korekiyo Takahashi, finance minister, to avenge the imprisonment of the slayers of farmer Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai was revealed today by the newspaper, Yomiuri Shimbun.

Pistols, ammunition and daggers collected by the would-be assassins have been confiscated, it was disclosed. Dr. Yoshio Imamaki of the Tsukiji hospital in Tokio was arrested yesterday as a ringleader, together with two young companions, but the others escaped.

Imamaki gave his aids $25 each to murder the officials, it was learned. The men quarreled over the money and were arrested. They confessed that Imamaki was the ringleader. It is understood that Imamaki had three chief lieutenants and a score of secondary aids who were to be used if the first group of assassins failed.

POLICEMAN GETS $100 REWARD FOR KILLING ROBBER

County Highway Policeman Fred Mulhausen, of the Willow Springs station, was given a $100 reward last night for his bravery on July 11 in killing one robber and wounding and capturing another in the vicinity of the Oak Hill Country club, south of Palos Park.

The money was given anonymously by a man who wrote that Mulhausen's "courage should be recognized." Sheriff Meyering, with Chief William Collins of the highway police, presented the reward in the presence of Mulhausen's comrades.

The robber killed by Policeman Mulhausen was Harold Lee. With two other men he was seen loitering near the golf club. Policeman Mulhausen, a crack shot, was at home and off duty when he received a call to go to the club. He intercepted the trio, killing Lee and wounding and seizing James O'Connor. O'Connor escaped from Joliet prison on May 3. He had been sentenced in 1928 for robbery.

Actress Weds Former Bank President

Frances Starr, actress, who yesterday became the bride of Robert Golden Donaldson, former Washington bank president, in ceremony at New York.

Ceremony at Hotel

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Frances Starr, the actress, was married today to Robert Golden Donaldson, former president of the Commercial National Bank of Washington. Ruth Chatterton and her new husband, George Brent, were among the small group that witnessed the ceremony, performed in the bride's hotel apartment.

After a wedding luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson left in an automobile for White mountain, where they plan to remain several weeks.

Miss Starr, whose marriage to William Haskell Coffin, portrait painter, was dissolved by a Reno divorce in May, 1929, gave her age as 42 when the license was granted earlier in the day. Donaldson, whose first wife died in 1927, said he was 55.

Others present at the simple ceremony were Robert Golden Donaldson Jr. and Wyman Cleaves Donaldson, sons of the bridegroom; Mrs. Harold Irish, his daughter; Mrs. George C. Van Tuyl and Blanche Lamore, sisters of the bride, and Ernestine Greenwood of Washington.

Thousands in Personalty Unreported.

Deputy assessors will begin a survey of personal property in the city today to discover holdings of persons and corporations who failed to file schedules for 1931 assessments. A staff of 200 workers will attack the task in the city and country towns.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs said a corps of field deputies worked in ten country towns last week. The work was begun yesterday in ten additional towns and the remaining ten will be canvassed next week. The staff found hundreds of thousands of dollars of personal property for which there were no schedules, Jacobs said.

406,771 File Returns.

The assessor mailed 680,600 schedules of which 406,771 were filled out and were returned by taxpayers. In the present canvass, persons who failed to make returns are being visited. The deputies also are examining returns of persons who did not swear to the schedules. Under the law such persons are liable to a 50 per cent penalty.

Where no return is found the deputy assessor makes an appraisal of the property. To this appraisal a 50 per cent penalty is added for failure to make a return.

Still Time to File.

Mr. Jacobs said there is still time to file schedules and avoid the penalty. He issued a warning to property owners who have not made returns in the belief they will be able to avoid estimated and penalized assessments by appeal to the board of tax appeals. He quoted a legal opinion of County Attorney Hayden Bell, which states that the board of appeals cannot review or set aside an assessment where a schedule has not been filed.

Towns visited by deputies last week are Schaumberg, Rich, Stickney, Elk Grove, Calumet, Riverside, Wheeling, Lemont, River Forest, and Hanover. Canvass is now being made in Thornton, Leyden, Palatine, Bremen, Barrington, Oak Park, Norwood Park, Orland, Maine, and Bloom.

SEXTON UPHOLDS SENIORITY RIGHT IN CIVIL SERVICE

In ruling on the seniority rights of civil service employés Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday declared invalid a policy that the civil service commission has followed in laying off employés for whom no appropriation was made in the 1932 budget. Civil service employés in the city hall believe the opinion of importance to them.

The commission's position was set forth several months ago in a statement declaring that it would not order the layoff of any employé, with certain exceptions, in order to give employment to another employé of the same rank or grade in another department who had greater seniority.

"That policy," Mr. Sexton held, "is contrary to law in that it denies to every person in the classified service the seniority rights established by the civil service act itself."

SCHOOL WARRANT BUYERS OFFER 72 CTS. A DOLLAR

Price Falls on Heavy Pay Roll Issue.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The 1931 tax anticipation warrants of the educational fund took another drop in price yesterday. Since Aug. 3 the school board has issued more than $1,750,000 of these warrants to teachers and other employés in payment of salaries for last year.

These warrants were offered for sale yesterday at four brokerage houses for 75 cents on the dollar. Purchasers were offering 70, 71, and 72. This discount of 28 to 30 per cent, in addition to a cut of more than 9 per cent in the educational pay roll, makes a heavy reduction for those teachers who are forced to sell their tax warrants.

A member of the firm in two brokerage offices was asked the reason for the large discount. One replied:

"The number of warrants offered for sale has increased. Taxes are not being paid. The tabulations of real estate payments and the number of personal property tax schedules filed shows that."

The other answered: "There are more sellers than buyers of the 1931 warrants. There is an apparent feeling that the board has not made a sincere effort to cut expenses. A customer remarked last week: 'The school board trimmed its tax levy $15,000,000 without ever touching a fad or frill.'"

The total of the unpaid salaries, payable from each school fund, and the amount of tax anticipation warrants issued against each so far, are shown as follows:

	Unpaid 1931 Salaries	Tax warrants issues as pay
Educational	$3,550,519.64	$1,776,450
Building	232,480.46	140,200
Playground	84,006.27	21,900
Totals	$3,867,006.31	$1,940,550

There are $3,700,000 more of these tax warrants yet to be issued for 1931 school salaries.

EVANSTON TURNS ON NEW STREET LIGHTS TONIGHT

First Unit Will Illuminate 33 City Blocks.

The first unit of Evanston's new $1,200,000 ornamental street lighting system will be turned on at 8:30 tonight by Mayor Charles H. Bartlett.

A motor parade under auspices of the South Evanston Business Men's association will feature the informal ceremonies. A number of civic leaders and Evanston officials will be on hand, including Commissioner of Public Works Arthur G. Hanford; Ald. A. J. Smith, chairman of the lighting committee, and Hugh Young, consulting engineer.

33 Blocks to Be Lighted.

The area to be lighted up tonight covers thirty-three city blocks, bounded by Greenleaf street on the north, South boulevard on the south, the lake on the east, and the North Western tracks on the west. The power vault where the unit will be turned on is located underground in Kedzie street, between Judson and Forest avenues.

The unit to be turned on tonight is one of the twenty-two which will make up the system, and operates 381 lighting standards. The system covers over seven and one-half square miles, sixty-five miles of city streets, and numbers nearly 5,000 standards.

"This is the largest lighting system under construction in the country," Engineer Young said last night. "Work on it was started last February and the last unit is to be completed within three months."

Power of Lights Graded.

In keeping with newest engineering trends, the Evanston lighting system is graded both in power of light and in height of the standards. In most residential sections the poles will be 14 feet high, and the lamps will be of 250 candle power. In some streets and boulevards, the standards will be 16 feet high and the lights of 400 candle-power. The lights will vary from 600 to 1,000 candle power in the business zones, with standards 18 to 20 feet high. Fountain Square will boast the highest and brightest lights, with standards 22 feet high supporting 1,000 candle power lamps.

Some of the circuits will be shut off at midnight and the others at dawn, this operation to be regulated by a clock.

ALLMAN ORDERS REVOCATION OF MOVIE'S PERMIT

Commissioner of Police Allman yesterday ordered the city motion picture censor board to revoke the permit it gave for a one day showing today of the film, "Radio Patrol," at the Empress theater, 63d and Halsted streets. The action followed receipt by Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d] of a letter from Mayor Cermak, an excerpt of which follows:

"I saw a picture on the boat called 'Radio Police Patrol.' This is a terrible gangster picture, and I am advised that the same is showing in Chicago. If that is so have Commissioner Allman stop it and advise the censor board not to permit any gangster pictures in Chicago. The 'Scarface' picture is now in Chicago also. Advise the commissioner not to permit same to show."

On investigation Commissioner Allman learned that the censor board on June 28 had refused a permit for a showing of the picture "Scarface," but that a permit had been issued for "Radio Patrol," the same picture described by the mayor as "Radio Police Patrol."

Delay World Trade Parley Until After U. S. Election

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15. — The world monetary and economic conference will not be held until after the American presidential election, it was reported here tonight. The date of the meeting is understood to have been deferred following an intimation from the American government that it might be inconvenient to appoint a representative delegation on the eve of the elections in which so many of America's leading statesmen and business men are directly and vitally concerned.

BITTEN BY MONKEY

LADY URSULA SANKEY.

CANNES, France, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The daughter of an English duke nursed a bite on one of her ears today as a result of a monkey's spirited visit to a tennis match here Sunday. Prominent persons, including some Americans, were scattered by the animal's threatening antics, but aside from the bite on the ear of Lady Ursula Filmer Sankey, daughter of the duke of Westminster, there were no other casualties.

The animal, a pet of the new Spanish Tennis club, broke out of its cage while the finals of a match were being played, climbed on the seats and attacked Lady Ursula. It next jumped to the shoulder of Countess Noailles. Women screamed and there was a rush for the exits. As the monkey ran in their direction some of the Americans among the 700 spectators present left their seats. Among them were Irving Netcher of Chicago and Mrs. Netcher, who is the former Rozika Dolly; Alfred Lewisohn, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fisher of Chasseuil. The panic ended with the capture of the monkey by the duke of Dayan, son of Countess Noailles, and the match proceeded to its end.

EDITH M'CORMICK SHOWS FURTHER GAIN IN STRENGTH

"I'll Get Well," She Tells Friends.

Yesterday was the most favorable day Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick has spent since her illness became serious, reports from her suite in the Drake hotel revealed. Her condition on Sunday was markedly improved over the previous days, and yesterday was even more encouraging. Her gain in strength and brightness was the basis for an optimistic prediction she made to those about her.

"I'm going to get well," she said.

Mrs. McCormick's spirits have been lighter during the last week than in many years, according to the few permitted entrance to her room. She is visibly heartened by the presence and solicitude of her children and her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, who pay frequent visits to her each day, often bearing gifts. She asks frequently, also, for reports on the progress of her younger daughter, Mrs. Mathilde Oser, who is on her way here from Switzerland and is due to land in New York this morning.

Rumors were current yesterday that John D. Rockefeller Jr. would meet his niece at the pier and make the trip to Chicago with her, perhaps by airplane. Inquiries at his New York office, however, were met with the assertion that Mr. Rockefeller was "out of the state" and that his plans were not known.

46 Killed in France During Catholic Holiday

PARIS., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The newspaper Le Matin estimated today that 46 persons had been killed in accidents in France during the four day celebration of the feast of the assumption of the Blessed Virgin. Automobile accidents accounted for serious injuries to 119 persons.

PROBE JUDGE'S QUICK DISMISSAL OF MORON CASE

Brother Substitutes for Defendant in Court.

As a result of protests to the Old Portage park commissioners that Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson had first dismissed and then reinstated and continued the case of an alleged moron charged with annoying two small girls in the park, the commissioners arranged last night to have their president, John Butler, and State Senator Frank Huckin Jr., a member of the board, in court today when the case is called again. They will demand that the offender be punished.

The case is that of John Italia, 35 years old, 1420 North Parkside avenue. Park Policeman John Spatkowski arrested him Friday evening on the complaint of two small girls that he had annoyed them in the park, which is at Belle Plaine and Long avenues. Italia, it was learned later, had been arrested three times before on similar charges, and once was fined $100.

Brother Appears in Court.

The father of one of the girls is Harry Rozinski, a city policeman. When the case was called before Judge Erickson in Shakespeare avenue police court on Saturday Rozinski was present. Italia, who had been released on bond, did not appear. Instead, his brother, Sylvester Italia, stepped before the bench.

Rozinski asserted last night that he had informed Judge Erickson at once that the defendant was not in court. In spite of this, business men told the park commissioners, the judge asked the two little girls if the man before them, Sylveater, was the one who had annoyed them. When they replied that he was not, the judge said: "Case is dismissed."

Policeman Rozinski immediately collared Sylvester Italia before the judge's eye and marched him out to the lockup in the Shakespeare station. The policeman said he was followed by the judge's bailiff and informed that the case had not been dismissed, but only continued. Sylvester Italia was locked up, however, on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Judge Erickson's Version.

Judge Erickson appeared confused when he was asked last night to give his side of the case. He first charged that the police had taken the wrong man into court. When it was pointed out to him that this was impossible, since John Italia had been released on bail, the judge said:

"I didn't dismiss the case. I only dismissed the man who was before me, because he was not the right defendant. I ordered the proper prisoner arrested and will punish him as he deserves."

Judge Erickson was then asked if he did not believe that Sylvester Italia had attempted to impose on the ocurt by appearing in place of the defendant, and if so, why he had not held him for contempt of court instead of dismissing him.

"I'll hold him for contempt tomorrow," he said.

Policemen Spatkowski and Rozinski charged that they had been approached before the court hearing on Saturday with a request that the case be "fixed." They refused.

Rapist Arraigned Again.

Michael Sciales, arrested on Saturday as he left Joliet penitentiary after serving a year for the rape of a 16 year old girl, was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Leon Edelman on another charge of rape.

The charge was made by the mother of a 14 year old girl, who declared that Sciales raped her daughter while he was out on bond in 1929 pending disposition of his appeal of the first sentence. Judge Edelman continued the hearing until today.

10 Foot Boa Constrictor Escapes; Police Hunt It

GENERAL SALES TAX FROM NEXT CONGRESS EXPECTED BY SMOOT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—As a result of a movement for the removal of inequalities in the new tax law, a general manufacturers' sales tax will be proposed early in the next congress.

Today Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee expressed the belief that when congress reconvenes a reexamination of the tax law in the light of business conditions as they will then exist would be necessary.

"There are inequalities in the new law passed at the last session and these inequalities must, in my opinion, be corrected," Senator Smoot said. "Results of the new rates will be apparent by fall. Personally, I think that the bottom in the business depression has been reached and that conditions are getting better everywhere in the country. I believe it will be a gradual upward movement."

Senator Smoot explained that until business had substantially improved there could be little hope of a downward revision of federal taxes.

Sales Tax to Aid Poor.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The end of the special session of the legislature was in sight tonight when the Pinchot administration and legislative leaders agreed to finance unemployment relief by imposing a general sales tax of one per cent for six months. Agricultural products alone were exempt from the bill. During the six months that it is proposed the measure shall be effective its proceeds, it is estimated, will aggregate $15,000,000.

Flu Epidemic Among 1,800 in Jail at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A fight was being made tonight against a general epidemic of influenza among prisoners in Los Angeles county jail. Of the 1,800 prisoners, 100 were in the jail hospital and more than half the cases had been diagnosed as flu. A medical examination of every prisoner was ordered.

2 TEACHERS SUED FOR $50,000, BUT CAUSE IS SECRET

Three school teachers are involved in a mysterious suit for $50,000 which was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Attorney George A. Schneider.

The plaintiff is Miss Frances E. Bidwill, of 3523 West Jackson boulevard. The two defendants are Miss Helen McGregor of 3342 West Congress street and Miss Marguerite Gerrity of 931 Wolfram street. Records show Miss Bidwill to be attached to the Marshall school, Miss Gerrity to the Mulligan school, and Miss McGregor to the Tennyson school.

Neither Miss Bidwill nor Miss McGregor would discuss the action. Miss Gerrity could not be reached. Attorney Schneider said that he could not comment on the nature of the suit until he had prepared its declaration.

PREDICT HOOVER WILL MAKE ONE TALK IN CHICAGO

Friends Think He'll Break Portico Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—President Hoover will go to the middle west probably Chicago, to deliver one campaign speech close friends of the Republican presidential candidate predicted today. While admitting that no definite decision has been reached these officials said that with Gov Franklin D. Roosevelt scheduled to make a barn storming tour of the west and far west, President Hoover would be unable to adhere to his original tentative plan of conducting a strictly White House south portico campaign.

HENRY J. ALLEN.
[H. & E. Photo.]

On his return from his fishing trip in Chesapeake bay the President will find that the speaking plans of the Democratic nominee have served to strengthen the belief of his friends that he should deliver at least one western speech. Should Gov. Roosevelt speak at Des Moines, it is considered certain that Hoover will be rushed to the west to speak on the farm problem.

Advised to Make Trip.

Henry J. Allen, publicity representative for the Republican national committee, is said to have advised the President to counter attack in the west after the New York governor has completed his tour and returned to Albany. The present plan is to have the President make but one address, returning immediate to the White House. Members of the cabinet and other headliners among the Republican speakers are already preparing to answer Gov. Roosevelt in every community where he delivers an address.

Although the President went to the Chesapeake bay area largely for rest and relaxation the guests he took with him made it apparent that politics will share the spotlight with the fish as the major topic of interest. Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde are both with the President and both are much better known for their interest in politics than for their prowess with the fishing rod.

Would Avoid Prohibition.

It is expected the President will give considerable thought to the subjects he plans to stress in the speeches he is slated to deliver before the American people go to the polls in November. Reports today are that Mr. Hoover is anxious to relegate prohibition to a back seat during the rest of the campaign and fight out his battle with Gov. Roosevelt on economic issues.

The stampede of the professional drys back to the Hoover camp immediately after the notification ceremonies at which the President denounced the 18th amendment is reported to be a matter of some embarrassment to the Republican leaders. Some of his political advisers have expressed fear that the eager scramble of the drys for a place on the Republican band wagon may have the effect of scaring away the extreme wets in the party.

Drys Favor Hoover.

Whether their presence will help or hinder, the majority of the organized drys are now with President Hoover. He is not only being indorsed by them but many are looking with friendly eyes upon his program for scuttling most of the 18th amendment and allowing wet states to have liquor but not the saloon. In this connection Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied dry forces, sent this telegram to the White House today:

"I disagree with some of your conclusions but believe your reelection will safeguard some of the gains made under the 18th amendment, will defeat naked repeal, will preserve the principle of federal control of a national problem and will be a long step toward answering one of the nation's greatest social questions. You have restated for us the great fact of an American government which is at once a federal government whose life principle is majority rule. Here lie values that transcend single issues and a preservation of which will advance the interest of every worthy cause. I march with you."

Hospital Fireman Killed By Fall of Burning Soot

Burns suffered when a mass of glowing soot fell upon him caused the death last night of Henry Morgan, 36 years old, 7607 Prairie avenue, in St. Luke's hospital. He was a fireman employed at the hospital. Yesterday morning he was cleaning the smoke stack leading from the furnace. After loosening some of the soot Morgan stuck his head through a small opening. The mass soot dropped upon him.

FREED IN COURT

Samuel G. Rowe, 42 years old, a blind man living at 2120 South Turner avenue, was freed by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy when he appeared in South State street court yesterday charged with disorderly conduct. He was arrested on July 26 by Policeman Marshall Harris of the Englewood station when he failed to heed an order to "move along."

Rowe asked a jury trial when he was arraigned July 28 before Judge Thomas A. Green. He was accompanied by 15 other blind men, who appeared to testify in his behalf. He was ordered taken to the Psycopathic hospital for examination. Yesterday he again appeared in court under the impression that Judge Green was still sitting there, so he presented a petition for a change of venue. Informed that Judge Fardy was on the bench, he agreed to an immediate trial, but Policeman Harris was not present to prosecute and the case was dismissed. Rowe insisted that he was selling small articles and was not begging.

PRINCIPLES, NOT CANDIDATES, IS W.C.T.U. MOTTO

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Principles, rather than candidates, probably will form the basis of any political action the Woman's Christian Temperance union may decide upon, Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., said at the national convention of the organization here today.

"It is not the custom of the union to support candidates. We support principles," she said.

Her statements grew out of the announcement of Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, that the groups for which he spoke would support President Hoover for reelection.

The national president pointed out that the organization was composed of women from every part of the country, and thus represented both the Democratic and Republican viewpoints.

Despite the absence of a state prohibition law in New York state, said Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the New York state Y. C. T. U., there is no open sale of liquor in New York City.

"The New York prohibition law was repealed," she said, "through the activity of a Republican assemblyman who wanted to put Gov. Al Smith in the hole and spoil his chances to run for the presidency."

Searchers after a drink, she asserted, although there are less than 200 federal agents in the state to enforce liquor laws, must "travel down dark alleys and make their way through locked doors with passwords or passkeys to get a drink."

Mrs. Gann Stops in City on Way to Curtis Ceremony

Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Charles E. Curtis, left Chicago over the Santa Fé railroad last night for Topeka, where she will attend her brother's notification ceremonies Thursday. Mrs. Gann arrived in the morning and was met by Mrs. Silas Strawn, who was her hostess for the day. Mrs. Webster Knight of Providence, R. I., daughter of Vice President Curtis, arrived a the afternoon and departed with Mrs. Gann. A son-in-law of Vice President Curtis, Col. P. C. George, United States army, also plans to attend the ceremony, Mrs. Gann said.

GARNER GIVES N. Y. A CHANCE TO LOOK HIM OVER

Apologizes for Texas of 1928; Lauds Smith.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Speaker John Nance Garner, Gov. Roosevelt's running mate, stopped off in New York today to show the eastern Democrats, as he expressed it, what "a Rio Grande Texan" looks like. The candidate for Vice President answered questions for the politicians at a party luncheon and told newspaper men in an interview that, far from being a radical, he was considered a conservative in his home state.

"Some of the press has seen proper to suggest that the country wouldn't be safe with me," remarked Mr. Garner, adding that if anybody had a few dollars left after the last three years, "I'm not going to take it away from you."

The speaker told 40 eastern leaders that he always believed former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would have made "a great President of the United States," and, after a brief pause, concluded, "and I still believe it."

Regrets Texas Intolerance.

The eagle faced, gray haired man from the Rio Grande apologized for the religious intolerance of his state in the past with tears in his rather piercing eyes. Replying to a question which included a direct reference to the Ku Klux Klan, he said:

"I apologize for the state of Texas having gone Republican in 1928. . . . I hear that I am considered a handicap to the ticket in the east. Of course I regret that. It reflects of the bigotry we had in 1928. I have suffered from that more than you know. I have suffered politically and personally — threats, attacks which you people know nothing about."

There was an embarrassed silence broken by a question from a Rhode Island party leader concerning Mr. Garner's stand on prohibition.

For Unconditional Repeal.

"That is a happy subject for me," said the speaker, smiling. "I am in favor of completely revoking the 18th amendment. I never voted for it. I feel today as I did when it was introduced. I voted against it then on principle. Today I am against it for that same reason with the additional reason that it is not workable in this country. My position on that question is for outright repeal, with no conditions, of the 18th amendment.

"I am at your command. I have just visited my boss, and I told him I was there to do whatever I was told. . . . We down in Texas love the same flag you love. We want good government returned to the people and not in the hands of the few as it has been for the last decade."

Joseph A. Maynard, Massachusetts state chairman, asked for some comment on a "whispering campaign that you bolted Gov. Smith's candidacy."

Never Scratched a Ticket.

"I have never scratched a Democratic ticket," said the speaker continuing with his previously quoted remarks about Mr. Smith.

Regarding the east, Mr. Garner was optimistic in his statement.

"I want you to know," he said, "that I have been in accord with the people of the east for the last thirty years. I think I understand their ideas somewhat, and I am firmly convinced I can work with them in the matter of legislation. I have been accused in my home state of being more of a conservative than a progressive, and have been attacked by the progressives. I think I have some progressive ideas. I do not believe money and property should be in the hands of few. I do not want to take anybody's property away. I have some myself—a little. That is furthest from my mind."

Economic Questions Vital.

Mr. Garner said prohibition was not the most important question to be discussed in the campaign. He placed economic questions as being the most important. The speaker said the southwest was a long way from New York and "not much interested in what Gov. Roosevelt did about the Mayor Walker case."

Mr. Garner said he expected to complete his speaking itinerary before he left for Washington, possibly tomorrow night.

He said that campaigns used to last six or seven months and "now you can do all your campaigning in 30 days." The speaker said he would return to Texas soon to visit his mother and that he did not know exactly when he would begin his speaking tour.

"About the time Gov. Roosevelt starts west, I may start east," said the Texan.

Mr. Garner concluded his session with the press with the parting comment that "all I know about campaigning is to tell the truth to the folks. I've never misrepresented anything to anybody. If they don't want me, then that's all right."

MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT ASSAILED BY PRIEST ON BIRTH CONTROL

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The assertion that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, is setting a bad example to the women of the nation by approving the birth control movement was made from a Roman Catholic pulpit here yesterday and repeated in a brief interview today by the Rev. John A. Grogan, pastor of the Church of the Guardian Angels.

[A. P. Photo.]

In calling attention to the fact that the Feast of the Assumption was being celebrated, Father Grogan remarked from the pulpit that Catholic women should take the Virgin Mary for a pattern rather than some of the women prominent in current life. He went on to say that it was most regrettable that a woman in the position of Mrs. Roosevelt should be giving moral support to the birth control movement.

HOOVER SAMPLES FISHING SPOTS IN CHESAPEAKE BAY

Solomons Island, Md., Aug. 15.—(AP)—From a marine speedboat and under a cloudless sky, President Hoover today sampled the famous fishing spots of Chesapeake bay and early tonight was riding a smooth sea on the commerce department inspection boat Sequoia for an unannounced destination.

If any catches were made by the President, who is on his first extended vacation in a year and a half, newspaper men in a small cruiser following the Sequoia were not informed. They, as well as photographers in another boat, were requested to keep a safe distance from Mr. Hoover's craft.

After a pleasant moonlight ride down the Potomac last night, the President arose early and tried his hand at deep sea fishing at the mouth of the bay from the United States marine motor boat. After being out an hour or more, he returned to the Sequoia in time to see a marine seaplane drop papers and mail from the White House.

Pulling anchor, the Sequoia moved up the bay and late today was about eight miles off Solomons Island when the chief executive again took to the speedboat for some more fishing.

Returning to the Sequoia, the signal was given to proceed on up the bay to a quiet anchorage for the night.

FREED OF RUM CHARGE.

Joseph Reed, 222 New York street, Aurora, was freed yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker on charges of violating the prohibition law.

ABOLISH RULE BY THE PEOPLE! GERMANY URGED

Junkers Ask Von Papen to Scrap Parliament.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 15—Nationalist and Junker leaders today urged Chancellor Franz von Papen's regime to abolish all pretense at parliamentary government.

"Make a 'revolution from above,'" implored Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader and henchman of former Kaiser Wilhelm, in an official proclamation. "Abolish parliamentarianism and govern with ruthless energy."

Germany's swirling political scene also developed the possibility that Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, imperialistic minister of defense and "strong man" of the present cabinet, will be chosen to replace Von Papen as chancellor. Political dopesters also linked the name of Franz Bracht, deputy federal commissioner of Prussia, with the post of premier of that powerful state.

Hitler Calls Off Parley.

The country continued to speculate excitedly on the results of President Paul von Hindenburg's rejection on Saturday of Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, as his chancellor. Hitler's next move, however, remained a secret. He called off indefinitely today the meeting he had scheduled for tomorrow of Nazi representatives from all over the country. Although he issued no explanation of his action, it is believed he wishes more time to mull over the situation created by the presidential rebuff.

The Nazi leader also ordered an eight day furlough for his "storm troops" beginning today.

The fact that Hitler, in his brief audience with Von Hindenburg, demanded the same power assumed by Mussolini after his march on Rome, was verified today in a semi-official communique issued by the Von Papen government. This document reiterated the charge that Hitler broke his preelection pledge to coöperate with the present régime.

Tell Why Hitler Rejected Offer.

Although Hitler refused to talk, his henchmen made public, "in the name of the 37 per cent of Germany's voters who support him," some political rhetoric explaining why their "man of iron" refused to accept a minor position in the government.

"It was a transparent effort to burden our leader with responsibility without giving him the power to take all measures which he deemed necessary," the statement said. "Acceptance of a minor post in the cabinet would wrest the weapon from the only hand which is able to cut the Gordian knot of Germany's fate. The leader remained true to himself, to his movement and to the nation by refusing to sell out for the sake of a few ministerial posts.

"Our leader will not stand for a policy of shilly shallying half measures. Only a policy with boldness of action can save the nation today. This was the will of the people as expressed in the reichstag elections. German statesmen must heed it."

Form Advisory Council to Plan Auto Safety Legislation

An advisory safety council consisting of the city's policing, traffic and public safety experts has been organized by Police Commissioner James P. Allman to plan a legislative program to reduce automobile accidents. The first meeting will be held today in the commissioner's office.

Included in the council are Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works; Coroner Frank J. Walsh, Judge John J. Sonsteby, chief justice of the municipal court; Elmer Stevens, member of the mayor's advisory commission; Capt. Timothy Howard of the South Park police; Capt. U. J. Sammis of the Lincoln park police; Capt. William Schramm of the West Park police, and Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer.

Study Law Enforcement.

Commissioner Allman said yesterday that in addition to planning for an educational and legislative program to reduce traffic hasards, the council also would study enforcement of the present safety laws.

Robert M. Haskins, 21 years old, University of Michigan junior, and Betty Jean Dostal, 17 years old, daughter of Charles A. Dostal, Westinghouse sales official, narrowly escaped death last night when their automobile was forced off the road by another car west of North Chicago, turned over three times and burst into flames. The two climbed from the wreckage with only minor injuries.

Returning from Milwaukee.

Haskins, who is the son of George E. Haskins, resident partner of Eastman, Dillon & Co., brokers, was driving Miss Dostal home from Silver Cliff lodge, Wauwatosa, Wis. Miss Dostal lives at 233 Fairview road, Glencoe.

Michael Meeman, 38 years old, 933 Montana street, was fatally injured yesterday in an automobile collision at Garfield boulevard and Crawford avenue. Edward B. Cunnigham, 40 years old, an employé of the G. H. Hammond Packing company, was seriously injured.

Meeman's death and three others increased the automobile death toll in the county since Jan. 1 to 722. The other victims:

John Larson, 27 years old, Addison, Ill. Died last night in the West Lake hospital, Melrose Park, a short time after he was thrown from a truck when it swerved sharply in avoiding a collision at Washington boulevard and Mannheim road, Bellwood.

Mrs. Frieda Kell, 58 years old, 705 Taylor street, Oak Park. Died in the Belmont hospital. She was hit at Irving Park boulevard and Central avenue Sunday night.

William Moore, 63 years old, colored, 2311 Fulton street. Died in the County hospital of injuries suffered Friday at Western avenue and Fulton street.

Three Injured in Collision.

Three persons suffered skull fractures last night in a collision of two automobiles at Dodge avenue and Lyon street, Evanston. They are Mrs. Helen Bolotin, 33 years old, 2701 Ainslie street; Mandel Bolotin, 76, of 3219 Eastwood avenue, her father-in-law, and Miss Sarah Solomon, 43, of 3148 Wilson avenue. They were taken to St. Francis hospital.

The three were riding in an auto driven by Mrs. Bolotin's husband, Samuel, when it crashed with a car operated by Arthello Nolan, 2211 Foster street, Evanston. Nolan, police said, had been sought for several days on a warrant charging reckless driving. As a result of last night's accident an additional charge of the same nature was made against him.

Hold Death Car Suspect.

George Flanigan, 28 years old, 6838 Lowe avenue, a mechanic, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Lillian Putz, 24 years old, 6740 South Lincoln street, who was fatally injured by an automobile at 71st street and Western avenue Saturday. The motorist failed to stop.

Shortly after the accident Flanigan's auto scraped fenders with another car at 86th street and Western avenue, and police found traces of blood on his car. Witnesses identified him as the driver of the car which killed Miss Putz. Flanigan denied the charge.

Chicago Woman Killed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Miss Marguerite Horne of Chicago, died here today of a broken back suffered in an automobile accident north of Lebanon, Saturday night. She was riding with A. H. Hutchinson when the car went into a ditch. Hutchinson, who was unhurt, pulled his wife, son and Miss Horne from the car as it caught fire. Miss Horne worked as a maid for the Hutchinson family.

Oak Park Man Killed.

Newcastle, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Harold Keenon, 47, of Oak Park, Ill., died here today from injuries suffered last night when his automobile turned over west of Knightstown. Keenon was en route from a vacation trip to Kentucky. Mrs. Keenon and two children were unhurt.

Donald Crisp, English Actor, Weds Screen Writer

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Donald Crisp, English movie director and actor, and Jane Murfin, screen writer, were married today in Ventura. He gave his age as 45 and she gave hers as 43. She is best known as the writer of stories in which the film dog Strongheart achieved fame. The couple's plans were intended to be secret. They left here by automobile without disclosing the purpose of the trip, but friends learned it was a marriage and honeymoon.

BONHAM DENIED NEW STAY; TO BE EXECUTED FRIDAY

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson at Springfield yesterday denied executive clemency for Howard C. Bonham, who is under sentence to be electrocuted next Friday for the murder of Paul H. Tulupan on Dec. 13, 1930. Bonham had been granted stays of execution several times since his conviction by a jury.

H. C. BONHAM.

Bonham, who is 30 years old, was identified as the bandit who shot Tulupan with a sawed off shotgun in the Claridge Hotel grill, 1244 North Dearborn street, of which Tulupan was manager. He escaped with $35, but was captured a week later. He admitted several robberies, but denied the murder. He did not take the stand at his trial.

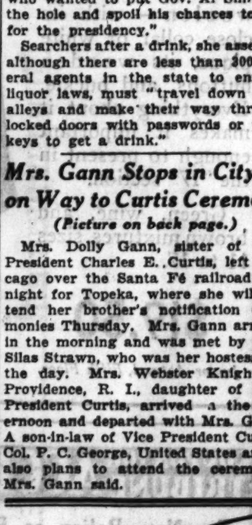
END DANDRUFF— ITCHY SCALP— FALLING HAIR



EIGHTY-FIVE per cent of all cases of hair loss result from two causes—(1) lack of nourishment for the growing hair and (2) local scalp disorders.

Both of these causes of baldness can be eliminated by Thomas treatment. It stimulates the dormant sources of nourishment (increases the blood supply in the scalp) and overcomes abnormal scalp conditions, such as dandruff.

If you have any of these aggravating symptoms of approaching baldness—dry or oily hair, itchy scalp, falling hair, or thin hair—consult a Thomas specialist today. No charge will be made for the consultation or scalp examination. He'll show you how Thomas treatment is ending dandruff, stopping hair fall, and growing hair for thousands of others, and how it can produce the same results for you.

NEGRO CHORUS NOTED FEATURE OF FESTIVAL

2,000 to Take Part in Saturday Program.

TICKETS 25 CENTS EACH

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival to be held Saturday night at 7:30 p. m. at Soldiers' field may be obtained from THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, in the lobby of Tribune Tower, from TRIBUNE news carriers and by sending check or money order to the Festival Ticket Bureau, room 530, Tribune Tower. They are 25 cents each.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

No single feature in the Chicagoland Music Festivals has awakened more enthusiastic comment than the spirituals sung by a great massed chorus of Negroes. They made a tremendous impression on the first program, and the impression continued to grow. The result has been that the audience at Soldiers' field next Saturday night will have an opportunity to hear a Negro chorus of 2,000 voices directed by five notable conductors of the race, James A. Mundy, J. Wesley Jones, Edward Boatner, Elmer A. Simpson, and W. E. Myricks.

Thirty-seven Groups Join.

There has been extraordinary interest in the assembling of this great choral unit. A list before me states that no less than thirty-seven Negro churches and Negro choral organizations have contributed singers to build up the total number. They have not only contributed but they have worked. Religious leaders have encouraged the movement. Churches have been thrown open for rehearsal purposes. Rehearsals have been attended by the Rev. J. H. Lorenzo Smith of Ebenezer Baptist church, the Rev. W. D. Shannon of St. Mary's A. M. E. church, the Rev. Joseph M. Evans of Metropolitan Community church, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward of Greater Bethel A. M. E. church, and the Rev. O. B. Thompson, assistant pastor of Pilgrim church.

The Directors Assist.

One rehearsal was held at Ebenezer Baptist church, another at Quinn Chapel A. M. E. church, a third at Pilgrim Baptist church, twelve more at Metropolitan Community church. Among the directors, in addition to those previously mentioned, who have joined in at rehearsals in a wholesouled and unselfish effort to make the event a success have been Madeline Hawkins, Theodore Frye, Antoinette Tompkins, James Kendricks, Eddie McField, Tennyson Butler, Cleo Dickerson-Holloway, Raymond Walton, Mrs. Tina Peck Thomas, King DeLong, C. C. Mason, E. C. Welch, F. S. Perdomo, and E. Grundy. To these was added the efficient assistance of A. A. Brown, manager of the Umbrian Glee club.

Two groups will be sung, each begun by appearances of the Um-Fed-Ett, which would seem to be a combination of the Umbrian, Federal, and Dett choruses. Singing in the first part "Wait Till I Put On My Crown" and in the second "Down By the River Side," they will be followed in the first part by "I'll Never Turn Back," by R. Nathaniel Dett, "O Southland" by J. R. Johnson, and "Go Down, Moses," in the Noble Cain arrangement, and in the second by the spirituals "Walk Together, Chillun," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Walk in Jerusalem, Jes' Like John," and "After While."

Anent the Conductors.

A word about the conductors. James A. Mundy was born in Maysville, Kentucky, is a graduate of the normal department of Simmons university, Louisville, and of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, Chicago. He took the first Negro chorus to sing in Orchestra hall in 1913 and again at the Lincoln jubilee in the Coliseum in 1915. Since then he has made many appearances as conductor of concert, oratorio, and opera.

J. Wesley Jones, born in Nashville and a graduate of Walden university, obtained his musical education in Chicago. He is the former president and present executive secretary of the National Association of Negro Musicians and the director of the Metropolitan church choir.

Boatner from New Orleans.

Edward H. Boatner comes from New Orleans and studied music in Boston. He is a baritone, director of the Pilgrim Baptist church choir and three other choral organizations, and ranks as an authority on Negro music.

Elmer A. Simpson was born in Kansas, and has studied and taught music in Chicago since 1926. He is director of the Grant Memorial A. M. E. church choir, the Dett Male ensemble, and the Umbrian Glee club.

W. E. Myricks, born in Pensacola and brought up in Montgomery, has been a Chicagoan since 1923. He is the organizer and director of the Federal Glee club.

This is a partial picture of a great undertaking. The Negro is proud of his spirituals, and he has a right to be.

ISABELLA CHORUS WINS

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

The Daughters of Isabella chorus, of the Order of Daughters of Isabella, directed by C. A. Hutter, was awarded first place in the Chicago women's chorus contest of the Chicagoland Musical Festival held last night in the Drake hotel. The winners sang the contest number, "Salutation," by Gaines, and "Listen to the Lamb," by Dett.

The judges, Dr. J. Lewis Browne, supervisor of music in the public schools, and Lillian Rosedale Goodman, singer-composer, named the Grieg Ladies' chorus, directed by Joel Mossberg, second, and the Cecilian chorus of South Chicago Y. M. C. A., sponsored by the Daily Calumet and conducted by Ida Linn Cooley, third. Other choruses in the contest were the Cathryn Bennett ensemble, directed by Cathryn Bennett; the Ladies of Isabella, led by Mr. Hutter, and the Hinsdale-Clarenden Women's chorus, directed by Margaretta Shott.

Mrs. Edmund J. Tylor was in charge of the contests.

The winning group will contest Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Drake hotel against the out-of-town choruses, the victor to be heard at Soldiers' field Saturday night at the Chicagoland Music Festival.

The following Chicago male choruses will contest tonight at 7:30 o'clock: Polish Representative choir, Hawthorne Male chorus, Irving Park Y. M. C. A. chorus, Deborah-American Commonwealth Glee club, Woodlawn Post, No. 175, American Legion Glee club, Allerton Glee club, Federal Glee club, West Chicago Community High School Boys' Glee club, Chicago Umbrian Glee club and the Kearsarge Male Glee club.

Although the All-Chicago Band, directed last summer at the festival concert by Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists in the public schools, will not play Saturday night, any boy or girl who was in that group may play with the massed bands under the direction of Victor Grabel. A meeting of those who wish to participate in this band will be held at the office of the Music Festival Editor on the fourth floor of Tribune Tower Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The numbers to be played will be three marches, "Stars and Stripes Forever," "U. S. Field Artillery," and "Liberty Bell," all composed by Sousa.

Winning Women's Chorus in Festival Contest

The Daughters of Isabella chorus, directed by C. A. Hutter, won the Chicago women's chorus contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival, held last night in the Drake hotel. The chorus was organized in 1931. The members are Kathleen Connolly, Catherine Walsh, Mary Lawson, Mildred Molitor, Rose De Kranzo, Mary Gorman, Mary Plakovick, Margaret Beers, Mary McDonald, Mary McAvoy, Florence Lawson, Anna Arff, Marion Carroll, Virginia Salek, Augusta Friede, Barbara Taylor, Margaret Morris, Helen O'Boyle, Mae Gudgeon, Elizabeth Trenck, Margaret Callahan, Florence Moran, Edith Dorn, Mildred Seymour, and Gertrude Dorn. Six choruses were entered in the contest. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Officials of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs are boosting for the great "song battle" which will be held between the two organizations Saturday night during the Chicagoland Music Festival. National, city and district heads practiced the contest song, "America, the Beautiful," at Tribune tower. Left to right: Fred C. W. Parker, Kiwanis international secretary, leading; Jules F. Cornelius, Kiwanis lieutenant governor; Frank J. Tyrrell, chairman, All-Chicago Kiwanis clubs; Melvin Jones, Lions international secretary; Frank J. BIRD HAVEN, 115 ACRE TRACT, TO BE GIVEN TO CHICAGO UNIVERSITY

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Bird Haven, a 115 acre tract of unusually interesting woodland 230 miles south of Chicago, in Richland county, is to be given to the University of Chicago for an outdoor workroom where botanists and zoölogists may carry on their studies of plant and animal life.

Founded in 1906 by Robert Ridgway, the ornithologist, the original tract consisted of 18 acres. He intended it to be not only a bird sanctuary but also an arboretum and planted many trees and shrubs.

Through the efforts of the Bird Haven Memorial association, a national organization, and the generosity of Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, 97 acres have been added to Bird Haven's original 18 and a fund raised sufficient to complete the work Dr. Ridgway began and to maintain it. The fund, known as the Robert Ridgway Memorial, will be administered through the university.

New Independent Irish Army to Fight Coercion, Chief Says

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A new "white" army is being formed in the Irish Free State with the announced purpose of maintaining law and order.

Dr. O'Higgins, president of the volunteer division of the Saorstat Army Comrades' association, declared today that his organization is neither a menace nor a challenge to the Free State government.

There already are two armies in the Free State—the "green" force of Saorstat regulars and the "red" Irish Republican army, which was an illegal organization under the old Cosgrave government.

Object of New Army Is Peace.

"We only stand between the people and the menace of secret organizations," Dr. O'Higgins said. "Our division is not a military organization likely to precipitate war, and our immediate object is peace. There is no intention to issue arms and there will be no drilling so long as drilling remains illegal in this country. The backbone of the organization consists, of course, of men already trained.

"Unless some organization attempts to stand between the people and intimidation the growth of communist principles in the near future will result in chaos and anarchy."

The "white" volunteers are accepted as a direct challenge to the Irish republican army, for it is against that army that the charge of intimidation frequently has been flung. Recruits are flocking to join the division and it is anticipated that within a few weeks Dr. O'Higgins, who is a brother of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the Free State, who was assassinated on July 10, 1927, will have under his command a formidable force of trained men. And there is no shortage of guns.

Republican Leader Shot.

George Gilmore, a prominent member of the Irish republican army, and T. J. Ryan were wounded in a revolver battle with police at Kilrush, County Clare, last midnight. Gilmore was one of the men sentenced by a special military tribunal for his political activities under the former Cosgrave government. He was released after Eamon de Valera became president.

President de Valera and Mrs. de Valera were among a throng of 30,000 persons who attended an impressive religious ceromony today on the hill of Slane, County Meath, where St Patrick lighted the paschal fire in the year 433.

CITIZENS' CAMP WILL PAY HONOR TO MRS. PATTEN

The 2,000 members of the citizens' military training camp at Fort Sheridan today will celebrate Patten day in honor of Mrs. James Patten, who donated money for the camp athletic field. Mrs. Patten, widow of the wheat king, announced yesterday that she would be present for the morning drill and would lunch at the camp. More than 200 of the citizen soldiers will compete this afternoon in a track meet on Patten field.

STATE POLICE PROTECT AUTOS IN DIXMOOR TRAP

2 Assigned to 'Chaperon' Village Force.

A motorist sped merrily down Western avenue yesterday into the village limits of Dixmoor [pop. 844]. As he passed 136th street, the northern limit of the hamlet, a smartly belted, khaki-clad officer swept past him on a motorcycle and motioned him to the side of the road.

Too late the motorist remembered that last week, in reply to charges that the village was conducting a speed trap to enrich the local treasury, Mayor Charles Special and the village trustees had increased the police force from two to seven men. His anxiety was somewhat eased, however, by the smile with which the officer greeted him as he walked to the side of his car.

Just a Friendly Warning.

"It's all right, mister," the policeman assured him. "I'm not going to arrest you. I just wanted to warn you that the local cops are running a speed trap here, so watch your step until you get out of Dixmoor."

"Th-thanks," blurted the surprised motorist. "But, say, who are you?"

"I'm a state highway policeman," was the reply. "They've got two of us detailed here to sort of chaperon these local fellows and see that there isn't any rough stuff."

Sergt. Edward Van Laningham of the state highway police, who assigned Patrolman Harry Wallace and Arthur Gorniak to the Dixmoor detail, said that the assignment was made partly because of charges that the Dixmoor police have mistreated motorists whom they have arrested for minor traffic violations.

$25,000 Damage Suit Filed.

Rayburn Ross, of Stickney, filed suit for $25,000 damages Saturday against Thomas Leuther, Dixmoor police chief. He charged that on Aug. 5, after arresting him for failure to have a rear view mirror on the truck he was driving, Leuther beat him up.

"Our men are going to stay on the Dixmoor patrol until the speed trap racket there is broken up," Sergt. Van Laningham promised. The two motor cars in which the local police operate apparently were not on the highways yesterday.

Charles F. Schroeder, chairman of the police committee of the village board of Wooddale, where the Chicago Motor club charged recently that another speed trap was being operated, issued a statement yesterday that the board has exonerated James Carroll, the village's one man police force, of charges of malfeasance growing out of his speeding arrests.

Carroll has been employed for another month, according to the statement. On Aug. 3 the village board announced that Carroll's motorcycle had been taken away from him and that his duties would be confined to preserving the peace in Wooddale, which has a population of 230 and is 22 miles west of Chicago on Irving Park boulevard.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

George Obradovich, 48 years old, was found shot to death yesterday near his truck garden in Gary. Police expressed the belief that he was killed by a watchman who had mistaken Obradovich for a prowler.

BAD CHECK PUTS MAKER IN JAIL ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Police Find Records of Two Wives.

Arthur L. Fischer, 25 years old, of Oak Park, wrote a check for $50 last week. When it was found no good yesterday, Fischer was locked up at the Oak Park police station, charged not only with passing the check but also with bigamy and with seducing a woman by means of a mock marriage.

The check was given to a Chicago automobile sales company as a payment on a car. Lieut. Harry Wilson, chief of detectives on the Oak Park force, arrested Fischer on Saturday in an apartment at 114 South Maple avenue, Oak Park. With him was Miss Lillian Koehl, 26 years old, 1010 Pleasant street, Oak Park.

She told Lieut. Wilson that they were married two months ago. Lieut. Wilson, who had arrested Fischer before on bad check charges, recollected that he had had another wife at that time. He asked Fischer what had become of her.

"She died," replied Fischer.

Marriage Records Found.

Lieut. Wilson went to the marriage license bureau in the county building. He found that on Nov. 16, 1930, Fischer was married to Miss Margaret Hobbins of Appleton, Wis. She left him shortly afterward and returned to Appleton. A telegraphic inquiry to her brought the reply yesterday that she had not divorced Fischer.

The marriage license bureau also had a record that on March 31 of this year, under the name of Harry L. Fisher, Fischer married Miss Mary Privil, who at that time lived at 1939 Grove avenue, Berwyn. Police are searching for her to ask her to sign a formel complaint charging Fischer with bigamy.

Lieut. Wilson found no record, however, of a marriage of Fischer and Miss Koehl. He called her in and asked her about the ceremony, telling her that he found no record of it.

Tells of "Wedding."

"We were married somewhere on the south side of Chicago by a priest," she said. "At least, the man was dressed like a priest."

When Lieut. Wilson told her that he thought she had been duped, she fainted.

Fischer admitted that he had married Miss Hobbins and Miss Privil, but denied that he had participated in any ceremony, real or mock, with Miss Koehl. Lieut. Wilson also questioned Miss Dorothy Hifel, 911 Pleasant street, Oak Park, a waitress.

"Fischer asked me to marry him too," she said, "but I turned him down. Then he asked me to cash a check for $10. I did, and the check bounced."

Grocer Shot Resisting Holdup Dies of Wound

Tony Schaivo, 38 years old, owner of a grocery at 2013 Polk street, who was shot in the abdomen by one of two Negro bandits early yesterday morning when he resisted robbery, died last evening in the county hospital. The slayer fled, but his companion lingered long enough to take $3 from Walter Bergenthal, 4836 24th street, Cicero, a driver for the Red Star Yeast company, who was in the store.

ROB ELECTRIC CASH BOX.

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Burglars who ripped open an electric cash box to see what made the wheels go around and the bell ring, stole $1,000 cash from the Guaranty Life Insurance company. A knife blade forced a door lock in gaining entrance.

FARMERS FIGHT RADICAL MENACE IN NEW ZEALAND

Communism Is Incited by Young Immigrants.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., July 20.—[By mail to avoid censor.]—New Zealand is in a state of economic siege from without and social siege from within. After forty years of government regulation of business and public services, the dominion still finds itself at the mercy of a broken overseas market. The government is unable to control the mounting unemployment and the taxpayers are exhausted by the expenses of a huge bureaucracy and efforts of the government to sustain the workers.

These people are 98 per cent of British stock and there is little danger that they will embrace an extremely radical government. The chief radical sentiment is centered in the cities and it is impossible to think of New Zealand as falling into the hands of the communists.

Riots Led by Aliens.

The riots last spring in Auckland and Wellington were led by young immigrant reds and called attention sharply to the danger of this movement seeping into the public service and into the mine and waterside labor groups. The reaction was swift and severe. The red leaders and many followers are now in jail, public discussion of communism is now under police control, the distribution of radical literature has been forbidden, criticism of the state has been forbidden to natural public servants, which includes teachers and professors, and there has been a general tightening of the conservative lines all through the dominion.

New Zealand lives by grass. Its population is flung out over the hills and valleys, gathered in hundreds of small centers. Its government is in the hands of farmers. Communism must convert these before it can move further here. At the present time the farmers are banded together against any communistic movement against the government. Thousands of farmers and their sons, on the fleet horses for which the dominion is famous, are ready at a moment's notice to ride down the mobs of the cities. A special force of constables has been recruited and farmers are said to be ready to rush 2,000 men to Wellington and 1,000 men to Auckland in an hour.

Dominant Thought Not Radical.

The dominant thought of today is not consciously radical. Socialism is a relative term and things which the government does here as a matter of course, such as running railways and street cars, would be considered radical elsewhere.

In the matter of railways, which have been losing about $5,000,000 a year, the change effected a year ago, when political control was taken away from this service, has already proved a benefit in increased revenue and lower costs. The policy of the new transport board is that of private business, that of giving the people the best service they can at the price that the railroad can afford. The days of "developmental" expenditures have passed.

The complaint of the workers is that the coalition government of Prime Minister G. W. Forbes is reactionary and is forcing too great a sacrifice from labor in the way of wage reductions.

Wages Down 10% to 40%.

The power of the courts on wage awards, under which labor has long been protected, is broken. In the mines and on the farms—the bread and butter industries—the employes must now deal largely with the employer. Wages are down ten to forty per cent.

The unemployed in New Zealand now number about 100,000 and the problem is acute with youths entering the labor markets at the rate of 30,000 a year and nothing for them to do.

All are looking to the imperial economic conference at Ottawa for relief, which means the opening of British markets for New Zealand produce and some soft, uneconomic quota system. It amounts, in effect, to the socialization of production and distribution of primary produce in the British empire at the expense of the people. Meantime, an unlimited market in eastern Asia, so close, is barred by imperial preference, pro-British sentiment, and politics.

Relief Costs $12,500,000 a Year.

Relief for the unemployed is costing about $12,500,000 a year. New Zealand is against a dole and demands a work base of $2.50 a day. Conditions in the relief camps are still unsatisfactory to labor and a call here yesterday for fifty men to go to a forest camp resulted in only twenty-five applicants.

Propaganda from Russian sources is regarded as dangerous in New Zealand and one finds the peculiar spectacle of a state looked upon as far advanced in socialism actually accused by its own liberals of being reactionary. Some of the recent repressive measures undoubtedly are dangerous, such as the censorship of news and the barriers to free expression of opinion in educational circles. These measures are regarded as efforts to protect a shaky government rather than protection of the state itself.

Labor here is far less noisy and powerful than in Australia, and the voice of business men, expressed through chambers of commerce, as well as the farmer organizations, is stronger than the voice of labor.

Trade unionists recently invited representatives of the Farmers' unions throughout the dominion to a round table conference in Wellington. Jim Roberts, secretary of the Alliance of Labor, wrote that an interchange of opinions was desirable and necessary, as there were many things in common between the farmers and the wage workers and that differences now existing were due to misunderstandings and could be cleared up.

Farmers Reject Offer.

The president of the farmers, W. J. Polson, replied that he did not see what benefit could be achieved from a conference of that kind. Frankly, he said, it was a deliberate attempt to entice the farmer, who was feeling sore and dissatisfied, and to some extent up against constitutional authority owing to the conditions prevailing, into the Labor camp.

The Labor principles were utterly opposed to the principles of the farmers' organizations, he said, as the farmers' were up against costs, and the Labor party could offer nothing to lower them. Labor stood for Socialistic principles, he declared, but the Farmers' Union was opposed to the ideas of Socialism.

FAIL TO FIND BOY'S BODY.

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Searching parties failed today to find the body of Billy McCluskey, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCluskey who was drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming in the South Fork river west of here.

ers have announced previously they would decide then what would be done "about the Taylorville situation."

The movement to guard Christian county against any invasion was launched by the authorities, with business men and American Legionnaires coöperating.

"Our people want to work and they will be given an opportunity to work," was the avowed sentiment of Taylorville's leaders.

Miners Vote to Strike.

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A mass-meeting of miners in the Belleville subdistrict voted today to strike "until an honest referendum" is held on the new wage scale proposal. About 800 of the 6,000 miners in the subdistrict have been working. The miners voted to send a delegation tomorrow to the Moffat mine at Sparta, in an adjoining subdistrict, to endeavor "by peaceable means" to get the miners there to cease work.

Among the Benld resolutions approved were ones calling for recall of the present international and district officers, and a special district convention to consider the wage proposal.

The meeting, which was a continuation of one called last Friday, was attended by approximately 400 miners, including a few women and children. They represented 27 of the 39 locals in the sub-district, 34 of which are in good standing. One man said his local was not represented officially because the president was working in a mine.

George Bahm of Belleville, one of the tellers in the recent referendum, explained how the count was conducted and said he was not aware of any fraud. Some of his statements were challenged by Anton Novak of Panama.

START MINES TOUR

Fifteen students from the University of Chicago, including three women, who departed yesterday on a motor trip to southern Illinois coal fields, were detained in Mount Vernon last night and told not to proceed further. They took with them an automobile load of clothing for distribution to miners, and announced that they intended to investigate conditions in the mining field.

Mount Vernon was the destination of the first day's drive. There a group of seventy-five or eighty students from midwestern universities and colleges is expected to gather. Members of the Chicago party said that students will be present from the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college, Crane Junior college, Northwestern university, the University of Illinois, and other institutions. From Mount Vernon the whole party had intended to go to Benton. Dispatches from Mena, Ark., said yesterday that three students from Commonwealth college, the labor school there, were going to join the party at Mount Vernon. Joe Hamberger, son of a Chicago real estate dealer, is one of that group.

Miss Merrill was killed on Aug. 4.

AIM AT HOG IMPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—While the British imperial economic conference at Ottawa is struggling for an agreement to promote interempire trade, the royal commission, created by the British government in April, has a report ready for presentation to the cabinet which excludes by quotas and tariffs all importation of hog products, both foreign and dominion, it was learned here today.

Chicago exports to Great Britain, which last year totaled about $40,000,000, will be affected.

The scheme calls for a quota on bacon and hams to be administered by the customs authorities. The present ratio of domestic production in Britain to foreign production is about one and one-half to eight and one-half. This will be adopted as the basis for the first year, but the British quota will be stepped up and that of the other countries will be cut. Foreign nations will also be placed on individual quota bases which will be progressively reduced.

Tariff on By-Products.

Chicago producers will be least affected by the quotas on hams and bacon, but the pinch for them comes in the paragraph of the commission's recommendations affecting by-products such as lard, canned ham, and even pork in canned beans. The exclusion of these products would be effected immediately by a prohibitive tariff, for the commission is convinced that Britain is able to produce all pork by-products it needs.

Lard outstrips all other Chicago meat exports to Britain. Last year the total figure remained within $60,000 pounds of the boom figure of 1929, which was 11,290,000 pounds. The value declined from $33,500,000 in 1929 to about $21,670,000 in 1931, chiefly because of skidding prices and the fall of the pound sterling.

Another feature of the scheme is designed to prevent foreign packers from building plants in Britain to sidestep duties. The operation of the scheme is assigned to the "Pig Industry Development board," which controls the British packers and hog raisers on a fifty-fifty basis.

Will Build Own Plants.

Actually the commission recommends that no new plants be built until all are operating in excess of rated capacity. When new ones are needed only the pig development board shall have the power to decide the time and by whom they should be built. Naturally the board will build the plants.

The program puts both farmers and packers under contract. It will be illegal for a farmer to sell hogs except by contract made six months before or for plants to sell bacon or hams in excess of the contract obligations established by the government.

The prices of pork would be fixed by a new commission similar to the present tariff advisory body, and would fluctuate according to external food prices. An interesting suggestion of the committee is that Chicago prices be taken as a basis.

DEATH TOLL IN TEXAS STORM GROWS TO 32; HUNDREDS INJURED

Houston, Tex., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The list of those who died in the hurricane over southern coastal Texas lengthened tonight to 32 as a widespread program of relief got well under way. The injured numbered several hundreds. Damage to two major crops, cotton and rice, exclusive of other destruction, over several hundred square miles, was estimated authoritatively at $2,000,000.

An insufficient supply of food was reported at Angleton, which suffered the greatest damage.

Angleton, Freeport, and West Columbia, all within 100 miles of Houston, suffered most, but several surrounding towns also were hard hit.

In Wharton and Brazoria counties, fields that were white with cotton before the storm lay beaten and devastated today. Rice that had been cut and stacked was strewn over the country, rain soaked and worthless.

Rob Express Messenger of $2,000 and Automobile

J. V. Arnholst, 6544 Oshkosh avenue, a messenger for the American Express company, last night reported to Fillmore police that he had been robbed of his automobile and $2,000 in cash by three armed men who jumped on the running board at Adams street and Cicero avenue. Arnholst was pushed from the car, he said, after being threatened.

Rail Managers to Discuss a Further Wage Reduction

Representatives of the eastern, southeastern, and western railroads will meet in Chicago on Thursday to consider ways of further reducing operating expenses.

The first order of business, according to reports, will be the preparation of exhibits designed to show that the decline in living costs justifies not only an extension of the 10 per cent wage reduction negotiated with the railway unions last winter, but the imposition of a further 5 per cent cut. The contracts on the 10 per cent cut run to next Feb. 1.

John C. Higgins of Chicago, chairman of the General Managers' association, probable spokesman for the western roads at the conference, made it clear that none of the decisions reached would be binding upon the carriers themselves.

A Preliminary Discussion.

"The whole discussion will be merely tentative," he said. "No matter what the conferees agree upon, each of their decisions must be submitted to the heads of the roads for approval before concerted action can be taken."

A canvass of railroad unions here indicates that their leaders are prepared to offer much stiffer resistance to an added 5 per cent cut at this time than they did to the original 10 per cent cut of 215 million dollars accepted voluntarily without recourse to arbitration at the joint conference with rail executives last Janurry.

Resentment at even the suggestion of another cut was manifested among the 150 delegates attending the biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen, which opened yesterday at the Knickerbocker hotel. This brotherhood has nearly 10,000 members.

Predicts Union Opposition.

L. R. Smith, vice president and publicity manager for the convention, predicted that the delegates would adopt a resolution expressing the strongest opposition to any further wage reductions.

"The original cut was accepted on the promise of the executives to make every effort to stabilize employment," said Mr. Smith. "As everyone knows, this promise has not been fulfilled.

"There was a specific pledge to employ furloughed railroad men wherever possible on the bus and truck lines the railroads have been acquiring. Except in a few cases, notably the Baltimore and Ohio, this promise seems also to have been forgotten."

Mr. Smith commented on the salaries being paid some of the railway executives. He made specific mention of the board chairman of one western road who, he said, was drawing $135,000 annually.

"We believe the way to restore prosperity is to restore buying power of the average man," he said. "You don't restore that buying power by paying one man above $100,000 a year and cutting a thousand others 10 per cent."

The union leader admitted a reduction in living costs but said that in the case of railroad workers the reduction had been more than offset by the assistance those still employed have had to give to those who lost their jobs.

Others Hold Same Views.

W. W. McKirchy of Chicago, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and Fred Lewis of Oklahoma, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, have expressed similar views on the wage question.

Under the railway labor act of 1926 the carriers, after deciding on a wage reduction, request a joint meeting with the union leaders. If no agreement is reached the roads then formally notify the unions of the proposed reduction, whereupon another joint conference must be held within ten days.

In case of a second disagreement a board of arbitration may be set up, each side naming two members who, in turn, name two additional members. As a final resort the president of the United States may create a special board of inquiry whose prestige theoretically would be such that neither side would dare flout its recommendations.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

The public should be prudent in seeking relief from pain. Take nothing which does not have the approval of the medical profession.

You can always get Bayer Aspirin. It will never do you any harm, and almost always brings the desired relief. But remember that the high medical endorsement given Bayer Aspirin does not apply to all tablets for the relief of pain.

The doctor is careful to specify Bayer Aspirin for these important reasons:

There are no injurious ingredients in genuine Bayer Aspirin. No coarse particles to irritate throat or stomach. Nothing to upset the system or injure any organ. Not even any disagreeable taste, or any odor. The Bayer process of manufacture insures a pure, uniform product.

And to the absolute safety of the tablet stamped Bayer, add speed. It dissolves so rapidly you get the quickest relief from your headache, cold, neuralgia, neuritis, or other pain.

COURT CROWD FINDS A LAUGH IN BAIN TRIAL

Depositors Chuckle with Former Bank Officer.

The first laugh which the depositor-spectators have had in many a day at the trial of John Bain and members of his family they got yesterday over the testimony of John J. McInerny, the ex-bartender whom Bain made vice president of one of his banks.

The spectators and Judge John M. O'Connor, who is sitting without a jury to try the charges of conspiracy against Bain, two of his sons and his son-in-law, growing out of the failure of the Bain bank chain, also heard two of the defendants testify during the day. Cross-examination of John H. Bain, a son, was ended, and W. Merle Fisher, the son-in-law, gave an autobiographical description of the advancement possible to a young man who marries a banker's daughter.

The day also saw the loss of a record of long standing by Judge O'Connor. He arrived a few minutes late for the afternoon session. Apologizing, he said: "This is the first time in 19 years that I've ever been late to court."

Introducing Witness McInerny.

The matter on which McInerny lightened the day for the spectators was first brought up by Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber in his cross-examination of a previous witness, John F. Hennessey, who was assistant cashier of the Bryn Mawr State bank, where McInerny was vice president. Hennessey was asked if Michael Maisel, now dead but at that time a Bain bank official, had not said that some of the Irish living "back of the yards" might kill some of the Bain salesmen when they found the type of securities being sold to them.

McInerny took the stand shortly afterward as a defense witness. He is a broad shouldered man with a red face and a fine old-fashioned haircut, his hair being parted in the center with curls sweeping low on each side of his forehead. He spoke in a thick brogue. He testified that Bain, who is still a south parks commissioner, first got him a job in the parks and later took him into the bank system.

Crowd Laughs with Him.

When Attorney Francis X. Busch, defense counsel, asked McInerny about the incident mentioned by Prosecutor Raber, the witness loosed a deep laugh.

"I didn't think that would ever come out," he said, and the spectators joined him in laughter. "But I'll tell you. It was Maisel. We called him Freddie. He said the only trouble we had in our banks was made by the Irish."

McInerny paused for a reminiscent chuckle, and added: "They had to hold me. I jumped up and demanded an apology. I got it."

"Did anybody ever say anything about any one being killed because they had sold certain bonds?" asked Attorney Busch.

"No," replied McInerny. "I told you just about what happened."

Fisher Describes His Rise.

Fisher, as the last witness of the day, told how his rise in the banking business followed rapidly upon his marriage to John Bain's daughter, Lillian. They now live at 10412 South Hoyne avenue, and have three children, he said.

Fisher was admitted to the bar in 1910, he said. His marriage to Miss Bain took place on May 5, 1915, and the following year he entered one of her father's banks, the West Englewood Trust and Savings, as assistant cashier. He was elected a director immediately and in 1927 was made trust officer and cashier and in 1928 vice president and cashier.

From then on, he said, he had nothing to do with the trust department, describing his duties as those of "general overseer and straw boss" of the 72 employés in the bank.

"Somebody else did the hiring. I did the firing," he added.

"I became a vice president of the Stony Island State Savings bank in 1924," Fisher went on. "Then in 1925, when Eric Wiegel became president of the West Highland bank, he told me he wanted me for his assistant. I told him to see the boss, John Bain. I was a director of that bank until it closed and in 1927 became a vice president and director of the Auburn Park Trust and Savings bank."

Last Days of Bank Chain.

In his final cross-examination of John H. Bain, Prosecutor Raber bore heavily on the final days before the Bain chain crashed. This crash occurred two days after the "rescue" arrangement by which the deposit liabilities of the Foreman banks were taken over by the First National bank. The prosecutor inquired whether, after the Foreman banks closed, the Bains had not followed the example of other banks in strengthening their cash reserves to guard against runs. Bain said they had not.

"As a matter of fact," said Prosecutor Raber, "you knew that you were at the end of your rope, that you had no more resources, and that if the end was coming it would just come, didn't you?"

Young Bain blinked behind his glasses. He placed his hands on the table, leaned forward, and answered vehemently: "No. You are assuming things that you don't know anything about, Mr. Raber."

Young Bain was also questioned about letters which he had written shortly before the bank chain collapsed, one instructing officers of individual banks to renew certain loans to dates as late as 1935, the other, written to his brother and co-defendant, Robert A. Bain, regarding $23,000 in bonds on the Victoria apartments, in which he stated: "These bonds can't be used (as collateral) at the loop banks, but they can be used for exchange or sale over the counter."

The examination follows:

Q.—Why would you put out that stuff if it wasn't good at the downtown banks? A.—I thought that it was good.

Q.—Why, here's one of these loans [referred to in the other letter] that isn't good until 1935. Do you mean to tell me that you weren't doing just what I suggested, putting out bad stuff and getting in stuff that was good? A.—As a matter of fact, Mr. Raber, your information must be wrong. There must be some mistake.

The elder John Bain was not in court yesterday. He is in bed with a sore throat, it was said.

BANK FOUND INSOLVENT

A finding in a civil suit, by Judge William J. Lindsay in the Superior court, that the Stony Island State Savings bank, one of the Bain institutions, was insolvent for some time before the chain collapsed on June 9, 1931, and that Robert A. Bain, one of the defendants with his father in the criminal case, was aware of the insolvency, was disclosed yesterday.

Attorneys were quick to point out that Judge Lindsay's ruling, being on a civil matter, would have no bearing on the trial of criminal charges against the Bains before Judge John M. O'Connor. The Lindsay ruling was made on July 22, but first came to light when Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver for the bank chain, announced that his attorneys would seek an appeal today.

Win Preferred Claim Plea.

Anna and Patrick Nolan, 7237 Ellis avenue, filed suit against the Stony Island bank to have declared a preferred claim the sum of $2,500 which they deposited on June 8, 1931, the day before the bank chain collapsed. The deposit was received by Robert A. Bain. In allowing the claim, Judge Lindsay ruled:

"At the time the deposit was received by Robert Bain, the Stony Island Savings bank was insolvent, and had been for some time previously; and Robert Bain was one of the officers of the bank and knew it to be insolvent at the time; and the receipt of said deposit by Robert Bain was a fraud upon the petitioners herein."

TRAIN VICTIM DIES.

Andrew Kovacl, 45 years old, 10004 Emerald avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital. He was struck by a Rock Island freight train at 100th street last Thursday.

Child Takes a Look at Modern Art on Display

Show to Continue

Artists exhibiting their wares in the outdoor art show in Grant park south of the Art institute yesterday announced they would continue the show until Thursday night. A total of $12,061 had been received by the various artists through sales ranging from 75 cents to $500 up to last night, according to Charles Weid, secretary of the exhibit.

In addition to cash sales many trades have been made, Miss Cati Mount, director, explained. Todros Geller, an artist who has exhibited in the Art institute, traded a summer landscape for a new caracul coat for his wife. Elsie Richin got a permanent wave for a painting.

Any artist is free to come and exhibit his paintings, and as a result the show has all varieties of art from that of the artist who will paint any subject you want for 50 cents to the paintings which have hung in numerous exhibits.

Among the latter is Ivan Le Lorraine Albright's "Woman," which he values at $8,500. It was in the international exhibit in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1930, he said. "It attracts a crowd, just like a murder would," he laughed, pointing at the persons about him staring at the strange, lined, and flabby face of an aged woman.

In a Soup Line with $7,000 in Bank; Jailed and Fined

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—For months John Carvane, 49, stood in the city soup line, a woe begone figure that excited the sympathy of the officer in charge. Today the city reached into his small fortune for repayment. Carvane was taken from the soup line Saturday. Police said they found money in his pockets and a slip showing he had $7,330 on deposit in a bank. Justice George Stockner sentenced him to serve thirty days at hard labor and pay a $250 fine.

LANCASTER FATE AS SLAYER IS UP TO JURY TODAY

State Holds Flyer Shot Clarke in Jealous Rage.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The case of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, charged with the murder of Haden Clarke, probably will be given to a jury tomorrow. Evidence for both state and defense was completed today and final arguments begun.

Clarke was shot to death on the night of April 21 in the home of Mrs. J. M. [Chubbie] Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix. Clarke, according to evidence, had won Mrs. Keith-Miller's love away from Capt. Lancaster, a British flyer. The state contends that Lancaster shot Clarke in a fit of jealousy. The defense maintains that Clarke committed suicide.

W. N. LANCASTER.

The last witness for the state was James Enrico, mechanic at the Miami airport, who testified that when Lancaster landed on his flight from St. Louis April 20, the day before the murder, the British flyer greeted Clarke coolly.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Jones began the argument for the state.

Admitting the case was one of circumstantial evidence, the prosecutor declared:

"The only man who knows the truth here is forever dead. Like a coward, this man, Lancaster, sent a bullet through his head. That's how he fought for his woman. This is the most cowardly and dastardly crime ever committed. Murder is none the less murder if some one doesn't see it. There was a man dying, shot through the head, and Lancaster sat beside the body, painstakingly forging suicide notes. He did not call for help."

James Carson, defense attorney, began his argument with an attack on the state's tactics.

"William Lancaster, 4,000 miles from home before an American jury, deserted by many but not all of his friends, stands out like a brilliant jewel against a sordid background," he declared. "There is nothing but circumstantial evidence here and such evidence, to warrant a conviction, must be beyond the shadow of a doubt."

Carson then named various cases where innocent men were convicted on circumstantial evidence and their lack of guilt proved later. Judge H. F. Atkinson interrupted his argument at 5 p. m. to adjourn court until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Morris Green, Producer, Declares Self Bankrupt

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Morris Green, theatrical producer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal court today, listing liabilities—including sums owed to other producers, actors, writers, and designers—totaling $273,650, and no assets. Among the liabilities is a sum of $50,000 due the Shubert Theater corporation and Lee Shubert.

DOWIE AGREES TO PAY MORTGAGE; OUSTER HALTED

The Rev. A. J. Gladstone Dowie, son of the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City, announced yesterday through his attorney that tomorrow he would pay $375 overdue on a $10,000 mortgage on Shiloh house, his home in Zion. He had been ordered into the Circuit court in Waukegan by Judge Ralph J. Dady to show cause why he should not pay or be ousted.

Attorney Gerald Snyder, representing the mortgage holder, Theodore Goldsmith, Waukegan real estate dealer, agreed to the delay to give Mr. Dowie a chance to settle. Following the hearing of the First State Bank of Zion filed suit in the Circuit court on a $300 promissory note of the Rev. Mr. Dowie and his mother, 77 years old, with whom he lives.

Friends of Mrs. Dowie said she had inherited an estate from a sister in Australia but because of financial conditions had been unable to obtain the money from there.

YOUTH HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Thomas Widenhouse, 19 years old, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $30,000 by Judge Harold P. O'Connell on two charges of attempted robbery.

In a recent story of the Chicagoland Music Festival it was stated that in 1930 and 1931 the Cedar Rapids, Ia., Municipal band won first place in the adult band division of the festival contests. This should have read Cedar Falls, Ia.

It was stated yesterday that J. [illegible] Rosenberg of 1435 South St. Louis avenue was the driver of an automobile which fatally injured Arthur Kaplan of 715 North Lawndale avenue while Kaplan was on his way to a synagogue to purchase a cemetery lot. Mr. Rosenberg was a witness, not the driver. The driver was Ed Goldberg, 18 years old, of 4002 Quincy street. The information naming Mr. Rosenberg as the car driver was given out by police.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE IRON HAND ON TAXES.

The Indiana proposal, being considered at this writing in the legislature with a decision imminent, for a fifty per cent reduction in general property taxes may have seemed drastic, but it has the quality of common sense. Governments everywhere of all jurisdictions have been wild runaways. In the last twenty years the services of tax supported administration have exceeded all sound and workable theory. An illusion of limitless money plus a radical notion of equalizing wealth by public expenditures has produced a succession of enterprises which cannot be sustained.

The test of government permanence is not had in flush times. It comes in the lean years. In prosperity the extravagant schemes are released. In such times the idea that a result is desirable is joined to the idea that taxes should be devoted to it. Minorities, specialists and hobbyists obtain consent for state administration of their plans. If their motives and their purposes appear as altruistic the argument closes in their favor. Then, when money is hard to get, when profits have disappeared in taxes and private enterprise cannot hold its own, the political scheme is the last one which can be brought to deal with realities.

Citizens who have no way of conjuring up income trim their outgo to conform to their earnings, but political government tries to rely upon magic as if taxes alone would not dry up. The citizens must treat their governments as they are forced to treat themselves, put a limit upon the amount which may be taken by the tax collector and force administration to confine itself therein. The iron hand is the only restraint.

HONESTY, A WISCONSIN ISSUE.

Walter Kohler defines the fundamental issue in the Wisconsin Republican primary campaign as one of honesty. Every citizen, he says, has the same right as the greatest to know how the business of the state is being conducted, whether it is paying its way and whether the costs are growing greater or less. Mr. Kohler presents his record as his platform.

Philip La Follette, now governor, also has left a record. A comparison of accomplishments cannot be avoided by a fury of oratory, by attacks on the capitalist press, nor by promises of soaking the rich. Mr. Kohler laid the two administrations side by side at Beaver Dam in a speech in which he opened his campaign for the nomination for governor. The speech lacked ferocity and hate but abounded in logic.

Gov. La Follette promised to relieve unemployment, an economic catastrophe which he laid at the door of his predecessor. The measure of relief was in the extra two cents gasoline tax which resulted in the grotesque roller coasters called overhead crossings landscaping rural Wisconsin and in the formation of the unemployment relief commission. Mr. Kohler bluntly charges the administration got a dictatorship in Wisconsin through this commission, which is exercising its powers cautiously only so the citizens will not learn before election into what kind of trap they have been led.

La Follette promises of a complete solution of the farmers' problem did not and will not result in anything but disappointment.

Unqualified promises to end chain banking in Wisconsin have ended in nothing but a repetition of the promises in this year's La Follette platform.

Mr. Kohler disputes the claims of the present governor that taxes have been reduced ten million dollars or as much as ten cents. The records show the state spent sixty million dollars during the last year of the Kohler administration and eighty million dollars in the fiscal year falling entirely within the present administration. There is no magic in the name of La Follette which can reconcile a twenty million dollar increase in expenditures with a ten million dollar saving in taxes. There is no honesty, Mr. Kohler thinks, in the claim of tax reduction.

The soak the rich tax, a radical principle euphemistically concealed in the axiom that taxes must be laid on those with the ability to pay, has been exposed as an absurdity akin to dishonesty. Soaking the rich reached its full perfection in the La Follette emergency relief bill, but when payments became due this summer the governor by proclamation of necessity deferred for a month the date of final payment because he found there were few of the rich left who could pay.

In 1930 the then governor, Kohler, with $21,000,000 of highway funds, and cement at $1.03 a barrel, built 439 miles of concrete pavement. In 1932, with revenues of about $38,000,000 and cement at 70 cents a barrel, the La Follette administration is building 325 miles of concrete highway.

"These examples," said Mr. Kohler, "indicate the lightness with which the present administration pledged itself to measures and policies which it did not intend to carry out. As the campaign progresses it shall be my purpose to expose the long and sorry trail of broken promises in other fields of governmental activity."

The danger that state control of production and the land as well impends was sounded clearly by the former governor, who sees in the orgy of taxation inevitable tax delinquency and bankruptcy with the land and all enterprise thrown into the hands of the government, state functionaries multiplying and flourishing and one man at the head as dictator by whatever name or title he may be known. "It is the logical conclusion of the La Follette régime and the goal toward which they march," he said.

It is not an empty warning. The records show taxes have even now become so enormous many cannot pay them. Others pay them at a sacrifice of human advantages and business needs.

Former Gov. Kohler has presented a strong state document in his speech at Beaver Dam. Wisconsin has been patient a long time, but there are now signs that the people have learned the price they have paid for their dynasty. The state has suffered as an experiment station for doctrinaires. It is hoped the general approval expressed for Walter Kohler for his opening speech at Beaver Dam means his generous indorsement at the primary and his election as governor.

SPAIN'S WILL TO FREEDOM.

The Spanish republic has defeated the monarchist counter-revolution led by Gen. Sanjurjo. The general himself was captured in flight. THE TRIBUNE'S exceptionally capable correspondent, Mr. Jay Allen, leaves little doubt that the great majority of the people is opposed to a restoration and determined to prevent it.

The will to freedom is the most precious possession which any people can have. It is the distinction of the Spanish republic that it was established at a time when dictatorships and all that they imply by way of suppression of individual rights were the fashion in Europe. The Spanish people, oppressed for centuries, robbed and betrayed by incompetent rulers, and deprived of adequate schools, had the hardihood to proclaim their freedom at a time when other nations were welcoming the yoke of absolutism. Their determination has now undergone a test and has not been found wanting. The fact promises much for the rebirth of Spain as a world power.

It is true, of course, that much of the republican sentiment in Spain is to be attributed to extremists. The years of oppression encouraged the creation of a radical opposition and drove some of the ablest minds in Spain into the extremist ranks, where opposition to the corrupt monarchy could be most effective. The future of Spain will depend in no small degree upon the ability of the leading men of the country to realize that the adoption of the socialist economic program will serve merely to exchange one tyranny for another. If the American republic has anything to offer the Spanish republic by way of example it is the lesson that the country is richest and that government most secure whose citizens are most free to organize their economic life.

GREECE COMES TO CALIFORNIA.

Reports from the Olympic games give the Californians great credit for being kind to every one. The occasion is dear to the highest estheticism of Los Angeles and it is an outlet for the mysticism in which the children of the climate face their prospects. They are the Ephesians, sunkist, starry eyed, with luminous and palpitant wings. Every one goes a little balmy from sheer ecstasies where life is a white robed processional and sacred fires burn everywhere. The new Ephesians build their altars and are conscious of their destiny. They look to Greece and now Greece has come to them. The old gods have come to the new.

There probably hasn't been such an exaltation in a hundred years and the visitors must be themselves affected by the experience. These games are more Greek than were the first of the modern games in Athens. Even the spirit of Locarno, to consider other halcyon days, touched only the diplomats who went through the glamorous event when for a brief spell everything was euphonic and eupeptic, a world in tune for the statesmen who could sample it, but the people at large knew nothing about it. Locarno is merely a legend of when diplomatic Europe had the time of its life. Los Angeles is an affair of the people.

The Californians, it is reported, are particularly nice to the Japanese athletes, applauding their gameness, pluck and good sportsmanship. That's the best part of the California hospitality. When Mr. Stimson in Washington gets out his mechanical dove and works its wings he raises a wind in Japan which annoys the government exceedingly, blowing its hair in its eyes and dust down its back. California offers compensations and there may yet be peace in spite of pacifists.

Editorials of the Day

WHITE COLLARS IN RUSSIA.

[N. Y. Evening Post.]

We have from time to time noted changes in conditions in soviet Russia. In recent weeks it has been announced that handicraft workers were to be permitted to sell their goods at whatever prices they could get and that the farmers about Moscow were to be freed of the stiff restrictions of government control and allowed to seek their own markets. But these halting steps toward a new recognition of the value of private trade are as nothing compared with the latest blow at communistic practices of which we have heard. Party members are to be permitted to wear white collars and neckties. If this is not a sign of surrender to the bourgeois, of submission to capitalistic conventions, we do not know what would be. We have accepted the dress suits of soviet diplomats as the polite gesture of a guest not wishing to embarrass his host, but when the ordinary communist worker abandons his Russian blouse to put on a collar and necktie, perhaps even a clean collar and necktie, communistic tradition is shattered.

REVIVE SPEED TRAPS.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Several years ago speed traps in villages surrounding Chicago became so great a source of revenue to petty officials that criminal action was required to suppress this legal racket. Now State's Attorney Swanson of Cook county threatens another grand jury investigation if complaints from motorists continue.

Warning has been sent to all police chiefs of the regional organization recently formed and a meeting will be held to discuss the situation. "The harassing of motorists by the small towns within this county has to be stopped," declared the state's attorney.

Unnecessary stop signs on main traffic lanes and ridiculous restrictions on main highways, including four lane arteries, are among the devices by which unwary motorists are brought into village courts. Rockford motorists will be wise to be on their guard against old and new schemes of country officials until the Cook county authorities have announced results.

The speed trap was so effectually punished in previous campaigns as to discourage ambitious village officials while the memory remained. Now that the racket is being revived, State's Attorney Swanson is to be congratulated for his prompt action.

RED SLIPPERS.

It's my gypsy heart that won't behave
When the days are bright and the green ways I crave.
Then the long roads always are calling me,
And I'm always hearing the song of the sea,
And I long for other ports more fair
Than these that are my daily care.
But I keep my house as slick as a pin
And you'd never guess at the turmoil within.

So I sing, and I laugh at the things I can't shirk,
But—I wear red slippers when I work.

THE WAKE-LINE DOES NOT attempt to govern personal habits of baseball players any more than we attempt to govern prohibition or non-prohibition habits of our fellow men. We prefer to judge by the results they accomplish. So if betting on a hoss race is a heinous crime against organized baseball, let it go at that, but we'd like to pay one tribute to Rogers Hornsby before the incident closes.

When Hornsby was deposed as manager he made no complaint. He took it on the chin like a good sport. Likewise, before the high commissioner, he absolved all other Cub players from betting sin, if it be sin. This is preliminary to a memory we wish to revive.

About ten years ago Hornsby, then leading batter of the National league and with St. Louis, was wanted by New York. Negotiations continued for some time, but finally the deal was called off. At that time a berth with New York meant probable participation in the world series and a share in the players' pool therefrom, about $5,000.

When the deal failed, Hornsby was asked for a statement. He said that any one considered it an honor to be with New York, but he was satisfied and would continue to give his best efforts to St. Louis. We remarked in our column at the time we believed him, but would watch his work the following year for proof. You know players sometimes are accused of playing for their "release." Hornsby continued at St. Louis to lead the league in batting, just as he had before, and eventually piloted St. Louis to its first pennant and world championship in 1926.

Whether there are better managers than Hornsby is not our province to determine. As an individual player we believe and always have believed that he gave the best he had to his employers.

VOICES OF MARYLAND.

O for the scent of the salt-marsh fragrant,
The shallow depth of the land-locked bay,
Where countless the crafty blue crabs played vagrant,
And sated in saline the oyster-beds lay.

O for the call, like a lad for the lasses,
Of the quail-bird, joyous and clear as a bell,
For the blackberries baiting the woodland passes,
Tempting the eye and the hand as well.

O for the bow of the branches bending,
With their ripening glory of red and gold,
The peach-fruit harvest, that seems unending,
The toll from the plum and the pear trees old.

O for the trumpetvine, clinging and flinging
Tendril and bloom o'er the fence posts high;
O for the mocking bird's marvelous singing,
The breath of the pine and the blue of the sky.

O for a day like the days of my childhood,
Watching the white sails agleam on the sea,
Listlessly lying full-length in the wildwood,
The voices of Maryland whispering to me.

THIS OFFICE was swamped yesterday by telephone calls from followers of our Market Letters asking what exchange traded in shares of National Distillers Products corporation. The flurry arose from the report that this company will declare a special dividend of warehouse receipts for a case of 24 pints 15-year old aged in the wood whisky for each five common shares held. Despite adverse opinion of enforcement officers that the liquor could not reach stockholders for consumption, the stock rose ⅞ on the New York Stock exchange.

BALANCING THE BUDGET.

HTW: All people talk about is balancing the budget. It can be balanced in this way. Get a Japanese juggler to take all the bureaus at Washington which do not weigh much, on one foot, and the pile of figures showing the money lost in farm relief buying wheat and cotton, which went lower than before, on the other foot, and then just balance the budget. This would also promote better feeling between Japan and the U. S. A.

PROGRESSIVE DECAY.

ABOUT twenty years ago the passengers on a street car were startled by some very loud and harsh talking by a man. A young woman seated by this man jumped from her seat and found a place in another part of the car. The man was unmindful of the commotion he had caused. He was fairly well dressed and moderately clean. His eyes were very slightly crossed, and he looked about but appeared to see no one—at least he disregarded every one.

Doubtless the common expression was that he "had a crazy look." It was not easy to follow what he was saying, for he was much excited and quite talkative. He seemed to be calling on the Deity to avenge something and warning the people of something to come. After a little he quieted down, talking in an undertone, but every few blocks he would call out in a loud, strident tone.

One hearer was of the opinion that the man was crazy, that he was excitable and talkative, and driven by delusions. Some of his vagaries seemed to be delusions of persecution. He considered him dangerous, thinking that at some time a delusion of persecution would cause him to kill, thinking thus to protect himself against or to rid himself of an enemy.

In the years that followed this observer met the insane man on the streets or in the cars not less often than once a month. The disturbed man was restless and always on the move. Overhearing more of his talk, the observer lost his fear that he would harm any one. He appeared to be wholly indifferent to people. When a frightened woman ran away from him, so far from following her or yelling at her, he appeared never to have seen her. He resented nothing. He continued to have delusions but they did not seem to be personal to himself. There was less evidence that he considered himself persecuted.

As the years went by he deteriorated progressively. His clothes became poorer and less well kept. Finally he became ragged. At first he rode on the street cars steadily. Later he walked. He was just as restless as ever. He stopped shaving, although some one was apparently trying to keep his beard trimmed. He began to carry around strings tied into knots, sticks, and trivial bits. When he would sit down to rest on the curb he would play with these trifles and talk to them. Occasionally he would break out into loud, violent talk. Plainly his mind was degenerating.

The likelihood is that he will become more and more enfeebled mentally and physically. Some night he will lie out in the cold and contract a fatal pneumonia, or he may be the victim of a street accident.

Here is a man who has been insane for twenty years or more. Certainly he has been incapable of making a living under the conditions of open and competitive life. However, even after all these years, he is fairly strong physically. Probably he has never been a menace to any one, though always he has been a trial to those of his family and household. In a well regulated society his life might have been somewhat productive—at least enough so as to have earned his keep. His deterioration followed the usual pattern.

DIABETIC LITERATURE.

Mrs. R. L. B. writes: 1. Are there books or other literature on how to treat diabetes, with the doctor's help?

2. Should a person having diabetes be allowed to have milk, fruits containing any sugar, and other than whole wheat bread?

REPLY.

1. There are many excellent small, helpful books on diabetes, written in nontechnical language. Some cover diets and cookery especially, while some treat of other phases of the subject. Since the treatment of diabetes is principally a matter of hygiene, reading books of this kind is essential for success. The books are on sale in book stores.

2. The foods allowed different cases vary. Probably milk and fruits are allowed almost all diabetics. Few are allowed more than a minimum of breads, except those that contain almost no starch and sugar.

BEANS AND BUGS.

Mrs. H. H. writes: Is it all right to eat string beans which are sprayed in the garden for bugs? Will washing clean it off?

REPLY.

It should be safe. "Washing" is an elastic term, but the fact that so little bowel disturbance is charged against vegetables is pretty good proof that it is satisfactory. The increasing use of poisonous insecticides on fruits and vegetables increases the danger of one form of food poisoning.

VARICOSE VEINS.

J. O. writes: 1. Please give me some information about varicose veins in a woman over 50 years old.

2. Is excessive sweating an indication of high blood pressure?

REPLY.

1. They can be cured by injection or by any other operations. In many cases, wearing elastic stockings is the only treatment advised.

2. No.

RECUPERATION.

Mrs. H. M. writes: Why are these German boys so strong? While growing, during the world war, and Germany so hard pressed for food, surely these boys (who were children then) were denied milk and most essential vitamins to growing children, advocated by modern science. These specimens of young men seem contradictory. Am I correct?

REPLY.

Your question is sensible and I wish I knew the facts well enough to give a definite idea. While the boys may not be as strong as the experts say they were, we can safely assume that they were as strong as the general run of boxers of their class. This is ground enough for your inquiry. It does not follow because a country is hard up, and many of its children are undernourished, that all of the youth are without food enough or do not get food of good quality. In Germany during the war, while there were many thousand undernourished children, there were thousands who were thrifty and strong.

During the nearly fourteen years since the war the proportion of undernourished children has not been strikingly high. If any of these strong boys were markedly undernourished during the world war they have had fourteen years to recuperate. Undernourished children sometimes come back rapidly when properly fed. On the western plains a calf that in the drought season is runty, raw, bony, and rough rapidly grows and fattens after the rains make the pasture good. These boys have been having good food and extra good care for several years. These answers are general, but I have not the data for a more detailed reply.

GIFT WOULD LAPSE.

Grand Island, Neb.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In January my bachelor brother passed away, leaving an estate of some $10,000, including diamonds and gold pieces. He made a will in 1911, leaving all to my deceased sister, she having passed away in 1917. He did not mention my living brother or myself, who are his only blood relations and living heirs. Can he and I come in for our share? He was influenced by my deceased sister and her family as far back as 1890. Please advise what we can do, if anything. C. E. S.

As we understand the facts, the gift would lapse and the estate would go to the heirs. We could advise to better advantage if the wording of the will were before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANKRUPTCY.

Milwaukee, Wis.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a person file a petition of bankruptcy without the assistance of an attorney? 2. If so, what procedure must be followed? 3. Where can I obtain blanks for this purpose? 4. Is a person allowed any exemptions under the bankruptcy statute? How much?

E. V. R.

1. Yes, if he has sufficient ability.
2. The first step is to secure the printed forms from a stationer. After studying them you might inquire at the office of the clerk of the United States District court.
3. At any stationery store.
4. Your usual state exemptions would apply. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROTECTING LOAN.

Berwyn, Ill.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I loaned a relative several hundred dollars which he used to improve his house. There is a first mortgage on the house and the 1930 taxes are unpaid. 1. How would I stand if the house was sold for taxes? 2. Would you advise me to have the party issue a second mortgage in my favor for the money? J. H.

1. The default might lead to foreclosure which would wipe out the interest of your debtor and therefore the possibility of your collecting out of the property.
2. This would be one course. Another would be to take judgment, which would be a lien subordinate to the first mortgage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO COLLECT ON NOTE.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a note dated Jan. 1, 1921, against a party in Iowa. He has made deposits on note at different times up to 1929. 1. Does that renew the note? He claims now he has no money to pay the note, but owns a homestead which he claims is exemp. by the state laws of Iowa. 2. What is the time limit of note? 3. Does the indorsing of money sent me on back of note renew the note? 4. How long does the note run? A. G.

1. No, in the sense that you are in a position to sue upon the note at any time. Yes, to the extent that the payment would extend the limitation period.
2. Ten years.
3 and 4. See preceding answers.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 16, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At the close of the second day of White House conferences no feasible basis for a settlement of the grave differences existing between the big railroad systems of the country and their 400,000 employés had been reached. Despite the failure of the two parties to the controversy, assisted by President Wilson, to reach a ground of common agreement, the consensus tonight was that the work of today brought the railroads and the men measurably closer to a settlement and made more remote a general railroad strike, with its resultant paralysis of transportation and industry. The President is understood to have told both parties to the controversy in plain but kindly terms what the people of the country expect of them. The President has made no threat to use the "big stick" if the railroads and their employés fail to reach a satisfactory agreement. Nevertheless, he is prepared to exert every ounce of his power and influence as head of the nation to render the threatened strike impossible.

PETROGRAD.—The Russians have captured Jablonitza, one of the most important gateways through the Carpathians to the Hungarian plains, and have taken nearly 1,000 additional prisoners. They also have reoccupied Vormkhta and Ardjeliuf, on the River Pruth, south of Jablonitza.

LONDON.—The British and French night war reports indicate there is a lull in the fighting on the western front after the terrific clashes of yesterday and last night, and when the British recaptured about 700 yards of Somme trenches taken by the Germans, and the French struck a blow on the most important sector of the Verdun front. The German war office admitted the British victory and reports heavy fighting about Verdun.

ROME.—Italian troops, according to unofficial advices, have stormed the suburbs of Tolmein, which is said to be under continuous fire. The Austrians are reported to be evacuating the stronghold. Some of the suburbs are burning and the fall of the city is expected at any moment.

CHICAGO.—The five children of H. H. Honoré were gathered about his bedside last night in the Honoré home at 743 Lincoln parkway. Mr. Honoré, who is 93 years old, is failing rapidly and physicians reported that there is little chance of his recovery. Mrs. Potter Palmer, summoned by the news of her father's illness, arrived in the morning from her estate in Florida. Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant already had come from Pittsfield, Mass. The three sons, Judge Lockwood Honoré of the Circuit court, Adrian C. Honoré, and Nathaniel K. Honoré, have been at their father's side constantly since Aug. 10, when he suffered a heart attack.

CHICAGO.—Andrew J. Ryan, Dr. John B. Murphy's attorney, announced that Dr. Murphy died without leaving a will. He would make no statement as to the amount or disposition of the estate, but it is believed that its amount is in excess of a million dollars and that the widow by agreement with the three daughters will have the disposal of whatever bequests or funds for a memorial may be in view.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE.

Winnetka, Ill., Aug. 11.—Being a subscriber to your paper, I have read with interest the articles by John Steele covering the British empire trade conference in Ottawa.

From his reports it would appear that the conference was doomed to failure due to the selfish demands of those who were representative of the units of the empire. Mr. Steele would have it that the delegates, led by Canada, were holding a gun at the head of Britain, demanding that their needs be met under a threat of withdrawal from the empire. Fortunately, most Canadians in this country know by experience that THE TRIBUNE and Mr. Steele would like nothing better than to see the trade conference cause a disintegration of the greatest commonwealth of nations the world has ever seen. It is well, therefore, that Mr. Steele's reports are not taken too seriously, especially as they differ widely from those emanating from Canadian writers. His article in THE TRIBUNE of Aug. 10, however, cannot go unchallenged.

In the eighth paragraph of this article, Mr. Steele goes so far as to say in part, "Canadians say quite frankly that if they quarrel with Britain and lose her military and naval protection, Uncle Sam will take them under his wing—and to a Canadian the American navy looks just as good as the British."

It is this sort of piffle that is responsible to a great degree for that feeling of hostility which American tourists feel and wonder at while visiting Canada. Aside from the ridiculous statement relative to the naval strength, as it would appeal to a citizen of either this country or Canada, inherent loyalty to Britain would make such an idea preposterous. Any political party responsible for a policy likely to cause a breach in the relations between Canada and Britain would be immediately swept from power as effectively as was Sir Wilfrid Laurier, one of the most outstanding Canadian statesmen, when he tried to bring in his reciprocity treaty with the U. S. A. to the great disadvantage of Britain; and only in recent years the overthrow of the government under Mackenzie King for practically the same cause. Canada has her own ideas of her rights under the British empire and very naturally desires to strike a bargain to her best advantage, but most certainly not at the expense of loosening the tie with the mother country.

R. B. NORDHEIMER.

THEY CERTAINLY WERE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—I don't see anything in your paper about the danger of having Mr. Small elected again as our governor. It would be a catastrophe to have his crowd saddled on us again. Almost better have Mr. Hoover defeated. Were they not at the bottom of most of our troubles? JULIUS STEELE.

THE INDIANA MINE SIEGE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—Your fine Indiana mine editorial pictures the situation exactly. HERBERT R. HILL.

PURE FOOD AND DRUGS.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Under the heading of "Pure Food and Drugs" F. E. Barr, in a letter that appeared in the Voice of the People Aug. 10, discussed what he described as the "infamous multiple seizures" sometimes made by the food and drug administration of the United States department of agriculture. Mr. Barr declared that such seizures "are largely influenced by the American Medical association," and he implied that the products of "big manufacturers" are never molested.

One wonders if Mr. F. E. Barr's interest in this matter may be prompted by a possible connection with F. E. Barr & Co., which puts out a "patent medicine" known as "Boracetine." As long ago as July, 1920, the Journal of the American Medical Association published an article on Boracetine, pointing out that the product, which at that time was described as an "efficient germ destroyer," was a very ordinary mouth wash. Ten years later, in July, 1930, the food and drug administration of the United States department of agriculture seized two small consignments of Boracetine, charging that they were adulterated and misbranded. In July, 1931, the government published a notice of judgment, No. 17782, declaring Boracetine adulterated and misbranded. The manufacturers had not appeared to defend their product. The government report stated that Boracetine was essentially a water-alcohol solution of baking soda, borax, potassium chlorate and some volatile oils, such as thymol, menthol, eucalyptol and cassia, and that bacteriologic examination proved that Boracetine was not antiseptic. The courts held that Boracetine was adulterated because it was labeled "antiseptic" and that it would "destroy all germ life," when, as a matter of fact, it was not antiseptic. It was declared misbranded because many of the curative claims made for it were false, misleading or fraudulent.

The food and drug administration of the United States department of agriculture was created to protect the public against adulterated and misbranded foods and drugs. It was given the power to make seizures whenever and wherever they seemed called for, so that the public health might not suffer. The courts have upheld the principle of multiple seizures. Were multiple seizures not permitted it would be possible for dangerous foods and drugs to be sold practically all over the United States pending the outcome of the government's case in one particular locality against a single seizure of such products.

Second Novel by Leonard Is Confusing One

"Trafton Helen" Follows "Back to Stay."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Trafton Helen," by Jonathan Leonard. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

THE back jacket of "Trafton Helen" is a paean of praise to its author, with excerpts from the most extravagant eulogies about Mr. Leonard's feeling for the New England which he describes, his prose, his sense of character, his contemporaneousness from pens like Conrad Aiken's, Gorham B. Munson's, Ford Madox Ford's, etc. They are all praising "Back to Stay," which was one of the literary excitements of 1929, for it was "discovered not in manuscript but in book form.

JONATHAN LEONARD.

The author, who had finished it—his first novel—at the age of 50, had set the type, printed two pages at a time, and bound 100 copies by hand, when the resultant book, like Col. Lawrence's famous privately printed "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," suddenly became a "find" and was published and marketed by a regular publisher. You know, of course, that "The Revolt in the Desert," which made the name of Col. Lawrence known wherever English was read, is "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" expurgated. "Back to Stay," unlike Col. Lawrence's book, was given to the public exactly as it had been written and it won immediate praise.

With such intelligent critics heralding the author of "Trafton Helen" as a "natural" one is slightly dazed by the contents of Mr. Leonard's latest work. It seems impossible, to this reader at least, that the same pen which wrote "Back to Stay" contrived "Trafton Helen," for "Trafton Helen" is—and again I say to this reader at least—involved, uninteresting, and ineffectual. It is possible that there is some subtle beauty which I am incapable of unearthing in it, but everything about it seems to me a groping and a never finding.

The prose which has won its author such great praise is a prose in the modern impressionistic manner, but it is unsuccessful, and the only reason for the being of new forms is that they are either better and more vivid than old ones or that their tendencies may lead to a heightening of artistic effect. The new forms of, say Gertrude Stein, while incomprehensible to many readers, have already won their place in the history of literature by their influence toward compactness, toward exactness of statement, toward vividness of visual impression which words give readers. Without the incomprehensible Gertrude Stein the comprehensible Ernest Hemingway [and countless others] would never have been.

Jonathan Leonard's prose is not creative in that sense. It is experimental in the sense that it is not the customary subject and predicate prose of classic litrature, but it is not experimental in the sense that it has evolved something new.

The conversation in the book is, to me, actively bad, for almost every character in the book talks exactly like every other, not in actual words, perhaps, but in manner. Certainly all of the non-natives use practically the same vocabulary and in the same combinations of intricate words never saying exactly what they mean. The natives' phraseology is local, but the combinations of the local words are quite as complicated and as intricate as the non-natives'.

The story is of a middle aged man and his middle aged wife, both of whom are groping for some emotional experience, and of their adopted son, who is really the illegitimate child of the wife, who breaks up their minor amours with the help of a couple of natives. I suppose that it is meant to be a subtle study of the psychology of the mother and the son and their interrelationships, but it never seems to emerge clearly from its haziness.

"Trafton Helen" makes one think of Willa Cather because it is in the sharpest possible contrast to her work. Her latest volume of short stories, two of which are, for sheer pellucid prose in the classical manner, masterpieces, was reviewed recently and that review brought me a letter from Florence G. Yore of Chicago which sets down so plainly the simple human power of our greatest woman novelist's prose that I want to share part of the letter with you. "We in America," she writes, "are too close to her to realize her masterpieces. You know, too close for a good perspective. Time will have us see that more clearly. You told us all to read 'Shadows on the Rock.' I followed your advice and I can tell you it was the most beautiful and inspiring book I ever read. I never laid it down the whole day until I finished it. It was a hunger—that's all. I bought that book as a little present to myself. Depression or no depression, I didn't want to rent it. I wanted to keep it always.

"Believe me when I tell you that it was one of the happiest days I ever spent. . . . I wanted to do good deeds, cook good meals; why, I almost started housecleaning from its effects. It clears all the cobwebs of unhappiness and meanness from your mind. Talk about a prayerbook; it is a prayer of beauty, meekness, and kindness. What she does to sentences in that book! They are living, singing, weeping harps of words. . . ."

To such a degree can a mere reader, not at all a literary person, be moved by great writing.

Older Women Better Looking, Not So Freakish

They Choose Clothes and Cosmetics Wisely.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Dorothy Dix recently entered a vehement protest against women who refuse to grow old gracefully, women who strive to look like ingenues when they're grandmothers. Dorothy listened in at a beauty culture lecture addressed to grandmothers. And what she heard about creams and lotions and paints and powders making a grandmere look like what she ain't was too much for the listener.

Why any woman of fifty, sixty, seventy wants to look like a flapper was her question. But do they? Don't most of these older women just want to hear about how they might look if they ate nothing, daily-dozened religiously, and finecombed their faces for a sagging muscle just as they like to hear about other promised lands they're too modest or too sensible to expect? Just as they like to feed their hungry hearts with movie romance?

Personally, I think our older women today are acting their ages charmingly, on the whole. Here and there, yes, we have a poor freak who yearns for flapper bouquets, who plays the night clubs in giggling, guzzling, pathetically silly style.

But women are franker about their generation. That helps! And of recent years dress styles have helped beautifully to classify them according to their generation. Think back to that kiltie-skirted era when a woman of 50 couldn't act her age, no matter how much she would have liked to. Think of the same woman today. She's dignified and very charming.

True, she works to keep herself down in weight. She scouts for sagging muscles and gets after them. And she does her hair according to the mode. But that's fine. It supplies her with the morale a woman of middle age needs.

Take hair alone, today. Gray hair isn't nearly so devastating to the morale as it used to be. A woman dresses it beautifully today. She dresses it youthfully, too. She chooses colors that bring out the best in skin and silhouette. No, I don't think we have any kick on our grandmothers.

Fair Transport Building to Be Dedicated Sept. 15

The Travel and Transport building of the Century of Progress Exposition will be dedicated by World's Fair officials on Sept. 15, it was announced yesterday. The structure is at 35th street and Leif Ericksen drive. Its dome is separate from the hall itself. Steel cables, fastened to twelve steel towers hold the dome in place. Contracts for exhibit space in the building next year have been signed by thirty-two railroads and transportation companies.

The Platinum Blonde Is Soon to Be Redhead

Expert Predicts Change in Fashion.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The waning of the popularity of the blonde in favor of the Titian and auburn haired woman was predicted yesterday by Max Hoefer, president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association, at a style show preview in the Hotel Sherman. The association will be the sponsor of a fashion show there on Sept. 5.

Mr. Hoefer made it clear that the moderately blonde woman may remain a moderate blonde and be in fashion, but that the woman who has been going in for either platinum blonde hair or other shades of extremely pale blonde, probably would appear soon with brand new Titian locks. Or, if she prefers, a coppery bronze may be adopted.

The reason for this is a practical one, according to the hairdressing expert. Women who have been bleaching their hair to the extreme have as a result brittle, "spongy" hair which has to be restored from the bleaching to be normal. Red hair doesn't have to be bleached before it's dyed.

The depression has made for lower prices in the smaller beauty shops, Mr. Hoefer indicated. He said there probably are more women than ever in Chicago seeking to purchase beauty from the shops.

The gray haired women who ordinarily have their hair dyed every three or four weeks are now waiting six weeks between dyeings, however, and those who used to have a hair dye every six weeks are waiting two months. But let their hair remain gray? Never, said Mr. Hoefer.

The models who exhibited fall and winter fashions of hairdress showed hair softly waving off the face, ending in curls at the nape of the neck. The left side of the hairdress was fuller than the right, as the new hats are small and tilted over the right eye, leaving considerable hair showing on the left.

A soft bang line is becoming to the face and is favored for fall, the experts said. The entire right ear may be shown, but not the left ear, according to one dictum.

The hair line in the back is shorter than it was for the previous season, it was said, the hair when curled up in the back reaching no lower than the upper line of the neck.

Services commemorating the Fort Dearborn massacre of 120 years ago were held yesterday morning at the scene of the massacre, 18th street and Calumet avenue, where the Daughters of 1812 laid a wreath, and at the site of the fort, opposite the London Guarantee and Accident building, Michigan avenue and Wacker drive. The Daughters of the American Revolution placed a wreath at the site of the fort. The services were preceded by an inspection of the replica of Fort Dearborn in the World's Fair grounds. There followed a luncheon meeting of the Junior Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman at which R. I. Randolph spoke.

Charity Sale to Open New Ryan House

Offer Work of Shut-ins at Wheaton.

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOW, aren't the women who manage the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins clever to have gotten Mrs. William A. Ryan to open her residence, Whitewood, in Wheaton, for a sale of the lovely and useful things made by "shut-ins," for Whitewood is brand new and all the Wheaton residents and those who drive out Roosevelt road to Geneva have watched the house being built and so of course will welcome the opportunity of seeing the inside of the house.

The Ryans haven't even had a housewarming yet, although they've had several small parties for relatives and friends since moving in about six weeks ago. The house was the Edward N. Hurleys' wedding gift to their only daughter, Helen, who was married to "Billy" Ryan a year ago last January.

It is next door to the Hurleys' own country residence, Hurley Farms, and although it is set fairly far back from the road, it easily is seen by passing motorists, for there are no large trees or bushes to mar the view. I daresay, however, that there will be the same sort of protection to insure privacy at Whitewood as there is at Hurley Farms and East House, the junior Hurleys' residence just east of Hurley Farms, when the planting that has been done since the house was finished matures.

The sale is to be held on Wednesday, Aug. 24, from 10 to 5 o'clock, and assisting Mrs. Ryan will be a group of young Wheatonites including Mrs. Horace O. Wetmore, Mrs. John A. Muldoon, Mrs. Niblack Thorne, Mrs. Ira L. Couch, Miss Dorothy Plamondon, Miss Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Joseph M. Bricker, Mrs. David F. Taber, and Mrs. Edwin A. Hoffman.

Yacht Races Called Off.

No amount of effort or skill in manipulating the sails and no amount of swearing by the disgruntled yachtsmen did a bit of good at Lake Geneva yesterday morning in increasing the breeze, and so the first two races of the Inland Lakes Yachting association's regatta had to be called off for all the boats were becalmed.

The boats were able to race in the afternoon and Tom Irvine of the White Bear Yacht club won the Three Dell challenge trophy in Blue Devil. Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr. gave a buffet supper at her home tonight for a number of visitors.

The yachtsmen are praying for a good stiff breeze today so that the class E race for the Black Point trophy and the class C race for the William Bray trophy may be sailed as scheduled at 9:45 and 10:10 o'clock [standard time] and the class A race for the President Otto L. Schmidt Challange trophy may start at 2:30 o'clock. Tonight there will be a dance at the Big Foot Country club.

The flower show at Lake Geneva last Friday and Saturday netted about $1,000, of which half goes to Holiday home and half to the Gardeners' association.

Anniversary of T. Philip Swifts.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift will not arrive at home from Wianno, Mass., in time to celebrate their 14th wedding anniversary with her husband, for she and little Betty are not expected in Lake Forest by Mr. Swift, and young Edward III., and Phelps until the first of next week, and the anniversary is tomorrow.

It does not seem possible that it was 14 years ago that pretty young Betty Hoyt became the bride of young Lieut. Swift in one of the largest and loveliest of the military weddings that were so popular in 1917 and 1918, but it was.

It was in Christ church, Winnetka, that the wedding took place, that quaint little church on the hill on Sheridan road that was built in memory of their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Morton Fox, by the William M. Hoyts, Betty Hoyt's grandparents. After the ceremony, which was unusually lovely as I remember it, although no doubt the orchid chiffon gowns worn by the bridesmaids and their huge black tulle hats would look very strange today, there was a reception at the residence of the bride's maternal grandfather, the late Benjamin Allen, with whom the bride of that day and her younger sister, Emilie, and their mother, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, lived. It was only a short walk from the church to the house and I still remember what a charming sight it was to see the wedding party and the guests walk down Sheridan road from the church to the house.

Emilie, now Mrs. Dexter Cummings, was the maid of honor that day, with her hair hanging down her back, and little Hortense Henry, whose mother, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, was a bridesmaid, and Betsy Hoyt, daughter of the William M. Hoyts II., were flower girls.

Flower Girl Now a Bride.

Miss Henry was a bride herself last winter, having been married to Gordon P. Kelley on Jan 16. The other attendants were Mrs. Edward F. Swift Jr. [she was Marion Atchison of Atlanta and she and Mr. Swift have been divorced since]; Miss Ginevra King, now Mrs. William H. Mitchell; Miss Lolita Armour, the present Mrs. John J. Good morning!
The woods were deep and piny
And the water deep and cold,
The fish were biting fiercely
And the fishermen were bold.
The log fires crackled warmly
And the sunsets thrilled the soul(d).
In—the—place—where—I—have—been.

[Sing ad lib to tune of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and guess where.]

Well, coming back from this vacation was the usual Rip-Van-Winklish experience. I always feel so sort of pristine, naïve and peculiar on account of never looking at a newspaper or seeing a newspaper all the time I'm away. Unless you've tried this method of letting the world slip by unnoticed for a time you've no idea of the relaxation it affords or the kick there is in reopening your eyes to the parade of current events. Learing that stocks have gone up! The latest Cub news! That Hoover's turned damp and Prosperity's turned the corner! While seeing a MOVIE again is just plain manna from heaven to the picture fan who's been on a three weeks' fast!

"Almost Married," the first film I sashayed forth to observe proved an up and coming melodrama with plenty of suspense. Keen acting, quietly competent direction and clever staging smooth a story that has some raw edges and so, the production holds intact the interest of the observer.

A maniac, a diplomat and a woman whom both men call "wife" are the limelighted characters. Asylum guards, police, Russian and English, and a volatile, unfortunate French girl lend colorful support.

The action starts in a train bound for Moscow aboard which is the woman—a fugitive. It winds up in London. The picture shall enlighten you as to events that transpire between first and final curtains.

There's no doubt but that you'll be greatly taken with the work of the entire cast. Indeed I feel that "Almost Married" [aside from its dumb title] will, as a whole, intrigue you.

The vaudeville end of the State-Lake's program is upheld by Frances White, et al. Air's cool. Seats are comfortable as per usual and two bits wafts you through the golden gates.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doris Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of the mercenary Doris. He decides to sail himself. David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal, sails on the same boat. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage, and from New York sends him to his Texas lumber camp for a six months' try out. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. She also does some work for Pierce, under Dorrance's instructions, but refuses compensation from Pierce.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

A LIMITED WARDROBE.

"Well," Gold said, her chin high, "here is a girl who is what you call safe, however empty her pockets are."

"Nevertheless there will be five hundred dollars to Miss Franklyn's account at the Chase National, payment for services rendered, and, if you like, about to be rendered."

"I shan't touch it."

"We're in!" murmured voices around them. Barney looked round, and back again; and Gold Franklyn had slipped from his side. On his other side Doris had caught his glance and drew nearer.

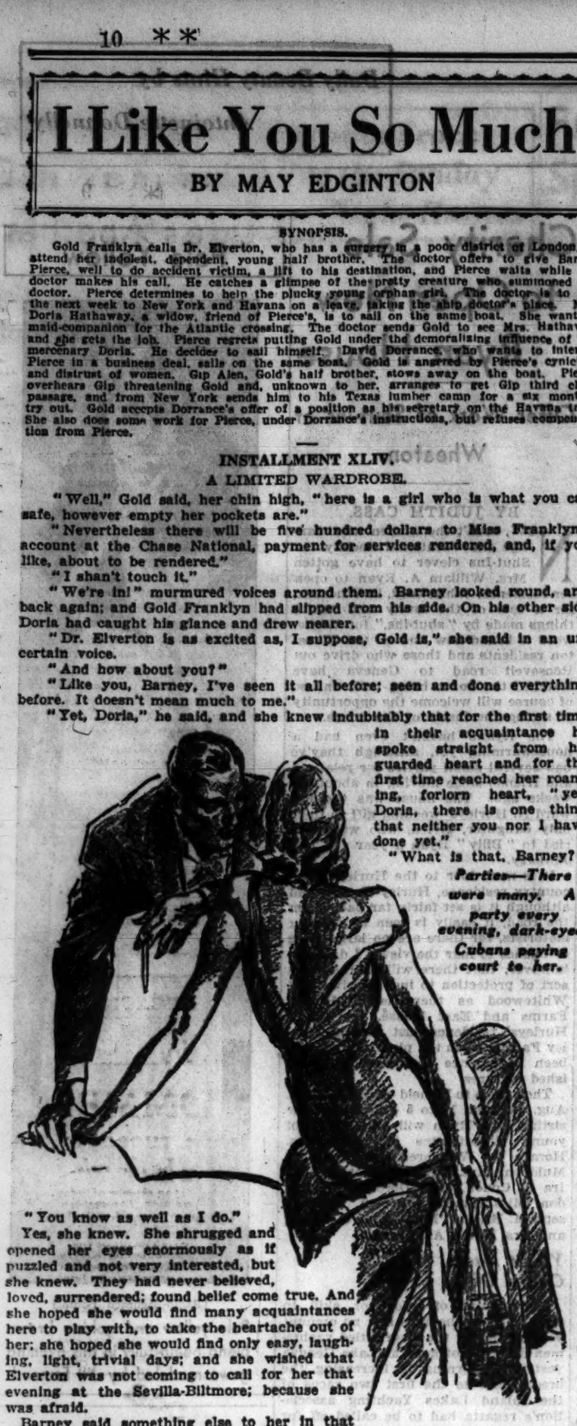
"Dr. Elverton is as excited as, I suppose, Gold is," she said in an uncertain voice.

"And how about you?"

"Like you, Barney, I've seen it all before; seen and done everything before. It doesn't mean much to me."

"Yet, Doria," he said, and she knew indubitably that for the first time in their acquaintance he spoke straight from his guarded heart and for the first time reached her roaming, forlorn heart, "yet, Doria, there is one thing that neither you nor I have done yet."

"What is that, Barney?"



Parties—There were many. A party every evening, dark-eyed Cubans paying court to her.

"You know as well as I do."

Yes, she knew. She shrugged and opened her eyes enormously as if puzzled and not very interested, but she knew. They had never believed, loved, surrendered; found belief come true. And she hoped she would find many acquaintances here to play with, to take the heartache out of her; she hoped she would find only easy, laughing, light, trivial days; and she wished that Elverton was not coming to call for her that evening at the Sevilla-Biltmore; because she was afraid.

Barney said something else to her in that moment as the ship's motion stilled; that moment in which an almost friendship was achieved between them; "Doria, how on earth does a man offer a woman money and make her take it?"

"I've tried successfully to show you several times, Barney," she sighed demurely, "and I'll always try again."

He burst out laughing.

"Ah, Doria," he said, "you're no answer."

In the moment that he turned away Doria told herself irrevocably what she already knew: "I've lost him for good and all."

This renewed in her a familiar and dangerous feeling of recklessness, of daring. For she was now so "broke" that nothing mattered.

She found gay people whom she knew at the Biltmore; and the restless part of her craved to be with them later at the smart Casino Nacional, eating and drinking superlatively and expensively, staking some easy-humored man's money at the tables, escaping losses and pocketing winnings herself. For she was so broke . . .

Yet what did she find herself doing that evening which had been promised beforehand to Elverton? She found herself eating very simply and drinking a rough red wine in a little Spanish restaurant near the water front with this poor man, this man not easy-humored, who always told her revealing truths about herself. She found herself walking beside this man through parts of Old Havana, about which, though she had several times visited Cuba, she had never troubled. The old plazas, the antiquated houses with their big doorways, thick walls, coat-of-arms cut in the stone; the little ancient houses roofed in Creole tiles, the narrow Spanish streets, all lay wonderfully quiet under the moon. A passing figure here and there, the tuning of a stringed instrument and then the ensuing music here and there—these were all of the world that intruded upon Doria and Elverton as they walked along, her arm drawn through his, and—yes—his hand holding hers. O, simplicity! O, how they would have laughed—those gay acquaintances now at the Casino!

And now what was this man saying so raptly: "O, this beauty and this peace! This beauty and this peace—with you!"

"I never want peace!" she began to declare as usual, but the words were false tonight and would not be spoken. They wandered on, in the strangest enchantment.

When this grave, dreaming, ecstatic man escorted her home early—as she understood nocturnal hours—and left her with a kiss upon her flashing fingers, she did not so much as ring up an interesting party, say: "This is me—Doria Hathaway. You haven't forgotten . . . ? I'll come along now to you at the Casino." No. She thought of the Casino; thought of the gay party; but went to bed and dreamed otherwise.

. . . . . .

Barney Pierce established himself at the Plaza.

. . . . . .

Now there turned for Gold Franklyn the next page of the life wonderful. The appeal of Havana was still the old appeal of the Spanish Main; brave, gallant, reckless, and wild; the atmosphere of Havana's tropical nights was still the atmosphere of high and hot adventure; yet its sophistication was complete; its luxury a revelation.

Work was tremendous—for now, arriving here, Dorrance, in lazy looking conclaves with men, sipping wine, exchanging the day's gossip, laying light-hearted plans for revelry which would nearly always include her, yet found himself on the edge of many a piece of business that he had meant to shelve during this trip. She was sharing in a businessman's hard worked holiday rush.

Parties. . . . There were many. A party every evening, dark-eyed Cubans paying court to her; the lazy, lovely dark women friendly, uncritical, while their many changes of gowns, their incessant changes of jewels, astonished her. Sometimes the party included Doria; and sometimes, also, Elverton seemed to edge determinedly in—this when Doria was of the company.

The party often included Barney, who responded with parties of his own—magnificent parties out at the country club, or at the Casino de le Plaza.

When she went down to the beach early in the dazzling morning, the cheapest of bathing wraps over her cheap swimming suit, he was there.

She was whirled out, in Dorrance's entourage, to unimaginably beautiful houses in Miramar, in La Sierra, and Country Club park, where the streets wound through and about hills of pines, of almond blossoms and palms. She was taken to stately haciendas outside the city. On cool wide verandas she would sit and fill her eyes with the colors of flowers and sky, while taking the minutes of what she could not help but know was some quite mighty conference—Dorrance, his New York lawyer, Barney Pierce as often as not; some Cuban host whose head for business was no less hard because his black eyes looked at all women softly and his hospitality flowed lavishly.

A week, ten days; then Dorrence began to say kindly but firmly, the quality of his firmness never being indicated at all by the fact that he looked so easy:

"Listen, my dear. You're making a grand display of those few clothes of yours, and you look wonderful in anything. But I've never before known such a pretty girl with so few things to her back. Something must be done. What?

"You see," he said, not waiting yet for an answer, "you're a girl of style, they've taken to you over here. I've decided. I'll put your salary up when we get back to New York.

"You know I'm saving my salary," she reminded him, "to pay back your loan of fifty dollars. Four weeks working for you and it'll be repaid."

"In four weeks we'll be out of Havana and back in the old routine, my dear. Meanwhile, the day after tomorrow, I'm giving a party out at Plaza de Marianao; dinner, dancing, moonlight bathing for any one who wants. You want the right clothes for it, the sort all these women wear out here, and they can be bought here. I'll make you a special dress allowance—it's often done—for the occasion. Because you have to play up. One of those white things that drape heavily; and I'd like you to have a new evening coat——"

Bright Sayings of the Children

One afternoon Eugene, aged 4, had been at the beach. When she returned he asked, "Mother, what is a bathing suit for?" I said, "Why, you couldn't go in the water without one," and he answered, "Well, it doesn't keep me dry."

Movie Blonde Friendly with Charlie Chaplin

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15.—It may not be serious, but it's at least conspicuous, this sudden gush of friendship between Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard, of the white spun silk hair.

Miss Goddard is the good looking young divorcée who was first picked up by Hal Roach to use as a platinum blonde consolation prize after Mr. Roach had generously agreed to cancel his contract with Jean Harlow because Jean's grandfather objected to the movies. Mr. Roach then had the pleasure of sitting back and watching Jean ascend as a film star two years later, which is something like kicking aside the first nugget of gold on a mine that later smelts out $1,000,000.

After Miss Goddard was cast in a couple of shorts at Roach's, something interrupted her film career until we next see her engaged as one of Dance Director Busby Berkeley's cuties to cavort in and out of pajamas and silk bathing suits in Eddie Cantor's "Kid from Spain."

This cavorting revealed that Miss Goddard was a good actress and she was given a part in the Cantor picture, while the studio watchmen stood around and gasped at the big foreign automobile in which Paulette drove to work.

Lately she has been appearing at parties, cafés, and day and night outdoor gatherings as the girl companion of Charlie Chaplin. Miss Goddard's previous career as an actress included among other things an appearance in one Ziegfeld show, and a limited appearance in one Selwyn play.

That Cantor picture, with its 76 beautiful maids, has been teeming with romance. For instance, there's not only Paulette and Charlie, but there's Nancy Lyon and Harry Bannister; there's Marian Sayre and a publisher's son, and there's Toby Wing and Jack Oakie. Any of 'em might end up in marriages and nobody be surprised.

Dale Winter, the singer and actress who one time was Mrs. Colosimo, still cold shoulders the films but is starring in a coast stage revival of "Irene," which is again making money for the coast stage chain operated by herself and her husband, Henry Duffy. Miss Winter is probably the most consistently well tended actress on the west coast.

Winsome Design with Fichu Collar, Full Skirt Comes in Sizes 2, 4, and 6

CHILD'S DRESS.

This winsome dress is for very small girls, and the full skirt and fichu collar are as pretty as can be. The skirt is laid in plaits and attached to a brief bodice. Then the collar is made, next bloomers, and that is all there is to it.

The pattern, 2963, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Toy Pistol Is Dangerous for Your Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A good way to avoid a danger is to know it's there. It is with that in mind—not to alarm, but to warn—that I want to quote today from a booklet published by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, by C. Edith Kerby. It is called "Eye Accidents in Child Play."

What would you think would be the cause of the most eye accidents to children in play? The answer is weapons. Nearly a third—that is, 31 per cent of all the cases occuring—are caused by weapons. And under weapons are classed air rifles, B. B. guns, shotguns, and other small caliber rifles, 12 per cent; then blank cartridge and cap pistols, 3 per cent; large calibre firearms, 1 per cent; home made guns and cannons, 2 per cent; slingshots and rubber band flippers, 7 per cent; arrows, 3 per cent; stones and other objects used as missiles, 3 per cent; tear gas guns, 1 per cent.

Next in danger come fireworks, which cause nearly a quarter of eye accidents—to be exact, 23 per cent.

Next come sharp pointed objects, such as knives and scissors, sticks, nails, wire and hooks, 11 per cent. The other percentages are smaller and, due to flying particles, games and sports, falls, etc.

Now, the data just given are percentages. As to number, the study estimated first that the press got wind of only a fraction of the cases and that probably "the number of eye accidents occurring to children in a single year may run into the thousands."

The study goes on to say: "A glance at the table . . . shows that more than one-half of the eye accidents to children are due to two groups of causes—weapons and fireworks—and that of these two the weapon group is the more important.

"The latter fact will no doubt be a surprise to many people who still think that the 'toy' gun in any of its various forms is a proper plaything for a child."

Linen Closets Can Be Filled at Low Prices

Special Bargains Offered by Chicago Stores.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

LOTS of prowling shoppers refuse to be unduly excited over snooty little hats that are supposed to be very new and full of significant hints of how the fashionable head will be topped this fall, or about the new sleeves or new silhouettes or any other fashion hint, but they are almost waving banners and blowing trumpets over the "finds" for their linen cupboards.

You can shop for hours in the various Chicago shops that specialize in these grand things for your homes, and emerge triumphantly with some of the best buys of the season.

Bedspreads seem to have a fine and firm appeal for all. Some good looking washable affairs of heavy non-crushable cotton poplin will be the joy of any collector. They have appliqued designs in white on spreads of deep blue, sea green, and a soft rose or mauve.

The designs are large and most effective. The blue of one spread is frosted with old fashioned posies. A rose one has sparkling white cocoanut palm trees and flamboyant tropical blossoms that ought to transplant you to south sea islands any frosty morning this coming winter.

The green spread is sprinkled with cool white stars in various sizes, and other covers are stunning creations with an enormous white monogram as a center decoration.

Some more unusual values that will start the bargain hunting housewife on a regular buying binge are some new blanket covers of silk crepe with insertion of lace in some breath taking colors and low price marks. The shops are also showing some moire silk spreads that are guaranteed to keep their lovely wavery moire traceries after repeated trips to the laundry.

Quilted comforters that boast all the charming old fashioned hand quilted designs that your grandmothers knew are also priced unbelievably low. A small patterned calico and sprigged chintz have been skillfully quilted and scalloped in large shallow half-circles and then bound with bright, cheerful contrasting colors.

You can buy the satin down comforter of your wildest dreams of luxury now for the lowest price imaginable, sleek, opulent looking affairs in two color combinations with scalloped or plain bound edges. Now is the time to buy blankets for your home as well as for the school and college equipment of your offspring. You will find warm wools in all weights, in plain colors, plaids, stripes and a few barred effects. Blankets that will do double duty as bed cover and extra cover for the fresh air fiend.

If you can get your mind off these blankets and comforters long enough to discover the startling values on late summer and autumn table cloths and luncheon linens, you'll be in luck again.

A black, gray and white squared coarse linen set of fringed cloth and matching napkins, a black, red, and gold striped set, some white and red checks and a brilliant yellow and green striped set are merely a few of the bargains that will tempt you with their almost incredibly low price tags. They are colorful linens for your depleted linen shelves that will cheer up your budget as well as all early morning breakfast eaters.

Hunters for Chicle Find Ancient City in Mexican Jungle

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—America's demand for chewing gum has uncovered in Mexican jungles a lost city that 1,500 years ago was a metropolis of an Egypt-like civilization.

Great pyramids and the ruins of temples and palaces in which a teeming population once lived have been found buried in what is now uninhabited, almost impassable jungle, by an expedition of the Carnegie institution of Washington.

Native chewing gum hunters, who explored the region for chicle, first found the ruins, said the Carnegie institution in announcing the find today.

The city, named "Calakmul" by C. L. Lundell, the first American to visit it, was built at the height of the vanished civilization of the "old empire" of the Mayas. Soon after the time of Christ they developed what many archeologists call the most brilliant of the ancient Indian civilizations of America.

Mayans carved dates on their buildings and the dates at Calakmul indicate that the city flourished from 364 to 551 A. D. It may have been 250 years later, however, as archeologists differ in their interpretation of the Maya dates.

Calakmul is in the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico, just over the northern border of Guatemala, where the Mayan "old empire" originated.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Tent.

"I would appreciate getting a tent some one may be planning to discard. I have been out of work for a long time and have no money with which to buy one. I am over 65 years of age and have been offered the use of a small piece of land to help me make a living, and the shelter of the tent would enable me to live there and cultivate the ground. J. D."

Getting the proper tent probably would solve a number of problems for this elderly man. He'd be assured of a home until the cold weather begins and perhaps a means of livelihood.

Parisian Frock for the Sunday Night Hostess

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Violets and royal purples, orchids and lilacs are colors that are taking hold of Fashion's fancy for late summer and early fall. Women in Paris are wearing frocks of violet when they entertain their friends at home. Violet velvet hostess dresses are introduced by the great dressmakers for Sunday night wear in the autumn. In the new, transparent velvets these dresses are one hundred per cent seductive. Maggy Rouff makes several frocks in violet velvet, the kind of velvet that doesn't wrinkle nor decay in several sittings.

One of her frocks in this gorgeous material and color is shown in our sketch today. It is a hostess, informal evening frock, in the best Paris manner, with long sleeves and a daytime neckline. It has a double fichu, one of violet transparent velvet that is actually the entire front of the bodice, and draped around the shoulders in back. Another is made of orchid colored chiffon, placed around the neck, passed through a jeweled ring in front, and then passed around the waistline and tucked under a narrow velvet belt, as shown on the small figure.

The sleeves of this frock are long and bell-shaped. The skirt has a pointed hip yoke in front that ends under a center, flared panel at the back. This panel begins to flare well below the hipline. The skirt is flared in front by a circular godet from the point of the hip yoke.

Free Ice Fund Sponsors Spend a Gloomy Day

Gifts Show Decline but Need Remains.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Those responsible for THE TRIBUNE free ice fund cast a discouraged eye on the total in the treasury yesterday. Half the summer is gone and only $1,823.83 is available to pay the iceman for his regular visits to the homes of destitute Chicago citizens.

Further, half the summer is ahead and no money forthcoming to keep tiny babies well through the blistering days that usually are ushered in with September. The situation is extremely serious, as is shown by this comparison. Last year $7,000 was expended by the ice fund because unemployment had made the need greater than ever before. This year the need is even greater, yet there is but $1,800 on hand to pay for the ice which has been ordered for hundreds of families.

The families themselves, hoping against hope that ice will come their way, have written to the fund. In tone these letteres are the same:

"I am a mother of five children. As my husband is unemployed the charity gives us food and milk for the babies. But we are unable to buy ice and the result is our milk and food spoils. I am just home from the hospital with our fifth baby. I would appreciate it if you would get us some ice. May God bless you for the wonderful work you are doing."

The contributions during the last three weeks of pleasant weather have fallen off. Only $18.84 was added to the fund over the week-end. In normal years the day's average during midsummer was $200 and $300.

The youngsters have been by far the best friends of the fund this year. Scarcely a day passes without a gift earned by a lemonade stand or circus benefit.

Yesterday's juvenile contributors included Patsy and Clara Marcotte, Jean, Marian and Betsy Smith and Marjorie Flood, who earned $1.09 giving a variety show in the 300 block on Franklin avenue, River Forest. Seventy-five cents was sent by Deborah Greenberg, James Johnston, Walter McGaw, Norman Tenkin and Joseph Cappela.

Others who sent ice fund gifts were J. Smith, $10; Mrs. Leah Ellibogen, $5; Mrs. George Seabury, $3; making the grand total $1,823.83.

Contributions for the ice fund or the Camp Algonquin fund, which provides free vacations for tenement mothers and children near Algonquin, Ill., may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Groucho Marx Heads College in New Movie

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Imagine what Groucho Marx would be like as the dignified president of a college. He'd be pretty comical, to say the least, and that's exactly what he is in "Horsefeathers," opening at McVicker's theater on the 19th. His brothers, Harpo, Chico, and Zeppo, have roles which more nearly resemble the type of thing they usually play.

That irrepressible, red bewigged Harpo is the town dogcatcher, but he takes enough time out to play football for dear old Huxley. A teammate is Chico, whose regular occupation is the rather dubious combination of iceman and bootlegger. Zeppo plays Groucho's son, a student at Huxley for twelve years, and when the picture opens there's every indication that they'll have to burn down the college to get the boy out of school. And therein lies the plot.

The picture is full of the craziest and funniest situations you've ever encountered on the screen. There's the time Groucho turns the rather dull inaugural ceremony into what has every semblance of a gay party, with all the professors doing the rhumba and singing a popular song. . . . There's the football game which looks more like a riot than anything you've ever seen on a campus. . . . There's Harpo at his work—rescuing stray dogs. . . . There's a tumultuous celebration after the big football victory which forms the climax of this amusing picture . . . And throughout its many reels there are gags and gags which are enough to keep one in a constant state of hysteria.

All of which is meant to convey the idea that it's a marvelous picture, if you like riotous comedy, and the hundred boys and girls who win invitations to it may be assured of a grand time. The party will be on Thursday, Aug. 25, at Publix-Balaban & Katz McVicker's theater, and letters from contestants must reach me no later than this coming Thursday, for that's the day I'm planning to read them and select the winners.

You know, if you want to be included in this group—and I want all of you to try to be—just write a letter telling why. The boys and girls who write the best ones will be my guests. Don't forget to write your name and address plainly and don't forget to tell me your age.

Chicagoans at Christie Party.

Several well known Chicagoans were among the guests at a large reception given by Charles Christie, the film producer, at his Beverly Hills residence the other night following Adolph Bloom's presentation of his ballet mechanique at the Hollywood bowl. Among those present were the Howard Linns, Mrs. Dorothy Linn McCormick, Miss Mabel Linn, Frederick Stock and his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Wolfe; Robert Lee Eskridge, Lovet Lorsky, and Rudolph Reuter. The Emerson Whithornes also were there, Mrs. Whithorne being the former Mrs. Pauline Reynolds Harvey of Dixon and Chicago.

The third of the series of four lecture recitals by Lee Pattison at Mrs. Clyde M. Carr's Lake Forest residence will be given this morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and Mrs. Siason Thompson are among those on the committee with Mrs. Carr in charge of the series.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour and their children are leaving Lake Forest Thursday to visit Mr. Armour's mother, Mrs. P. A. Valentine, at Southampton, L. I.

The latest word from the Charles S. Dewey family is that Mr. Dewey and possibly the youngest son, Albert P., will return from France about Sept. 1, and that Mrs. Dewey and Miss Louise, who is to make her debut the coming season, will not arrive in Chicago until near the end of September.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The retiring Italian ambassador, Nobile Giacome de Martino, has gone to White Sulphur Springs for a short stay.

The Spanish ambassador, Señor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, left Washington today for Newport for an indefinite stay.

Attorney General Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell have left for the Atlantic coast on a vacation trip.

The British ambassador to Chile, Sir Henry Getty Chilton, is in Washington for a few days. He will be joined in New York later by Lady Chilton and their daughters, who are visiting her father, the former American ambassador to Italy, Thomas J. O'Brien, in his home in Grand Rapids, Mich. Sir Henry was formerly counselor of the British embassy here.

The charge d'affaires of France M. Jules Henry, entertained a company at dinner tonight in honor of Cardinal Verdier, who is visiting in this country.

The major general commandant of the marine corps and Mrs. Ben Fuller have gone for a vacation trip to White Lake, Mich.

The lord mayor of Salbury, England, arrived here yesterday morning accompanied by C. Sidney Rambridge and his brother, Frank Rambridge, and Alfred Batt of Salisbury. They are guests here of the English Speaking union.

Complements of Salads Topic of Food Expert

Appetizing Contrasts Not to Be Omitted.

BY MARY MEADE.

Surely there's a magic art to perfect saladry—a witchery which conjures up from prosaic parsley and potatoes, curly lettuce hearts and gherkins, long, cool cucumbers, and a mad, gay company of fruits, fishes, meats, and mysteries such salads as even the gods must have reveled in as they waxed immortal on nectar and ambrosia.

But a salad unaccompanied is a jewel out of its setting. And it is the hostess with the knowing eye for perfect complements who merits the croix de cuisine [well, there should be one!] and the thanks of everybody these lazy summer days.

Just what to serve with salad depends on when and how you are serving it. If salad is to be the main course at luncheon or supper, something light and tasty in the bread and butter line is the proper gesture. If it is to be a fruit salad served in place of dessert, crisp buttered crackers, wee sandwiches spread with a savory butter, minced nuts or a peppy cheese, buttered fingers of toast dusted with ground pecans, or toasted crackers served with cheese—any of these will make a pleasant contrast with the fruit.

When a vegetable salad is chosen as the main course at luncheon or informal supper, huskier sandwiches may accompany it. Toasted cheese or chopped salad meat make excellent fillers and add the needed protein to the meal. Small rolls or one-bite baking powder biscuits give still more variety.

For the formal meal, cheese straws or very small, crusty cheese croquettes dress up the salad. The straws require simply one-half cup of ground cheese blended with one cup of flaky pie dough. Roll out, cut in narrow strips, twist, and bake in a hot oven until golden brown. Or prepare one-half a recipe of baking powder biscuit dough. Work in one-half cup of ground cheese and cut in small diamond shaped biscuits. Bake and serve hot.

More suggestions for salad complements run as follows:

Cut red Edam cheese in small squares and serve it with lettuce and cucumber salad.

For a luncheon fruit salad, serve toast rolls. Cut slices of white bread very thin, remove the crusts, spread with creamed butter, and sprinkle with shaved maple sugar and cinnamon. Roll and secure with a toothpick. Toast to a delicate brown on all sides. Remove toothpicks to serve.

Grind American cheese and moisten it with cream. Form into balls the size of cherries and dip in red fruit coloring. Add a small cherry stem or other stem to each and chill. Serve three "cherries" on each salad plate.

But the quintessence of delicacy comes in dainty cucumber rings for a cheese and fruit salad. Cut slices of white bread very thin, and then cut them in rounds the size of cucumber slices. Spread each bread round with thousand island dressing, and put the two together with a thin slice of cucumber between. Roll the edges in finely minced parsley and serve.

That leftover of cottage cheese comes in most effectively, too, when moistened with cream, flavored with chopped sweet pickle and minced chives and rolled into small balls. Serve on a sprig of watercress on the edge of the salad plate.

Engaged at 18, Girl Finds She Loves Another

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She's 18. Engaged to "Bill." Been going with "Bill" since she was 16. This summer she went up in the mountains. There she met the boy of all boys. "Bill" pales beside this new passion.

"What now can be done to let Bill out of the heavy fiance roll, without pain to him?" asks "Bunny."

It won't be done without pain to "Bill," of course. But breaking the engagement is the greatest kindness you can do the boy.

But here's the trouble with very early engagements, very early single-suitor problems. Girls of 16 shouldn't get themselves tied up with one boy. They shouldn't become engaged to that one boy until they have had a chance to meet other boys and got to know them well.

Or, once in a long time a girl may meet her one and only for life love at an early age. Ordinarily, however, she doesn't. She changes with each passing year. She changes as she gets about more. Yesterday's Prince Charming today becomes a boy pretty much like her brother. Nice—but not the answer to a romantic young lady's prayer.

There's another angle to this early promise given. There's a certain restlessness about youth, anyway. A new boy might happen in on a vacation period, say. Because the young woman had got used to her "Bill," this new one might take on proportions in her mind not in keeping with his character, at all. Then follows the business of turning down a good friend; maybe losing him forever into the bargain.

REAL-LIFE TALKIES ★★★★★ ABOUT CUTICURA

"WHEN I WAS 18 my troubles started. My face was covered with pimples. Nothing seemed to do any good.

VACATION TIME. "In July I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment in a newspaper. I sent for some.

LATER THAT SUMMER. "I received them and used them for about a month and a half.

"WHEN I RETURNED TO SCHOOL my girl friends noticed that my pimples were all gone. Now many of them use Cuticura."

★ This is quoted from the letter written to us by Verna Price, of Philadelphia, the high school girl of the talkie above.

Thousands of girls throughout the world have had experiences with Cuticura Soap and Ointment similar to those described by Miss Price.

If you suffer from skin trouble, pimples and eczema especially, you can't afford to pass up trying these famous Cuticura products.

So many thousands of people report that Cuticura treatment has afforded relief, correction, and even permanently ended apparently hopeless cases after other treatments have failed.

DR. NATHANSON HELD ON STORY TOLD BY WOMAN

Operation Revealed After Contempt Threat.

Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, 3846 Madison street, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $10,000 by Judge Leon Edelman on a charge of performing an illegal operation. Mrs. Sadie Pritikin, 2747 North Spaulding avenue, alleged subject of the operation, denied it until threatened with contempt of court action by Judge Edelman.

DR. NATHANSON.

Her husband, Henry, who got the warrant, opened the hearing with testimony that Dr. Nathanson had operated on his wife on Aug. 3. Mrs. Pritikin followed him to the stand and said that she had been in the office of Dr. Nathanson only once, that time to take treatment for a burn.

Money Paid, Judge Charges.

"That is contrary to my information," Judge Edelman said. "I have heard that money was paid to bring about the dropping of this charge. Dr. Nathanson has been in court time and again and each time the charges are finally dropped."

He threatened Mrs. Pritikin with contempt action and ordered her taken into custody. After conferring with her husband and Prosecutors Albert Bucciere and Thomas Johnson Jr. the woman returned to the stand and admitted that her testimony was false.

"I went to Dr. Nathanson's office on Aug. 3," she said. "He and two nurses gave me an anesthetic. I later paid him $25 for the operation."

Pritikin said his wife had received mysterious telephone calls and had told him that he would be taken for a ride if he continued to prosecute the case. Mrs. Pritikin denied that she had accepted any money for her first refusal to testify.

Judge Tells of Phone Call.

Judge Edelman said he had been informed in an anonymous telephone call that $200 had changed hands to procure dismissal of the charge through lack of prosecution. Following the hearing state's attorney's detectives went to Nathanson's office and took his secretary, Mrs. Fay Waxner, and her husband, Meyer Waxner, into custody for questioning. A nurse and another physician are being sought, prosecutors said.

Dr. Nathanson has made frequent appearances in court. On June 13, 1930, charges that he performed an illegal operation on Anna Lupresto, 19 years old, were dismissed for want of prosecution. A charge that he had performed a similar operation on Mrs. Cora Blacklaw was dismissed for the same reason in December, 1931. In July, 1927, Dr. Nathanson killed two men in his office. He was exonerated when they were identified as robbers with police records.

CHASES BANDITS

(TRIBUNE Photo.)

Three gunmen yesterday exchanged shots with Sergt. William Higgins as they drove past the Stockyards police station, 4801 South Halsted street, after taking $1,100 from the Mutual Tobacco company, 4707 South Halsted street. Miss Ruth Kamper, 21 years old, cashier, followed the robbers from the store and shouted to Sergt. Higgins, who was standing in front of the police station. There was no squad car available to pursue the bandit car.

ILLINOIS TEACHER ARRESTED AFTER WIFE IS KILLED

Asserts He Was Slugged Inspecting Tire.

Marshall, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Hubert C. Moor, 32 years old, a teacher in the high school at Robinson, was held incommunicado here tonight pending the inquest tomorrow into the death of his wife, who was shot to death in his car six miles south of here.

Authorities were not satisfied with Moor's story that he was struck on the head when he got out of his car to examine a tire and that he regained consciousness to find his car and wife gone. Drs. E. H. Mitchell and J. J. Rose, who examined Moor, said there was no evidence that he had received a blow. Later he changed his story, saying a car forced him to the side of the road before he was struck.

Farmer Calls Sheriff.

Moor went to the farm home of William Imle, near the spot where the car and body were found, at 6 o'clock this morning, reporting that he had been clubbed into unconsciousness and that his assailant had taken away his auto and wife. The farmer went with him to search for the car, which was found half a mile away. In the front seat was the body of Mrs. Moor with two bullet wounds in the head.

Imle called the sheriff's office and Deputy Pin Bennett went to the scene. He first took Moor to a hotel, but after questioning him locked him up.

Admits Having Gun.

Moor is said to have talked incoherently and as little as possible, telling his questioners that he still felt dazed. He admitted that he had a revolver in his automobile, but said he could not remember what kind it was. The weapon has not yet been found.

The couple, according to Moor, were returning from Indianapolis, where Mrs. Moor, a substitute teacher at Robinson, had visited her parents. When they were about six miles from Marshall, Moor said, he stopped his car and got out to see about one of the tires, when he received a blow and remembered nothing until he recovered his senses and found his wife and car gone. He has been a teacher of agriculture at Robinson for seven years. The couple were married six years ago.

JOHN L. MEYER IS MADE SECRETARY OF PRESS ASSOCIATION

John L. Meyer of Madison, Wis., was elected secretary-treasurer of the Inland Daily Press association at a meeting of the directors in the Morrison Hotel yesterday. He fills the vacancy created by the death last month of Will V. Tufford of Clinton, Ia.

JOHN L. MEYER.

Mr. Meyer, recently field director of the George W. Mead Paper institute of Milwaukee, is editor emeritus of the National Printer Journalist and chairman of the John Meyer Press Exchange of Madison.

The directors of the Inland Daily Press association voted to move its headquarters from Clinton to Madison and later to Chicago. The next convention of the association is to be held in Chicago in October.

TRUSTEE SAVAGE AIDS ARREST OF SWINDLE SUSPECT

Trustee Joseph Savage of the school board yesterday assisted in the arrest of James O'Loughlin, 34 years old, 1512 West Garfield boulevard, in front of the Palmer house.

James A. Murphy, 4843 Quincy street, a substitute teacher at the McKinley High school, told police several days ago that O'Loughlin had approached him, boasted of his "drag" with Savage, and told him he could obtain a promotion for him for $1,000. Murphy might even be made a high school principal, O'Loughlin declared.

Yesterday Murphy met O'Loughlin in front of the Palmer house and handed him three $100 bills which were marked. Sergts. Edward McVeigh and George Homer and Savage then stepped forward and arrested O'Loughlin. Savage said he did not know O'Loughlin, who formerly was a precinct captain in the 15th ward.

O'Loughlin protested the $300 had been put into his pocket without his knowledge and that he had never seen Murphy before in his life. He was released on bonds of $1,500 on a charge of operating a confidence game and will be arraigned today.

WOMAN, 68, DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Anna Beria, 68 years old, 1383 West 16th street, died yesterday in the county hospital of pneumonia which developed after a fall on Aug. 8.

ARREST BROTHER OF HUSHKA ON EX-WIFE'S CHARGE

Charles Hushka, 48 years old, brother of William Hushka, who was killed in the bonus riots at Washington July 28, was arrested yesterday in his home at 2316 West 22d place by Detective Rocco Filetti on a warrant sworn out by the slain war veteran's divorced wife, Mrs. Frances Krivenko of 3015 North Winchester avenue.

The warrant charges larceny and was obtained Aug. 8 before Judge Leon Edelman. Mrs. Krivenko alleges Charles Hushka stole her ex-husband's $2,000 insurance policy in which, she says, she is named beneficiary. Charles refuses to surrender the policy, she asserts. Mrs. Krivenko declares that she needs the $2,000 left by William for the support of their daughter, Lauretta, 13 years old.

Hushka was held at the detective bureau for arraignment in the South State street court this morning.

Lake Shore Drive Bandits Get $302 in Street Holdup

Preston Rauh, manager of the Norge Chicago corporation, 536 Lake Shore drive, refrigerator dealers, was held up in front of the company's office yesterday by three men as he was returning from a bank and robbed of $302.

NEGRO HUNTED FOR MURDER OF HUSHKA'S SLAYER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Washington police in cooperation with Maryland and Virginia authorities were making a widespread search today for Willie Bullock, 32, Negro, named as the slayer of Private George Shinault, first precinct, who shot and killed William J. Hushka a Chicago B. E. F. member, during the recent bonus riots.

Shinault, exonerated by a coroner's jury in the Hushka slaying, was shot to death last night as he was about to enter Bullock's home, at 39 F street, to investigate a report that a fight was in progress there.

Shinault, who was 38, had been a member of the force since Jan. 1, 1926. He is survived by his widow and five children.

500 Ton Smokestack in Stockyards Pulled Down

One of the landmarks of Packingtown, a 150 foot smoke stack erected in 1907 beside the Morris hog house at Racine and Exchange avenues, was demolished last night. The stack was pulled down. It weighed 500 tons, was built of reinforced concrete and at the base measured nine by twelve feet.

Italy's Jobless Total Is 931,291; 275,000 on Dole

ROME, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Italy's unemployed on July 31 numbered 931,291. This was an increase from June 30, when the total was 905,087. The government pays a dole to 275,000.

AUBURN
160 HORSE POWER "TWELVE" BREAKS ALL STOCK CAR RECORDS
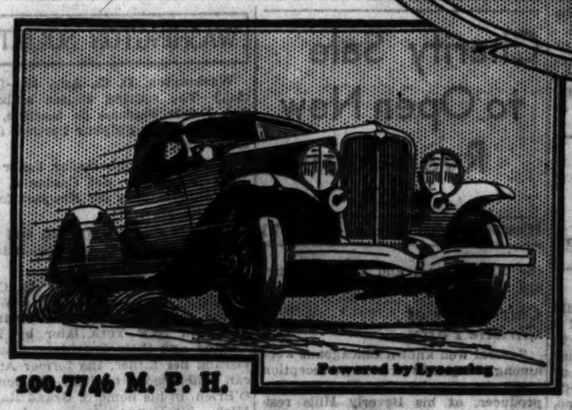
1 TO 500 MILES



100.7746 M. P. H.

Under supervision of the American Automobile Association, Auburn breaks all strictly stock open and closed car records for speed from 1 to 500 miles on the sun-baked floor of Muroc Dry Lake, California. Fastest time was 100.7746 Miles Per Hour for one mile.

FASTEST speed records ever attained by any strictly stock cars—fastest for open and closed cars—fastest for standing and flying starts. The most amazing performance and endurance records—in the most gruelling tests—shattering all the 26 records formerly held by different makes of cars. Auburn leads in design, engineering, performance, and stamina—and proves it! Maybe you do not want to drive 100 miles an hour. But you do want the efficient operation, durable construction, and built-in quality necessary to achieve these records. Auburn gives greater value for less cost—and proves it completely and conclusively in the crucible of speed. Why pay more and not enjoy the exclusive superiorities and safety obtainable only in the world's champion Auburn? We invite you to compare and drive exact duplicates of the Auburn Twelves that eclipse the highest attainments of all other stock cars.

POSSIBLE ONLY WITH Dual Ratio

Auburn is the only car that could establish all of these new records because Auburn is the only car with the greatest modern improvement in automobiles—DUAL-RATIO. Imagine touring at 60 miles-an-hour with only a 40 mile-an-hour engine-effort and fuel consumption. Dual-Ratio makes this possible, producing a smoothness never before known in any automobile. (We invite you to verify this claim.) It saves wear and tear on all moving parts, and prolongs the life of the entire automobile. To get ahead of other cars in traffic or climb hills without engine strain, you shift Dual-Ratio to "Low". But you do not have to continue to needlessly race your engine, as in other cars, when you come to level roads and open country—you shift Dual-Ratio to "High". Then the car races but the ENGINE LOAFS.

SWIVEL'S SPEED LEAVES RIVALS GLUED TO TRACK

Wins Juvenile Trial by 4½ Lengths.

BY FRENCH LANE.

You'll begin to hear things about the two year old Swivel, a big bay daughter of Swift and True, before the racing season is much older.

Tongues began to wag at Hawthorne yesterday when with sweeping, methodical strides, she made a runaway of the Petunia purse, a warm up for the renewal of the $10,000 Hawthorne Juvenile championship stakes. Her margin of victory was four and one-half lengths.

Swivel on Extreme Outside.

Jockey G. Woolf was in the saddle and he didn't ask Swivel to smother her foes with speed in the early part of it, where many of our two year old races are won and lost. Tabaku, Jessie Dear, and Knights Gal, the latter a little sister of Gallant Knight, all were in front of Swivel as the field stormed down the back stretch with jockeys fighting for positions of advantage as they neared the turn.

It didn't make any difference to Swivel that she was on the extreme outside and when she was crowded a bit wider it did not change the situation. Woolf straightened her out and gave her the reins. She did the rest.

She raced past Knights Gal, Tabaku, and Jessie Dear as if they were standing still. Then she turned on a burst of speed that dazzled all her rivals. She was four lengths in front in an instant. Then Woolf urged her to take things easy. Yet she still was running faster than any of the others when she drove past the winning post.

Woolf's First Ride in 15 Days.

Jessie Dear, generally rated as one of the best two year olds in the west earlier in the season, was second, but no match for the flying winner. The fleet Tabaku, a daughter of North Star III., was in third place in the field of seven.

Swivel raced in the purple and gold jacket of Adolph Pons of New York. When Woolf climbed into the saddle on her it was his first journey under silks in 15 days. He drew a 15 day suspension for rough riding at Arlington Park near the end of the meeting.

Swivel skipped over the 5½ furlongs in 1:06 4-5, turning in the fastest race at that distance run at Hawthorne this season. It was from the usual standing start. A red hot tip got out on the daughter of Swift and True right at post time and in the mutuels she paid $4.64 to win, $3.18 to place and $2.60 to show. Jessie Dear was at $4.34 to place and $2.86 to show. Tabaku's show price was $2.40.

Hillsborough Runs Like Stake Horse.

Our Mr. Abraham Barteistein from the west side is getting to be a slicker. He entered his horse Hillsborough in the Illinois Owners' handicap last Saturday and scratched him right at post time. Folks thought Hillsborough had gone amiss in some way or another.

Yet in the mile and a sixteenth race at Hawthorne yesterday Hillsborough showed up to be claimed for $3,000. He had never run in such cheap company. Still he looked so good over in the canvas covered infield paddock that many in the big crowd began to suspect that Abraham was getting ready to put over an old-fashioned melon cutting.

They bought tickets galore on Hillsborough and, sure enough, Abraham had let the cat out of the bag. Hillsborough ran like a stake horse and was up to saunter home a winner by four lengths over Jean Lafitte which beat Hokuao the Hawaiian nag by a half length.

During the plunge the price against Hillsborough dropped down and down. The opening quotation was 8 to 1. He wound up by paying $7.36 for a $2 ticket. But all the folks who backed him were happy even at those odds.

Stagg 70 Today; Coaches to Help Him Celebrate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, University of Chicago's athletic director and dean of American college football coaches, will pass the three score and ten mark tomorrow. And he wonders "who would have thought that I would be spending my seventieth birthday in Hollywood, in the midle of motion picture activities, in which I have been induced to take a part for the next week?"

Mr. Stagg's routine for celebrating his birthday is simple. He will write his daily letter to Mrs. Stagg, whom he is eager to rejoin in Chicago. He will look for a message from A. A. Stagg III., his grandson.

He also will receive visitors and hold conferences, because the athletic chiefs of hundreds of American colleges who were drawn to Los Angeles by the Olympic games and stayed over for several days want to pay their respects before leaving here.

"I feel fine," said Mr. Stagg. "I feel the best in years. I used to play golf, but it got to seem like an old man's game and I quit it. Now I play tennis for my exercise and I have a lot of fun. Some of my friends want me to stop it. Back at the university one or two of my old, old friends come to me and say, 'Alonzo, tennis is too violent for a man your age.' I tell them if anything should happen to me, it would be better to have it happen while I am active and enjoying myself."

WASHINGTON NINE BEATS CINCINNATI PRINTERS, 5 TO 4

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The champion Washington team handed Cincinnati its first defeat of the Union Printers' International Baseball tournament today, 5 to 4. Cincinnati had won four straight for the best record of the competition. The Minneapolis-St. Paul nine was eliminated from further play, losing to New York, 18 to 8. It was the Twin Cities' second defeat. Two losses end a team's play.

Washington, Cincinnati, and New York, with only one defeat each, are the remaining contenders.

54 PLAY TODAY FOR U.S. AMATEUR TOURNEY PLACES

Westland Leads Strong Field at Bryn Mawr.

Fifty-four players—the best in the Chicago district—will seek the fourteen qualifying places for the United States amateur golf tournament over the Bryn Mawr Country club course today. The small field will be led in the 36 hole medal play tournament by Jack Westland, tall Sunset Ridge star, who last year went to the final round of the national amateur with Francis Ouimet, the latter regaining the title after 17 years.

Westland, who won medalist honors in the Chicago district play last year, and a favorite to repeat, will find competition from several players who have played great golf in recent tournaments.

Bowbeer Strong Rival.

Among the players ranked next to Westland are Hank Bowbeer, Riverside, who was runner-up in the Chicago District Golf association meet, and Johnny Banks, who recently won the western junior championship.

There also will be the same players who have sought the United States title for several years, Chick Evans, Edgewater; George Dawson, Glen Oak, Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields and Ira Couch of Chicago Golf club. Others entered are Bob Baldwin, Bloomington; Don Hamilton, Beverly, and Johnny Van Nortwick, Chicago Golf.

Play in Other Sections.

There will be play simultaneously in 17 other sections. A field of 589 will seek qualifying places for the tournament proper, which will be held on the Baltimore Country club course, Baltimore, Md.

A gold medal will be awarded to the player turning in the lowest score in each of the 17 sections. In case of ties there will be 18 hole playoffs within five days. The number of qualifiers for the tournament will be 195.

The United States Golf association has announced that visiting members of the Walker cup team are exempt from qualifying play.

Pairings and starting times for today's play at Bryn Mawr:

9:00—A. H. Himelblau, Bryn Mawr; Claston Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.; Charles W. Newhall Jr., Ridgeer.

9:06—Earl F. Jager, Ridgemoor; S. A. Williams Jr., Evanston; Robert McKeon, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Chicago Prep Athletes Pick Colleges in Central States

Chicago's outstanding high school athletes who ended their preparatory courses last June are not going far from home to seek collegiate fame. Five will matriculate at schools in the central states next month.

A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the Chicago Public High School league, with the coöperation of coaches and officials chose these boys as Chicago's best prep athletes after several weeks of scanning records of all athletes in the four sections of the league. The five, three from the west section and two from the central division, excelled in several sports.

Pilney to Notre Dame.

Here is the group, with the colleges they plan to attend:

Andy Pilney—Formerly of city championship football team of Harrison Tech. Will attend Notre Dame.

Ralph Mack—Football and baseball star at Lindblom. Will matriculate at Purdue university.

Stanley Mondala—Another member of a family of athletes who attended Crane Tech. Will go to Northwestern.

Steve Remias—A teammate of Pilney. Steve has chosen the University of Michigan.

Bob Huck—Three years on the football and baseball teams at Tilden. Will enter the University of Illinois.

Star for Three Years.

Pilney, who led Harrison Tech to the city football championship, is the most prominent of the group. When Andy reports with the candidates at Notre Dame the system used there will not be new to him, for Coach Bob Dougherty has employed the Notre Dame system for several years at Harrison Tech.

Pilney was the star in Harrison's victories over Schurz for the Chicago Public High School league championship and over Mount Carmel for the city title last fall. He played his last prep football game at Miami, Fla., last Christmas day, scoring three touchdowns to hand Miami High school its first defeat in three years.

Pilney was a regular for three years and was captain last season. He also was a member of the swimming team and played center field on the baseball squad for two years. Last season the baseball team went to the semi-final round for the league championship.

Remias Great Blocker.

Coach Dougherty says Remias is the best blocking quarter back he has seen.

When Remias attempts to make the University of Michigan team another member of his family, Johnny, will be trying for a place on the Harrison Tech squad. Steve, who won letters in both football and baseball, played on the football team for three years.

Mack, Lindblom's star for two years, played quarter back on the squad which won the league championship in 1930. The team failed to reach the semi-final round last year, losing to Tilden Tech for the central division title. He captained the football squad last season and also played baseball.

Mack was on the basketball team in his first year and later was a member of the track team. He gave up the latter sport when he made the football team. If Ralph makes the football squad at Purdue in his sophomore year he may have to play against his brother, Bob, who is attending the University of Illinois.

Huck to Specialize in Football.

Huck, who celebrated his nineteenth birthday last month, participated in three sports at Tilden—football, baseball, and ice skating. At the University of Illinois he plans to play only football. He held the regular quarter back position at Tilden for three years and played second base on the baseball team.

Mondala has his heart set on making the Northwestern eleven.

"I would like to meet Pilney on the football field again," he said.

Stanley, who succeeded his brother, Mitchell, as captain of the Crane Tech football team, played left half back. The last two years Pilney led Harrison Tech to victory over Crane for the west division football championship.

Mondala holds the Cook county 155 pound wrestling championship and played baseball for two years. Stanley's younger brother, John, who is 17 years old, will play quarter back for Crane Tech this fall. Stanley also was a member of the track team last spring.

BURNETT'S BOND SET AT $10,000 TO "PROTECT CUBS"

Judge John A. Sbarbaro yesterday raised the bond of Lucius Barnett, 2434 Burling street, real estate dealer and bondsman, from $2,500 to $10,000 when he was arraigned on charges growing out of his alleged theft of letters written by Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop, to Miss Violet Popovich Valli.

"I'm doing this to protect the Cubs from unjust scandal," Judge Sbarbaro said.

Miss Valli, who shot Jurges and herself in his hotel room recently, complained to the state's attorney's office that Barnett had stolen the letters and threatened to publish them. Barnett was arrested Saturday in his home. He kicked the arresting officer, Sergt. Louis Capparelli, in the abdomen and was booked on charges of assault, extortion, larceny, impersonating a policeman, and disorderly conduct. Hearing on the charges was continued until Thursday on Barnett's request for time to engage an attorney.

DODGERS DEFEAT PIRATES, 11 TO 6, FOR 20 OUT OF 25

Brooklyn Only 1½ Games from First Place.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, continuing their head long dash toward the top of the National league, advanced within a half game of second place and one and one-half games of the pace setting Cubs as they humbled the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11 to 6, in the only game played in the major leagues today.

In accounting for their 20th victory in their last 25 games the Dodgers handed the second place Pirates their 14th defeat in 15 games. Brooklyn scored all its runs in the first two innings, nine coming in the first inning.

Meine Routed in First.

Heinie Meine started on the mound for the Pirates, but was forced to give way to Bill Harris in the first. Harris, in turn, was sent to the showers in the second inning. Chagnon finished the game, holding the Dodgers scoreless.

The Dodgers pounded out six hits in their big first inning, Danny Taylor made two of them—a triple and a single. Errors by Piet and Vaughan also helped the Dodgers.

Suhr's Homer Scores 2 Runs.

The Pirates were unable to make any headway against Joe Shaute's southpaw pitching until the fourth when Gus Suhr hit a homer to score two runs. Another run crossed the plate in the eighth and three more in a desperate but futile ninth inning rally. Score:

SENATORS BEAT '24 TEAM

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The toll of the years counted today as the 1924 world champion Washington team was defeated by the Senators of 1932 in a baseball festival held as part of the George Washington bicentennial.

The score was 6 to 2, and the old master, Walter Johnson, yielded five of these runs in three innings on the mound. Bucky Harris, now manager of Detroit, let in the first run when he dropped a fly. Inability of the veterans, Johnson and Judge, to negotiate a play at first led to a four run rally in the third.

But the champions of old had the roaring support of a crowd of more than 12,000. The Senators showered Al Schact, comedian-coach, with tomatoes and cabbages as he went to the third base line in the first inning for the champions. In the seventh the team of today galloped en masse to the flagpole and hauled down the world championship banner. They put it up again in the next inning.

Marberry relieved Johnson after the third inning. Score:

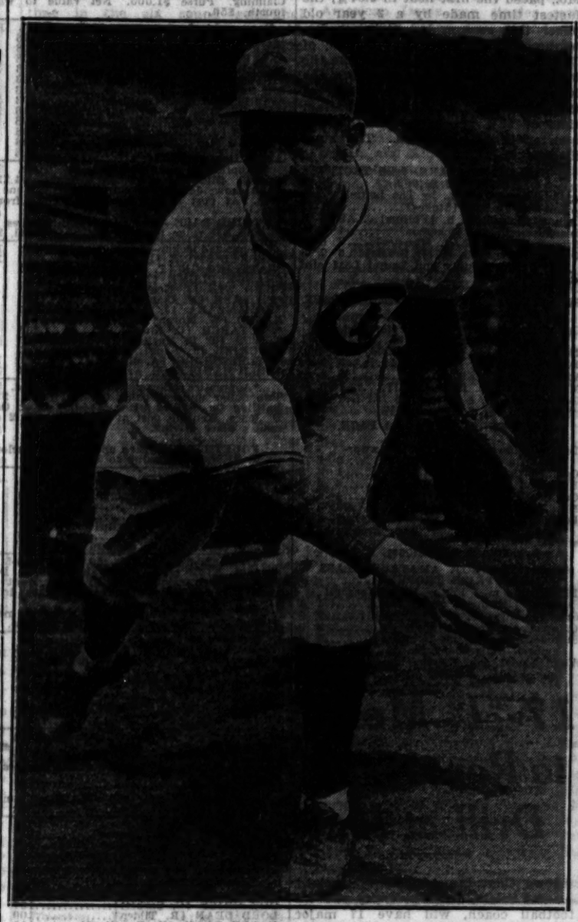
NOW TO KEEP UP GOOD WORK!



It's Charley Grimm day at Wrigley field, and Lonnie Warneke (above) will try to make it a success by pitching his 18th victory of hte season against the Boston Braves. A throng of Cubs fans is expected to turn out to welcome the team, which returned from its road trip yesterday in first place.

"Nice work, Charley!" is what President William Veeck of the Cubs (right) says to Manager Charley Grimm at the Cubs' offices in the Wrigley building yesterday. The team left Chicago in second place, 4½ games behind. Grimm took charge while on the road and brought it back to town leading the league. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

CHICAGO BEARS GET ELY, GIANT IOWA TACKLE

Harold Ely, former University of Iowa tackle, has been signed by the Bears, which gives the Chicago National league pro eleven the distinction of owning the giant linesman of the circuit.

Ely, who played at Iowa in 1929-1931, is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 270 pounds. He expects to trim off ten pounds during the training season but even at this weight will be the heaviest man in the league. Ely, however, has been timed in 10.5 for the 100 yard dash.

He is an excellent place kicker and may also be used to kickoff for the Bears.

WARNEKE FACES BRAVES; AFTER 18TH VICTORY

Big Celebration for Charley Grimm.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Charley Grimm day, to be celebrated this afternoon at Wrigley field, promises to be a whooping personal ovation for the new manager of the Cubs. And after the tributes to the new boss there will be some important baseball playing.

The Cubs will enter the Boston opener this afternoon a game ahead of the second place Pirates and a game and a half ahead of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers. Grimm's ambitious young men are four games ahead of the fourth place Phillies. This array of circumstances makes the need of great bearing down most apparent.

Warneke to Pitch.

In line with this big demand for extreme concentration on victory business Manager Grimm today will send forth Lon Warneke, who will be in quest of his No. 18 win of the season. The Braves haven't been able to defeat Lon this season and he has taken their measure three times.

So far the Cubs have defeated the Braves nine times in 13 games. They did it when the Braves were going much better than they have been in the last two weeks, but there are several pitching fellows who are on the Braves roster who are likely to bob up with airtight games with no warning whatsoever. Among those who have been able to handcuff the Cub hitters this year are Huck Betts, Ed Brandt and Bob Brown, all of whom are scheduled to see duty in the four game series opening today.

The Cubs in the 11 games they have played since Grimm became manager have won seven, an admirable road ratio even considering the tragedy in the trip finale in St. Louis Sunday when the Chicagoans were set back in a double header with the Cardinals, 2 to 0 and 2 to 1.

Sure of Keeping Lead.

Though the Cubs will be in first place tonight, even if they lose, it is possible for their lead to be reduced to less than one percentage point.

While the Cubs are battling the Braves the Dodgers, who blistered the Pirates yesterday, will be trying to repeat today. If the Pirates win and the Cubs lose, the Pirates still will be in second place by a whisker.

The standings of the first three this morning are:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Cubs	60	50	.545
Pirates	60	52	.536
Dodgers	62	55	.530

If the Cubs lose this afternoon and the Pirates win, the first three standings will be:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Cubs	60	51	.5405
Pirates	61	52	.5398
Dodgers	62	56	.525

If the Cubs win and the Pirates lose to the Dodgers, the standings of the three teams tonight will be:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Cubs	61	50	.550
Dodgers	63	55	.534
Pirates	60	53	.531

Root, who pitched a masterpiece against the Cardinals Saturday, will be ready for the Braves tomorrow. Manager Grimm may try to give Malone and Bush some added rest, but the present outlook is that Pat will pitch Thursday and Bush Friday.

Polish Team Arrives for Post-Olympics

Nine members of the track and field team of Poland arrived in Chicago yesterday to compete in the post-Olympic meet at Soldiers' field Thursday night.

The Czechoslovakians, 11 in number, are scheduled to arrive tomorrow morning. The German team also is expected tomorrow, while the four Swedish stars who will compete will arrive on the day of the meet.

Included in the list of Poles were Stella Walsh of Cleveland and Jan Kusocinski. Miss Walsh won the 100 meter Olympic race, while Kusocinski defeated Volmari Iso-Hollo of Finland in the 10,000 meter run, the first event on the Olympic program. Iso-Hollo, who later won the 5,000 meters, is expected to race against Kusocinski Thursday night.

Another member of the Polish team is Zygmunt Heljasz, shot putter, who is credited with a throw of 52 feet 8 inches.

O'CONNELL WINS IN U. S. PUBLIC PARKS NET MEET

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—George O'Connell, Chicago city champion, won his first round match by defeating B. Maits, Pittsburgh, Pa., as the National Public Parks tennis tournament opened today on the Shawnee Country club courts. The scores were 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Chicago's other two representatives in the national meet—Carl Iremus and Gordon Beaudt—were eliminated. Iremus was defeated by Ray Morgan, Minneapolis, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, while Braudt lost to Robert Lake, Birmingham, Ala., 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

POPPYMAN RACES FROM FAR BACK TO WIN AT 10-1

Beats Cutie Face by a Nose at Saratoga.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A nose finish thrilled observers here today as the Troy claiming stakes was run for the 30th time. The winner was Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Poppyman, a son of Chatterton.

Hank Mills had the leg up on the winner and drove him strongly through the stretch to get up and beat Mrs. George M. Seglin's Cutie Face. Third, and beaten a length and a half, was Okapi, bearing the Brookhead stable colors and the favorite at 8 to 5. He was in trouble at two stages of the running, but it is doubtful if he could have matched the rush of the winner in any case.

Backers Get 10 to 1.

The Troy had a value of $5,350, Poppyman's time for its five and one-half furlongs was 1:06 2-5. He paid backers 10 to 1 after opening at 8 to 1. Under 107 pounds he was conceding five pounds to Okapi, ran at level weight with Cutie Face, but received weight from some of the others.

Little Lad, John J. Robinson's son of Sweep and Panasian, was another well played horse in the race on the strength of his New York form.

Strongly handled by Buddy Hanford, Cutie Face soon opened up a two lengths lead, but she had a hard time holding any such advantage once the turn into the stretch was made.

Mills Makes Late Bid.

Okapi and Little Lad made a run at her but succeeded only in shortening her lead. Poppyman's bid was reserved for the last three-sixteenths, and Mills brought the colt from far back once he set him down in earnest. Tired from her early efforts and from repelling the challenges of Okapi and Little Lad, Cutie Face was unable to resist the winner and was beaten a nose.

Dubuque Wins Feature Grand Circuit Pace

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Calumet Dubuque, a speedy son of Peter the Brewer, owned by John C. Thompson of New York, won the 2 year old pace, feature event of the opening of the five day Grand Circuit meeting here today.

Logan Scott, wearing the silks of the Blue Ridge stable of Kansas City, Mo., paced the first heat in 2:04¼, the fastest time made by a 2 year old pacer this season, but Calumet Dubuque, driven by Pearl Pitman of Trenton, N. J., came back to take the last two heats by a nose from the Kansas City colt. The last half of the third heat was paced in the fast time of 59¼ seconds, with the last quarter in 28½ seconds. 17 "I" Men to Report for Drill at Iowa

Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Ossie Solem, new University of Iowa football coach, will have 17 major letter men on his squad of approximately 75 candidates when it reports here Sept. 15, and an unsually strong sophomore team from which to build his first Hawkeye team.

Although the squad of available "I" men is the largest ever to report to an Iowa coach, it is not outstanding in quality. Sophomores probably will displace several of the veterans in the line and in at least two backfield positions.

Magnussen to Try Again.

Among the letter men who are expected to bolster the forward wall are Marcus Magnussen, center, who will attempt for the third time to complete his collegiate football career after starring in 1929. He was elected co-captain of the 1930 team, but was lost through ineligibility. Last year he sustained a broken leg which kept him out of the lineup all season.

His return probably will cause Solem to shift Ed Dolly, also a veteran center, to guard. At the other guard position Tom Moore will battle with Sam Maas and Wilmon Hass, sophomores, for the varsity assignment.

Five Ends Won Letters.

Leo Samuelson and John Stutsman are the most prominent experienced tackles, although either may alternate with Marvin Lueck or Rex Pippinger, new men.

Five major letter ends will be available for the 1932 varsity, but only Robert Loufek of Davenport appears certain to regain the position. Byron Bury, Benton Harbor, Mich., and Francis Shammel, Hudson, Ia., head the prospective sophomores.

SOX MOVE THEIR ROOKIE SCHOOL TO WASHINGTON

Fonseca Rejoins Team; Gaston Pitches Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The schedule demanded it, so the White Sox had to depart from their own back yard yesterday in time to keep a date with the Senators at Washington this afternoon. If the players had been permitted to cast a vote for or against the tour it probably would have been canceled. The last time they went around the eastern half of the circuit they played 18 games and won only 4. The victories were evenly divided between Boston and Philadelphia.

Lew Fonseca, the long distance manager, who, because of scouting duties and a trip to the west coast on account of the critical condition of his father, hasn't directed his charges in three weeks, returned yesterday in time to relieve Assistant Prof. Johnny Butler of his duties. Plans made for today by Butler probably will be carried out, however. He arranged for Milt Gaston to pitch the opener against the Senators, with Ted Lyons in reserve for the second meeting tomorrow.

Rookie School Continues.

The schooling of the recruits is to be continued during the tour, so if victories are infrequent it can be charged to the desire to disregard this season and prepare for the next one. The youthful pitchers will receive ample attention; Billy Sullivan will be treated to more lessons in the catching art, and Charley English, the young third baseman from the Western association, will be given additional opportunity to prove he is a better fielder than he has appeared to be. The school may even be enlarged to enroll some of the youths now out in the minors under recall option.

All members of the team were included in the touring baseball school except Johnny Hodapp and Grant Bowler. Hodapp, former Cleveland infielder, has been hobbling around for three weeks because of an ankle injury he received in an exhibition at Montreal. He will be kept here for treatment. Bowler, recently returned by the Oakland club, probably was left home because of his poor showing in a series of relief rôles. A job may be sought for him in some minor league.

A. A. Clubs Won't Sell.

Nothing has been mentioned about purchasing any of the men Fonseca trailed for several weeks in the American association. Some of these fellows cannot be obtained now because the clubs owning them have pennant hopes. Fonseca, whose two year contract indicates that he'll be manager for another year at least, hopes he can purchase one or two for delivery next spring. Deals with big league clubs also are promised for next winter.

The Sox will close their year's work in the east with a series in each of the four eastern cities and return home by way of St. Louis. They'll reopen Comiskey park on Labor day and will be there most of the time until the season is completed. Then they will go home immediately unless a city series should detain them. That all depends on whether the Cubs make good their promise to win the National league pennant, a happening which would prevent the Sox from collecting any post-season money.

CHESS EXPERTS GO UP IN BLIMP; PLAY TO A DRAW

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Twelve of the foremost chess masters of the world paired off at six tables here tonight to start a two weeks' tournament of the International Chess congress. The player who becomes tournament champion will have the right to challenge the world title holder, Dr. Alexander Alekhine.

Two contestants went up in a blimp today and played an aerial match with Dr. Alekhine refereeing. They were the Pacific coast champion, Arthur W. Drake of Portland, Ore., and Isaac Kashdan.

They played to a draw, while the game was radioed to the convention hotel, where the California champion, Harry Borochow of Beverly Hills, manipulated a set on a wallboard to depict the plays for the other contestants.

The other eight in the tournament are: Capt. J. J. Arizia, Mexico's national champion; H. Steiner of New York, former United States champion; Samuel Reshevsky, Chicago; Fred Reinfeld, New York state champion; Harry Fink, San Francisco; Reuben Fine, New York; Jacob Bernstein, New York, and Samuel D. Factor, Chicago.

A chess set carved in ivory in the 14th century and valued at more than $1,000 was exhibited at the meet by Mrs. Ella Speyer of Chicago.

Lindstrom's 115 Captures Caddy Title

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The kids who carry your clubs around the course, furnish advice on traps and rough upon request and assume poker faces when you dub a shot had their day yesterday in the annual caddies' championship at the Oak Park Country club. There were 200, a record entry, and it took the native talent to carry off both the individual and team titles. It was Oak Park's second consecutive double victory. Harry De May, now over age for the tournament, led the west siders to victory in 1931.

A stringy, blond kid named John Lindstrom, who hit his wooden shots like a pro, won the individual title with a 27 hole total of 115. John and the other five low scorers at the end of the regulation 18 holes went around another nine to decide the champion. The rest of the sextet was composed of Ray Grunt of Brookwood, who finished the 27 holes with 116; James Hedlin, Park Ridge, 116; Arnold Biewald, Edgewater, 117; Stan Nowicki, Calumet, 119, and Jim Fairburn, Park Ridge, 122. In the extra hole playoff for runnerup honors, Grunt won with a 4 against Hedlin's 5. Hedlin and Biewald had finished the first 18 with 76's, four over par, while the other four had 77's, a testimonial to the kind of golf that was played by the field, all of them under 13 years of age.

Member of First Team.

Lindstrom was also a member of the winning Oak Park team, which included Floyd Pawlek, 86; Walter Lawrence, 85, and Joe Maksinski, 86. They had a total of 334 for the first 18, three better than Nordic and Chicago Golf, which tied for second place with 337. The Nordic squad was composed of Tony Shimanski, 80; Anthony Diana, 82; Lawrence Edwards, 86, and Joe Tobolik, 89, while Chicago Golf's representatives were Lawrence Page, 81; H. Dickerson, 82; B. J. Martin, 88, and V. Timm, 86. Jim Peabody brought the same quartet which played for Nordic last year. The group trimmed its 1931 score by 43 strokes through daily practice for the last two months.

Bernard Grabiec, 84; Edward Makvika, 91; Ralph Herman, 83, and Jim Vavra, 84, totaled 342 to give Hinsdale third place, and Acacia was fourth through the efforts of James Hruby, 82; Lawrence Zdenek, 81; Stanley Hosek, 91, and Tom Duffy, 92. Their total was 346.

Lindstrom's Winning Card.

Lindstrom's card for the 27 holes follows:

Par—Out	534	543	444	—36
Par—In	444	345	534	—36— 72
Lindstrom—Out	645	553	544	—41

Walter Hagen of Detroit, Mich., one of the game's leading professionals, has entered the fifth annual North Shore open golf tournament, which will be played Monday over the Sunset Valley Golf club course in Highland Park.

Hagen, who won the 1932 western open, will have as opponents, among other nationally known players, José Jurado, Argentina; Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Frank Walsh, Bruce Herd, Laurie Ayton, Eddie Loos, Jock Hutchison, Abe Espinosa, and Willie Hunter.

Prizes totaling $1,000 will be offered for the tournament, which will be at 36 holes, medal play. Entries close today and should be filed with Thomas J. Kelly, at Sunset Valley.

Fred Morrison, who shot 140 last year, is the holder of the tournament record. The course record of 69 for tournament play is shared by Abe Espinosa and two or three others.

RACE HORSES AT SARATOGA BRING AVERAGE OF $217

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A low record for a single night's average was hung up in Saratoga's yearling sales here tonight when 40 head were disposed of for $8,695, averaging only $217.

The Sanford Stud farms offered 11 head which brought $3,235, averaging $294. Twenty-nine yearlings, offered by Somingo farms and others, sold for $5,460, averaging $188.

Top price for the night was $1,000. Col. E. R. Bradley acquired from the Sanford lot at that figure an impressive looking bay filly by Imp. Snob II. out of Imp. Margaret Burr. The Pine Tree farm paid the same price for a bay son of Imp. Kentucky II. out of the good producer, Frances.

IMIG WINS GOLF.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Ray Imig, Minier, Ill., repeated his championship performance of last year when he won the annual left handed golf tournament of this city. He completed the 36 holes with 166 strokes.

DICK TRACY—In the Spider's Web

YES, IT'S TRUE— I WAS PREPARING TO END IT ALL WHEN YOU STEPPED INTO THE ROOM.
MY NAME'S TRACY, MR. DALE I HAVE NEVER MET YOU BEFORE, BUT I HAVE KNOWN YOUR DAUGHTER LONG ENOUGH TO DISCOVER THAT YOU AND SHE ARE IN TERRIBLE DANGER— AND I HAVE COME TO HELP YOU.
WHAT POWER DOES THIS MAN GREBB HOLD OVER YOU?
TRACY, IT IS AN ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE STORY AND I WOULD NOT BOTHER TELLING IT, EXCEPT THAT I HAVE BEEN DRIVEN TO SUCH DESPERATION THAT ANYTHING I MAY SAY NOW CANNOT MAKE MATTERS WORSE.
KENNETH GREBB IS A DOPE SMUGGLER WHOM I FINANCED FOR FIFTEEN YEARS BEFORE I DISCOVERED HE WAS IN THE DOPE BUSINESS—WHEN I DID FIND OUT, HIS TRUE OCCUPATION—AH—BUT WHY GO ON—MY SITUATION IS HOPELESS.
IT IS NOT HOPELESS, MR. DALE— ABSOLUTELY NOT!—ONLY YOU MUST TELL ME THE ENTIRE STORY.

Rose Marshall Shoots a 94 for Medal in State Golf

Mrs. Rose Marshall of Cog-Hill, having won the Cook county women's golf championship a few weeks ago, yesterday demonstrated that she wished to add the Illinois state title to her collection by shooting a 94 to win the medal in the qualifying round over the new Waveland avenue course of the Lincoln Park Golf club.

Mrs. C. N. Wheeler of the home club and Miss Anne Conroy of Cog-Hill tied for runner up honors with 98's, while Mrs. Ruth Burke, competing unattached, and Mrs. Isobel Meany of Cog-Hill turned in 99's. Mrs. Victor S. Cooper, the defending champion, finished with 104. Miss Ruth Taylor, unattached, led the first flight field with 105. Match play will begin at 9 o'clock this morning and continue until Saturday, when a 36 hole final will produce the title holder for the next year.

Pairings for the championship and first flights, together with the qualifying scores follow:

ARNOLD, WAGNER GET BEST BALL 62 AT TECHNY FIELDS

George Arnold and John Wagner of Kildeer shot a best ball of 31—31—62, ten under par, to win the regular weekly pro-amateur event of the Illinois Professional Golfers' association at Techny Fields. Jim Foulis and T. Armstrong of Ruth Lake were second with a 66, while Dave Tosh and Rial Rolfe of Sunset Ridge turned the 18 holes in 66. Jim Wilson of Ravisloe, president of the association, made the rest of the pros sit up when he went over the Techny Fields layout with an individual medal card of 71, one under par, aside from collaborating with B. T. Neal of the home club for a best ball of 67.

The best ball card for Arnold and Wagner:

Par—Out	445	354	435	—37
Par—In	544	454	434	—35—72
Arnold-Wagner—Out	433	344	424	—31
Arnold-Wagner—In	444	333	534	—31—62

Due to the fact that the North Shore open at Sunset Valley next Monday will attract practically all of the professionals in the district, the next pro-amateur event of the association will not be held until Aug. 29 at Aurora.

Sisk, Wolfe End Drill for Mills Battle

Eddie [Kid] Wolfe will finish training at Trafton's gymnasium today and Dick Sisk, who has lost only once in 52 professional bouts, completed drills yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium for their ten round bout tomorrow night at Mills stadium.

Paul Dazzo, former Golden Gloves champion, and Paul Dempsey, who boxed in the amateur ranks as Paul Stepright, will fight for the second time in the six round semi-final. Dazzo has won all but one of his matches since he turned professional three years ago.

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, will meet Roy [Ace] Clark, 220 pound Negro from Philadelphia, in the ten round windup at White City Friday night.

The West Side Boxing club last night sent Ray Miller, New York lightweight, transportation to Chicago with instructions to entrain today to finish workouts here for his ten round match with Barney Ross at Sparta stadium Aug. 26. He is expected to arrive Thursday morning. Miller's bout at New York Friday has been canceled.

Max Baer, Livermore, Cal., heavyweight, and Ernie Schaaf of Boston will be meeting for the second time when they fight at the Chicago Stadium Aug. 31. Baer lost a ten round battle to Schaaf at New York Dec. 19, 1930. Then Max knocked out Tom Heeney, but he followed with defeats by Paulino Uzcudun and Tommy Loughran. He has won all his contests since, including two decisions over King Levinsky.

Billy Petrolle, Duluth, Minn., fighter, will pass through Chicago today en route from New York to his home, where he will recuperate from an elbow operation. The injury to Petrolle's elbow while training for his lightweight title bout with Tony Canzoneri at New York last Aug. 3 will keep him out of the ring indefinitely. Oct. 12 has been set for the postponed Canzoneri match.

The second south suburban amateur boxing tournament, which is being sponsored by the Johnny Coulon club, will open at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, on Aug. 23. Any amateur in good standing is eligible.

Walker to Fight Max Schmeling in New York Sept. 19

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, and Mickey Walker, Elizabeth, N. J., fighter, who voluntarily surrendered his middleweight title to seek the heavyweight crown, today were matched by Madison Square Garden to battle fifteen rounds in the Garden's Long Island City bowl on Sept. 19. The contest is designed to establish an outstanding challenger for Jack Sharkey next June.

The match was effected after long drawn out discussion. It is understood that Schmeling is assured 40 per cent and that Walker will receive 15 per cent of the receipts.

Actual signing of the contest, a mere formality, will take place here Thursday. Walker plans to train at Summit, N. J., while Schmeling will do his preparatory work at Speculator, N. Y. Schmeling is scheduled to sail from Germany on the liner Bremen on Aug. 21.

ITALIANS ARRIVE FRIDAY TO BOX CHICAGO TEAM

The eight amateur boxing champions of Italy will arrive from Los Angeles, Cal., Friday for their international match with Chicagoland fighters at the Stadium next Monday. The Italian boxers lost their 1928 Olympic games championships in the 1932 tournament, which closed at Los Angeles last Saturday. Gine Rossi, southpaw light heavyweight, and Luigi Rovatti, heavyweight, were eliminated in the finals.

Cleveland Recalls Players from Toledo A. A. Club

Toledo, O., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The Cleveland Indians tonight recalled Outfielder Mike Powers and Pitcher Ralph Winegarner from Toledo of the American association. Leo Moore, southpaw pitcher, will be sent to Toledo to replace the two recalled athletes.

VICTORIES MARK VINES' RETURN TO U. S. COURTS

Brilliant Field Seeks Titles at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The greatest collection of tennis stars of the American courts assembled today for the opening rounds of the historic Newport Casino tournament.

Several of the most noted players were regaining their land legs after returning from the Davis cup wars. Others were making their first start on grass and the play was far below the standard expected from such a galaxy.

Ellsworth Vines, national champion and last year's Casino winner, was in competition for the first time since he defeated Henri Cochet in the international finale and showed only a few flashes of his skill as he upset two opponents to gain the third round. Vines drew a tartar in his second round play, Arnold Jones of Providence, but won, 7-5, 6-1, 6-0. Vines defeated Hugh L. Kelleher of New York, 6-3, 6-4, in his opening match.

The top seeded foreign star, Henry W. [Bunny] Austin, England's premier player, kept pace with Vines. He got out of the first round by crushing Huntington Hartford, New York, 6-0, 6-2, and his second victim was Robert [Lefty] Bryan of Chattanooga, 6-2, 6-0.

Allison Defeats Adams.

Wilmer Allison, who shared the American Davis cup singles assignments with Vines, drew a first round bye and then conquered Clyde Adams, also of Texas, 6-2, 6-1. Frederick W. Perry, second seeded Britisher, was just as impressive against George Holloway, New York, in another second round match.

George Lott of Chicago, seeded fourth, and Ted Avory, England, fifth on the foreign list, entered the fourth round. Both had first round byes and two victories to jump the field by a bracket.

MRS. HARPER EXTENDED

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Stripped of much of its accustomed glamour by the absence of the champion, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, and England's leading stars, the women's national tennis championships moved through the opening round today with no upsets and little excitement.

The big bowl at the West Side Tennis club was thinly populated for the first 20 matches, which reduced the field of contenders to 32. Only one of the five seeded players who saw action was extended to three sets.

Helen Jacobs, an overwhelming favorite to attain the title she has sought for these many years, was accorded a bye in the first round.

Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper alone of the seeded players failed to brush aside her first rival in two sets. The left-handed star was extended to dispose of Eleanor Goss of New York, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Josephine Cruickshank, seeded No. 4, defeated Eugenie Sampson of Chicago, 6-1, 6-0; Virginia Hilleary, seeded No. 7, eliminated Olga Kallos of Ridgefield, N. J., 6-2, 6-1; Carolyn Babcock, seeded No. 6, eliminated Mrs. Robert H. Morris of Cohasset, Mass., 6-2, 6-1, and Mrs. Marjorie Morrell Painter, seeded No. 3, triumphed over Mrs. Christian Muhl of New York, 6-4, 6-2.

Germany's lone representative, Mrs. Alilda Beer Emden, lost her first match to Mrs. Philip Hawk of New York, 6-3, 6-3.

Terry Wins Decision Over Lawless in 10 Round Bout

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Young Terry, Trenton middleweight, won a 10 round decision over Bucky Lawless, of Syracuse N. Y., in an outdoor battle tonight. Terry weighed 154½; Lawless 153½.

1932 Illinois Quail 'Crop' Is Heaviest in Last 10 Years

BY BOB BECKER.

Here is good news for the quail hunters in Illinois. The first report on the 1932 hatch of birds says that the "crop" this year is as good as or better than at any time in the last ten years.

This cheering news about the bob whites comes from Ben Overman, veteran quail hunter of Mattoon, Ill., who about this time every year takes a census of the quail in his part of Illinois. Overman's report is as follows:

"Every year, about this time, it is customary to begin counting the birds after the hatch and it is human nature to exaggerate. However, this year I am convinced that it is actually true that we have a real crop of birds. I am reasonably sure that there are more birds in this part of Illinois at this time than there has been in the last ten years. From the reports I get, the same conditions exist even down to the south end of the state.

"You will recall that I have made some pretty fair guesses during the last few years and that later events have borne out my predictions. We have had a couple of nice open winters and this year, especially, has been a wonderful hatching season with very gratifying results, all of which goes to show that with an even break in weather conditions, the birds are pretty apt to get along fine. It remains to be seen whether or not we can find them when Nov. 10 comes, which, of course, will be the proof of the pudding. You will recall our difficulties along this line in past seasons."

There isn't any doubt that the warm, mild winter which the north experienced last season has had a beneficial effect on our game birds. Usually heavy snows and sleet storms take a heavy toll of our bird life during a normal winter season. Last winter was so mild that not only game birds but many song birds had no difficulty in finding plenty of food during the cold months.

The section of Illinois referred to by Ben Overman has always been one of the best quail territories in the state. Many northern Illinois hunters visit it, ranging with their dogs from Mattoon southward through the Effingham district. Besides quail there are a few prairie chickens down there and in recent years pheasants have increased in the heavy cover of that section.

ALFRED E. PARKER, HEAD OF LINCOLN PARK ZOO, DIES

Fall in Which He Bit His Tongue Cause of Death.

Alfred E. Parker, director of the Lincoln park zoo, died yesterday in his home at 4632 Kenmore avenue. He was 56 years old.

A. E. PARKER.

A survivor of battles with wild animals, in which he had been bitten and clawed, Mr. Parker died of an infection which got its start when he fell and bit his own tongue. The accident occurred a year ago in Hot Springs, Ark. A month later an infection developed which finally was recognized as cancer of the tongue.

Animal Trainer at 14.

Mr. Parker succeeded Cy De Vry as head of the park zoo in 1918. He began his career as a trainer of animals when he was 14 years old. At that time he was the owner of a leopard with which he staged an act with the Bostock circus, billed as the "Boy Wonder." He once toured Europe as trainer of an animal act with the Barnum & Bailey circus. He later became interested in collecting animals and made several trips into the jungles of India, Africa and Borneo in search of animals for circuses and zoos.

Two years ago Parker rescued his wife from a lion in Lincoln Park and was painfully clawed. Parker freed his wife after suffering severe scratches.

Animals Fond of Him.

Earlier in his career as a trainer Parker was attacked by a leopard and suffered several shattered ribs. The encounter forced him to wear a steel breast plate in later dealings with animals. He was noted as a humane trainer of animals. Employés said the animals in the Lincoln park zoo were fond of him. His appearance brought forth a welcoming chatter from the monkey cage, and several of the talking birds called him by name, employés said.

Besides his widow, Hanna, Mr. Parker is survived by his mother, a brother and a sister in Philadelphia. Tentative plans have been made to cremate the body and to take the ashes to Philadelphia for burial.

Mr. Parker's death was the second among Lincoln Park officials within three days. Ernest Weilbrenner, head of the greenhouse and floral department, died of asthma last Saturday in his home at 2323 Berwyn avenue. He was 67 years old. Funeral services will be held today.

Mrs. Lydia Paepcke Wilms, Wife of Lumberman, Dies

Mrs. Lydia Paepcke Wilms, wife of William Wilms, 999 Lake Shore drive, prominent lumberman and investment banker, died yesterday. She was the daughter of the late Herman Paepcke of Chicago. Her husband, two children, Herman Paepcke and Paula Elizabeth, and one granddaughter, Paula Elizabeth Wilms, II., survive. Funeral services will be private.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

HAROLD TEEN—PEMBROOK SPOKE OUT OF TURN

HAY FEVER CLINIC IS OPENED FOR 2D YEAR'S TEST

12 Victims Enter on the First Day.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Promptly on the date recognized as the inevitable start of the sneezing season for hay fever sufferers, twelve victims entered a special air filtered ward yesterday at the University of Illinois Research hospital, 1817 West Polk street, to seek relief from their affliction. For a week the group will spend each night in the ward, in which the atmosphere will be as free of the weed pollen that causes their distress as the latest apparatus known to science can make it.

Last year a similar experiment was tried, many of the patients being helped by their sojourn in the hospital. The equipment used last year, however, still permitted some infiltration of the pollen, which it is hoped has been eliminated by the improvements made since.

Spend Nights in Ward.

Each week until Oct. 1, when the hay fever season usually ends, a new group of twelve patients will be registered in the ward for observation and tests. They are not required to spend their days there, since many are working men and women. The theory governing the clinic is that if a patient gets an entire night's sleep without bother from the pollen, he can spend the daylight hours free of annoyance until his next bedtime.

Fight Cause of Malady.

It is hoped that preventive measures taken in recent weeks to assist the hay fever victim will result in a milder recurrence of the affliction than usual. Unemployed men by the score have been put to work cutting down the ragweed in many vacant lots, thus destroying the source of the trouble before the pollen has time to be flown about the city. Funds for the purpose were supplied by the joint emergency relief commission.

The pollen count made daily during the hay fever season to determine the amount of the ragweed and goldenrod particles in the air, showed that on Sunday there were eleven to each cubic yard of atmosphere. This count was made by O. C. Durham at North Chicago, differing only slightly from that made in the city itself.

BANK ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

Fort Scott, Kas., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Harvey Bailey, on trial for bank robbery here, today was identified as the leader of the gang that robbed the Lincoln, Neb., Bank and Trust company of $2,000,000 Sept. 17, 1930. Identification was made by E. H. Lulkhart, former executive vice president.

DOCTORS, SERVING AID SOCIETIES IN CUBA, ON STRIKE

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

HAVANA, Aug. 15.—A strike of physicians serving mutual benefit societies in Cuba will go into effect at midnight tonight, according to a formal notice served on the department of health this afternoon by the Medical Federation of Cuba.

Only a skeleton staff will remain in the hospitals to attend to immediate needs of patients and new patients will not be admitted unless the case is of great urgency, the federation states. Figures published today show there are 2,440 patients in hospitals and clinics affected in Havana alone. In addition, thousands daily receive free treatment at dispensaries.

This conflict arose out of a demand made by the medical federation that the aid societies drop from the membership all persons able to pay regular rates for medical assistance. The societies have declined, stating that memberships have decreased alarmingly and that it is this class which is paying dues since all the poorer classes are unable to contribute. The societies also contend that expenditures for medical attention gratuitously given paupers who after paying dues for many years have been granted life memberships have added to their burden.

S. A. PERKINS, MOTOR COMPANY FOUNDER, DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Word was received here tonight that Sam. A. Perkins, 69, one of the founders of the Waukesha Motor company, industrial engine manufacturers here, died at 5:30 p. m. today in a Stevens Point hospital.

Mr. Perkins had been ill several months. The body will be brought to Waukesha Tuesday for burial probably on Thursday.

Besides being secretary and treasurer of the motor company, Mr. Perkins was director and officer of nearly a dozen Waukesha enterprises and one of the city's most prominent civic leaders.

Prince of Wales Inspects Fleet; Tars Get Extra Rum

CORFU, Greece, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, inspected the Mediterranean fleet today and said everything was satisfactory. At the conclusion of their visit the signal "splice the main brace" was hoisted, which meant, in nonnautical terms, that all hands would get an extra portion of rum. The signal "make and mend" also was hoisted, meaning a half holiday for the fleet.

52 Days Without Food in Effort to Cure Asthma

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Reclining most of the time on a pine board without bedding as a part of "the treatment," Louis Garden was in his 52nd day of fasting today in efforts to cure asthma. Despite efforts to make him eat, Garden has refused food since June 24. He is very weak. Copious amounts of mineral water constitute his diet.

Terrorize Employes

Two gunmen yesterday escaped with $600 from the Palmer dress shop, 3201 West Roosevelt road, after forcing Diana Jarvis, Shirley Baylen, Tobey Weinshenker and Ben Segal, employés, into the basement. The bandits seized a steel box which contained Saturday's receipts and fled to a waiting automobile.

CULTURE OF JEWS FLOURISHES IN PALESTINE BEST

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Reports heard today by the first world Jewish conference asserted that Palestine is the only Jewish community which is flourishing both materially and spiritually. The material state of English Jewry is good, the congress was informed, but its spiritual condition is unsatisfactory.

The congress elected a governing committee, the members of which are: Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, who was presiding temporarily; Bernard S. Deutsch, also an American delegate; Oscar Cohn, Germany; M. Dizengoff, Palestine; Isaac Greenbaum, Warsaw; I. Jefroykin, Paris, and E. Margulis, Czechoslovakia.

One of the problems before the meeting is a plan presented by Prof. Guido Tedeschi of Rome for the establishment of an international organization under the league of nations to combat anti-Semitism. Dr. Nahum Goldman of Berlin, at yesterday's session, heatedly attack the American Jewish committee and its president, Dr. Cyrus Adler, on the ground that they were responsible for the refusal of numerous Jewish organizations to participate in the conference.

U. S. Ensign at Panama Gets Year for Auto Death

COLON, Panama, Canal Zone, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Ensign John Henry Sewell, U. S. N., attached to the United States submarine base at Coco Solo, was sentenced to a year at hard labor in the Canal Zone penitentiary today. He was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of John B. Manghan in an automobile accident on May 23.

RUSSIA REDUCES FOOD RATIONS TO ALIENS BY HALF

Shortage of Supplies Is Given as Reason.

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Food rations allotted to American and other foreign specialists stationed here in the employ of the soviet government were cut in two by a recent order to the store in which they buy their supplies.

A general shortage of foodstuffs has been felt by the natives for some time, but hitherto has not affected foreigners in the government employ. The new reduction, while it cuts the amount of food available to foreigners, leaves them fairly well supplied with basic staples, except butter, and still much better off than the average Russian citizen. Prices remain unchanged.

14 Pounds of Meat a Month.

Monthly rations for one man include: Meat, 7 kilograms at two to three rubles per kilo [a kilogram is about two pounds; the ruble is nominally worth fifty cents]; fish, three kilos at one ruble ten kopecks [a kopeck is one cent]; flour, two kilos at 90 kopecks; butter, one kilo at five rubles; sugar, three kilos at 95 kopecks; sixty eggs at ten for a ruble; sausage, three kilos at six rubles; cheese, three kilos at six rubles fifty kopecks; bread, 800 grammes a day at 43 kopecks a kilogram.

In case of a family of two the ration is not doubled but increased by about one-third on the theory that a wife who does not work does not need as much food as her husband.

Blame Seasonal Conditons.

Officials of the foreign store laid the blame for the reduction on seasonal conditions, combined with a recent large influx of foreign technicians. They promised that ration allotments would be increased after the harvest. Rations have been lowered and raised several times in the last two years, but never so drastically as now.

Available vegetables and fruits are still sold in unlimited quantity in the store for foreigners, to which admittance is gained only by an official ration book in which a record of all purchases is entered.

Americans are now in a minority among the several hundred customers of the store. Another store, operated for diplomats and newspaper correspondents, has not been put on a ration basis.

20,000 Miners Quit.

Dissatisfied with low wages and inferior living conditions, between 20,000 and 25,000 miners in the Donbas coal field have quit their jobs in the last two months. This is about 8 per cent of all the workers employed there.

This is Russia's chief coal producing area and if its output continues to decline there might be a serious shortage of fuel this winter, placing the nation's industry in a precarious position.

During the first few days of August the daily production of the mines was 85,000 to 100,000 tons. This is below the average of August, 1931, and considerably below the March average of 186,000 tons, despite the increased mechanization of the mines.

OFFICERS HUNT 19 FUGITIVES FROM PRISON

Granite, Okla., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Terrorizing citizens as they scattered to elude pursuing guards, most of the 23 convicts who escaped from the state's reformatory here in the absence of their woman warden were still at large tonight.

A stabbing, several kidnapings and an attempted attack upon a 17 year old girl were attributed to the prisoners who duped a sergeant and fled from the reformatory last night.

Four men, all sentenced to long terms for robbery, were recaptured in the search ordered by Mrs. George A. Waters, the warden.

Nineteen, including Joe Pounds, life termer convicted of killing a sheriff were still uncaught.

Two guards, said by Mrs. Waters to have been negligent, were dismissed.

Sentenced to 6 Months for $1,875 Alimony Debt

Irving A. Sacks, vice president of the Lakeside Fish and Oyster company, 657 Fulton street, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for failure to pay $1,875 in alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Elsie Olin Sacks, daughter of Louis B. Olin, president of the Goldenrod Ice Cream company. Sacks told Superior Judge Marcus Kavanaugh he had remarried and was unable to pay the alimony because of heavy debts. The judge disregarded the plea. Sacks said he would appeal.

QUEENIE LOVES 'EM ALL, THUS BAFFLING JUDGE

The indiscriminate affection of Queenie, a Boston bull terrier, made it impossible yesterday for Municipal Judge John A. Sbarbaro to determine her ownership. The dog was claimed by Miss Mildred Wall, 4109 Broadway, who made a charge of larceny against William Kirschner, 4352 Kenmore avenue, when he refused to surrender Queenie.

When Miss Wall called Queenie in the courtroom the dog bounced to the edge of a table beside the bench and licked her face. But she also licked the faces of Kirschner, the court clerk, and two spectators, and topped off her demonstration by taking a lap or two at the back of a policeman's neck. Judge Sbarbaro reduced the charge against Kirschner to disorderly conduct and set the case for a jury hearing Aug. 30.

NEW COURAGE IN LA SALLE ST. AS PRICES RISE

Danger of Relapse Believed Over.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Yesterday's strength in security and commodity markets was regarded in the financial district as highly encouraging. It was generally interpreted as an indication that the long feared corrective reaction which finally arrived at the end of last week was not to be a severe relapse.

Advances in stocks brought the averages back to the levels of a week ago. Improvement continued in bonds. Gains were made in wheat, corn, cotton, live stock, and other commodities.

This demonstration has convinced La Salle street that public sentiment has definitely improved and that there need be no fear of sliding back to the old lows.

You can't pay the grocer with improved sentiment nor can you discount it at the bank. There have been, nevertheless, some exceedingly constructive developments that have happened solely because of the change in sentiment.

Get Surprise Checks.

Today, for example, the Continental Illinois company will mail to holders of notes of National Grocers company, Ltd., checks totaling $1,100,000, representing 100 per cent payment.

This will be a pleasant surprise to the noteholders, because the last word they had was that the National Grocers company, a big Toronto wholesale grocery concern, would not be able to raise the necessary cash.

President Archie Foster of National Grocers late in May came to Chicago to inform the Continental Illinois company that the funds were not to be had and that it would be necessary to ask the noteholders to submit to a plan.

More than 85 per cent of the noteholders deposited their notes under a plan which called for payment of 10 per cent in cash and the extension of 90 per cent of the loan for five years.

The improvement in the business outlook during the last sixty days, President Foster said, had made it possible for his company to raise the needed capital.

Return of Confidence.

The advance in stock prices during the last few weeks is largely a reflection of returning public confidence in the eventual recovery of American business. A search of earnings and dividend reports alone affords no explanation. What stock and bond prices were saying in June was that American business was doomed to destruction and that the end was not far off. What they say now is that these fears have been shed and that investors are buying securities on the basis of what they believe companies will earn in the future rather than on the basis of their present showings.

The advance in bond prices has already been translated into tangible benefits. Many corporations have found that their long term credit has begun to thaw out.

To understand what the gains in commodity prices have meant one has only to consider the big packing companies. Their volume of business held up even during the worst months, but profits were canceled by inventory writeoffs.

Now Realize Profits.

Since the turn came in live stock prices these companies have been able to realize profits on their volume.

Further proof that people have not been drawing down their bank deposits to buy stocks is seen in the federal reserve board's report yesterday on the condition of the weekly reporting member banks in leading cities for the week ending Aug. 10. Net demand deposits for these banks on Aug. 10 were $10,794,000,000, an increase of $43,000,000 for the week. Time deposits increased $26,000,000 to $5,638,000,000.

TREASURY BILLS OVERSUBSCRIBED OVER FOUR TIMES

The $75,000,000 ninety-one day treasury bills, maturing Nov. 16, 1932, offered last Thursday, were oversubscribed about four and one-half times.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ballantine announced yesterday that tenders which were opened at the federal reserve banks showed that the total amount applied for was $333,747,000.

The highest bid was 99.881, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.47 on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.869, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.52 per cent on an annual basis.

The total amount of bids accepted was $75,016,000. The average price of the treasury bills to be issued is 99.873, and the average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.48 per cent.

Canadian Newsprint Now Selling Above Production

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 15.—(AP)—For the second successive month shipments of newsprint from United States and Canadian mills have exceeded production.

During July stocks at mills were further reduced to 80,386 tons against 85,531 at the end of June and 80,388 on Aug. 1, 1931, said the newsprint service bureau today.

Production of newsprint in the two countries in July was 216,991 tons against 246,767 in June. Of this Canadian mills produced 142,491 tons against 161,368 in June. For the first seven months of 1932 United States and Canadian mills produced 1,763,683 tons against 2,028,542 in the first seven months of 1931. This was the smallest production for a similar period since 1925.

Pool to Help Realty Gets Into Action

With capital furnished by the big loop banks, the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company—organized to help clear up Chicago's complicated real estate situation—started functioning yesterday in its offices in the Bankers building, 105 West Adams street.

George H. Dovenmuehle, president of the new corporation and vice president of Dovenmuehle, stated yesterday that applications for a number of loans had been approved and that others are being studied.

"In many cases loans are needed to pay back taxes, and we are urging owners to take care of this item at once," Mr. Dovenmuehle stated. "Of course, there are cases where the taxes imposed are outrageous, and in these instances there will be delay."

About 20 Million on Hand.

The Fort Dearborn Mortgage company was organized with a capital of $1,500,000, provided by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, the First National bank, and the Chicago Title and Trust company. It will make available about $20,000,000 for reorganization loans. Most of this sum is said to have been furnished by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. One of the objects of the new company will be to reduce attorneys' and other fees to a minimum.

Building activity decreased throughout Illinois in July, according to figures released yesterday by the Illinois department of labor. There were 843 permits issued during the month for construction estimated at $968,257. This was a 17 per cent decline from the June total of permits issued and of 10 per cent in the estimated cost of construction.

FORESTDALE PLAN

The bondholders' protective committee for the Forestdale apartments, 803-14 Forest avenue, Evanston, have outlined to holders a tentative plan of reorganization. Original default on the property occurred on Dec. 14, 1930, and there are $170,400 in first liens now outstanding.

The plan provides "that title to the property be placed in the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, the management thereof to be directed by two trust managers. The entire beneficial ownership in the income and proceeds of the property will be in the present depositing bondholders to be represented by certificates of interest to such bondholders in proportion to their present holdings."

The plan states that the trust managers are authorized to direct the trustee to sell the property provided that one-third the holders of certificates do not object within twenty days after notice of a sale proposal has been given.

Distribution of Funds.

Further, it is stated that "The trust agreement, which will be known as the Forestdale Building Liquidation Trust, will provide that all the net income from the property and all proceeds of the sale of the property shall be distributed to certificate holders as follows:

"1. A distribution of all net income up to 6 per cent of the face value of the units of beneficial interest shall be made at least annually.

"2. All income remaining after distribution as aforesaid shall be set aside in a sinking fund for the retirement of these certificates. Tenders of certificates will be invited from time to time as the trust managers may direct and the money then in the sinking fund will be used to purchase certificates offered at the lowest price. If no certificates are offered below their par price, they will be retired by lot."

The management of the property will be under the direction of the trust managers, Charles T. Rothermel and Perkins B. Bass. Holman D. Pettibone is chairman of the protective committee and the Chicago Title and Trust company is depositary. The original issue was underwritten by the State Bank of Chicago.

BETTER TRADING IN COTTON CLOTH SHOWN AT MILLS

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—July sales of carded cotton cloths were 157.1 per cent of output during the month, figures compiled by the New York Association of Cotton Textile Merchants, today showed. Sales totaled 222,616,000 yards. Unfilled orders increased 32.4 per cent. Meanwhile there was a reduction of 7.3 per cent in stocks. Billings amounted to 165,574,000 yards, or 116.9 per cent of production.

The association based its figures on reports made by 23 groups of manufacturers and selling agents covering more than 300 classifications or constructions of carded cotton cloths and representing the major portion of the production of these fabrics in the United States.

Standing of sales at 157.1 per cent of production was hailed by the association as a major achievement in the adjustment of supply and demand.

International Group Plans Swedish Match Revamping

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 15.—An international reconstruction committee representing the various interests of the Swedish Match company in America, England, France, Sweden and other nations met here today to consider the future of the company. America was represented by Ferdinand Eberstadt of the National City Bank of New York, and Roy Richardson and H. S. Hotchkiss of the Irving Trust company. Djorn Prytz was elected chairman of the conference.

Bondholders Intervene in Insull Case

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday granted the petition of a committee representing the debenture holders of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., to intervene in the receivership proceedings.

In granting the petition Judge Lindley took the first official cognizance of the charge which has been made several times during the proceedings that officials of the trust exceeded their rights in pledging most of the assets as security for bank loans.

Reasons for Court's Action.

Judge Lindley pointed out that in view of the charge that the assets had been improperly hypothecated it was necessary to permit the intervention of a committee representing the debenture holders.

The committee represented by the court is headed by John J. McDevitt Jr. of Philadelphia. Other members are S. P. Woodard, New York; T. Alan Goldsborough, Washington, D. C., and John C. Shaffer, Chicago.

While granting the petition of the committee Judge Lindley denied similar requests made on behalf of individual debenture holders.

Group to Protect Others.

Intervention of individual debenture holders if allowed would only encumber the record, Judge Lindley said. Their interests, he added, will be protected by the McDevitt committee.

Virtually all of the assets of the trust as well as those of its twin investment concern, Corporation Securities company of Chicago, are now held by several Chicago and New York banks as security for loans.

It has been contended by attorneys representing the senior security holders of the two firms that officials of the firms were without authority in pledging all of the assets. Holders of the notes and debentures issued against the assets have a prior claim on the pledged securities, according to claims of their attorneys.

At the present time the banks are enjoined from selling the assets they hold by an order issued several months ago by Judge Lindley. The order has been appealed by the banks and a decision on the question is expected in the near future from the Circuit Court of Appeals.

New Delay in New York.

Another postponement of the proposed auction by the New York banks was made yesterday. That the New York banks expect a decision from the Court of Appeals today or tomorrow was indicated by the setting of the auction for noon Wednesday. Attorneys for the receivers said yesterday that they had no knowledge as to when the decision would be handed down.

Chile Reports Harvest Is Best in Four Years

[Copyright; 1932; By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 15.—The coming harvest will prove greatly superior to those of the past four years, according to official figures after a careful survey of cultivated areas. Wheat, barley, oats, beans, lentils, olives, fruits and honey all exceed normal volume, while unusual development of vineyards and live stock indicates deliveries for export will be considerably higher than in the past. The report points out that depression in all lines of business has made the population turn to the country, while a drop in the international value of the peso improves the chance of export.

$1,318,750 TOBACCO STOCK CERTIFICATES, UNSIGNED, ARE LOST

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The loss of 250 unissued certificates for 100 shares each of Liggett & Myers Tobacco company stock, worth $1,318,750 at today's quotations, was reported through the stock exchange. The certificates are in series B, the original numbers being 73001 to 73250.

The stock exchange followed its policy of not disclosing the name of the company responsible for the loss. It requested that any one finding the certificates communicate with Ashbel Green, secretary of the exchange.

The Central Hanover Bank and Trust company is the transfer agent for the certificates. It was said there that they would be worthless unless the registrar's and transfer agent's signatures were forged. Even then if they came up for transfer they would not be honored, it was explained.

CHICAGO STOCKS' PRICES HIGHER AFTER DECLINE

Trading quieted down on the Chicago exchange as prices resumed the advance which was interrupted at the close of last week.

The motor accessory shares, Bendix and Borg Warner, were active and moderately higher. Other issues showing improvement were Commonwealth Edison, Great Lakes Dredge and U. S. Gypsum.

Trading was suspended in Q. R. S. DeVry stock at noon after the issue had advanced from 12½ to 25 cents a share. The removal was laid to the discontinuance of the company's Chicago stock transfer agency.

Activity in Union Carbide and Swift International resulted in moderate price improvement.

Extend Time in Standard Pan-American Corp. Deal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—The offer by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to acquire the minority interest in the Pan-American Foreign corporation, which expired at noon today, has been extended to noon Sept. 30. Under the terms as previously announced, the New Jersey company offers $14.64 in cash and 5,435-10,000 of a share of its capital stock for each share of class A or class B stock of Pan-American Foreign.

Du Pont Cuts $3 Dividend Rate Now to $2

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—Directors of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., today cut the dividend from $3 a year to $2 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share in place of the 75 cents formerly paid.

The cut was the second in succession, the rate having been $4 a year until this spring, when the June payment was reduced to the $3 rate. The action was not wholly unexpected in view of the fact that last earnings statement of General Motors, in which Du Pont has a substantial interest, was not good.

Share in General Motors.

The actual investment of the Du Pont company in General Motors was represented, at the end of last year by 137,470 shares of common stock owned direct and 9,843,750 shares of General Motors Securities company, which together represent 22.94 per cent of outstanding General Motors Securities company, which together represent 22.94 per cent of outstanding General Motors company common stock.

The 50 cent dividend just declared is payable Sept. 15 to stock of record Aug. 24. The Du Pont directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the debenture stock, payable Oct. 25 to stock of record Oct. 10.

Coca-Cola Dividend.

Coca-Cola International corporation directors today declared the usual extra of 50 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $3.50 a share on the common stock. Both of the disbursements are payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 14.

Directors of the Pepperell Manufacturing company today in Boston omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago a disbursement of $1 a share was declared.

H. M. Byllesby & Co. announces that the board of directors of the Missouri River Sioux City Bridge company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock of the company, payable Oct. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 30.

BRIGHT SPOTS OF THE DAY'S BUSINESS NEWS

Approximately 2,000 employes of the Durham, N. C., Hosiery mills will receive fatter pay envelopes on Saturday, as the result of announcement made by the management that, effective yesterday, a 10 per cent salary and wage increase will be given. Increased orders were responsible for the pay boost. The corporation operates several mills and manufactures silk, rayon, and cotton hosiery.

Two of Gainesville, Ga., largest textile plants resumed operations yesterday after a shutdown since June 9. The Gainesville mill and the Ragolet Manufacturing company went on a full time basis and their combined weekly pay rolls will be approximately $9,000. The Chicopee mill, which has been in continuous daily operation, began day and night work.

All excursion records of recent years were shattered Sunday when the Chicago and North Western railway handled nearly 8,500 people on five trains between Chicago and Milwaukee on the special $1 round-trip excursion, R. Thomson, passenger traffic manager of the road, reports.

Thirteen hundred men returned to work yesterday for two weeks at the Sluvis Illinois shops of the Rock Island lines. They will work five days a week.

Contract has been awarded for construction of a $10,000 addition to the Chesterfield Mill company at Asheville, N. C., the first unit in a general expansion program announced by J. D. Earl, president.

Introduction of an ironing machine unit with which dealers now can canvass 125,000 of their old household appliance customers was announced today by the Hurley Machine company of Chicago, maker of Thor washers and ironers.

Freight traffic on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system increased close to 10 per cent last week. The road handled 24,610 cars, against 22,449 in the Aug. 6 week. Between the same weeks in 1931 there was a decrease of 807 cars. Traffic is still below last year's level, but the decline has been substantially lessened.

Wholesale price index of National Fertilizer association last week made the largest weekly gain this year. The index advanced to 62.3 from 61.3 at the end of the preceding week and at this level compares with an index of 61.4 a month ago and the low point of 59.6 reached June 11.

The Universal Atlas Portland Cement company recalled 100 men to its Hammond, Ind., plant to fill an order of five barge loads for the Milwaukee distributing depot.

The Inland Steel company will raise its finished steel output at Hammond, Ind., by 5,000 tons this month, it is reported. The Linde Air company expansion of one of the largest oxygen and commercial gas plants in the country is near completion. The Bartles McGuire plant is building a large storage tank. The five oil refineries are holding normal levels, making an optimistic outlook for the Calumet district.

Construction of an addition to the Hazelwood plant of England, Walton & Co., leather manufacturers at Waynesville, N. C., has begun. New machinery has been ordered and the plant will employ an additional 40 or 50 men when operations begin.

Employment in California increased 2½ per cent in July as compared with June, the state labor commission announced. A survey, covering 1,136 factories which employed 123,691 workers, the commission said, showed decided gains in the fields of petroleum, publishing, and manufacturing of foods, beverages, and tobacco products.

The nation's economic ills are lessening throughout the United States, and a definite improvement in business is noticeable, Paul S. Willis, president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, declared yesterday in an address before the Association of Manufacturers' Representatives of New York.

It is said in New York brokerage quarters that a number of the larger stock exchange firms have come to the conclusion that the improvement in the market volume is likely to last for some time, and consequently have raised employes' salaries from the very depressed levels which were in effect for a long time before the market turned.

BRITISH CONVERT OVER 6 BILLIONS OF WAR LOAN

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The government announced today the amount handled under the war loan conversion scheme now is approximately 1 billion 850 million pounds [currently 6 billion 447 million dollars]. Officials described this as a highly satisfactory result.

Options in the conversion operation continue until the end of September, after which all holders who have neither converted their stock nor applied for cash redemption will be deemed to have accepted the new conditions of 3½ per cent securities redeemable in 20 years.

Government circles expect beneficial results for British finance and industry from the successful conversion and the effects it will have on Britain's credit before the world.

One of the most dramatic episodes of post-war finance was the launching of the conversion scheme not many months after the financial crisis that deposed the Labor government. That scheme is being put through in the midst of a trade depression which is tearing at the nation's economic life.

The conversion is expected to relieve the 1933 budget to the extent of 23 million pounds [currently $80,155,000].

Renter Paying Tax on Realty, Survey Shows

BY SCRUTATOR.

One of the chief handicaps in the fight against wasteful government and excessive taxation is the fact that the wage earner and nonowner of property have not realized the heavy toll imposed on them. They have been led to believe by political demagogues that taxes were paid by property owners and individuals of some degree of wealth. That is akin to the radical "soak the rich" theories of taxation.

If the wage earner and nonowner, however, have any doubt that they have been hard hit by excessive taxes, they have only to ponder some figures compiled by the national industrial conference board and the federal bureau of labor. Every one knows that the bulk of taxation always has been levied on real estate, but the man who rents has failed to realize that this tax has been passed on to him.

Rentals Decrease Slowly.

Particularly in the last two and a half years of depression has this burden fallen heavily on the wage earner. The rent he pays forms a considerable portion of his living expenses, but rentals have been reduced much less than food and clothing, the other prime necessities. Let's see how it works out.

In June, 1929, the average weekly pay of wage earners in the United States was $29.69, but in June, this year, the average was only $16.24. This is a decline of 43.4 per cent. Of course, slack employment had a good deal to do with the decline, as the number of hours worked per week declined from an average of 48.6 in 1929 to 32.7 this year. This is a decrease of 32.7 per cent.

As partial compensation for reduced income, the wage earner has been able to buy commodities more cheaply. Food prices have declined an average of 35.4 per cent in the last three years and clothing has receded 33 per cent. But rent, which is the third major item of living expense, has declined only 21.3 per cent. Moreover, the recession in rents in the last two years, during which taxes have reached their zenith, has been at a smaller rate than in the preceding ten years, as rentals over the last eight years have declined 24 per cent.

Cost of Living Falls.

It is largely due to the fact that rents have not declined as much as food and clothing that the cost of living has not receded more nearly in keeping with the wage earner's shrunken income. All told, the industrial conference board finds that the cost of living has declined 22.3 per cent in the last three years. However, if rentals had declined as much as have food and clothing, the decrease in the cost of living would be considerably more and the wage earner's expenses would be more in proportion to his income. If taxes were lower, rentals also could be lowered.

Hours and Pay Cut.

Shorter hours of employment have affected the wage earner more than wage cuts. Hourly wages in June, 1929, averaged 59 cents, compared with 50 cents in June, this year, a decline of 15.3 per cent. Considering this relatively small reduction in hourly wage rates, the large reduction in hours worked per week and the decline in living costs, it is figured that the purchasing power of the wage earner now is 27.3 per cent below the level of three years ago.

ATTACKS A. T. & T. IN PATENT FIGHT AT BAY CITY, MICH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 15.—Outlining the history of telephony since its genesis, Flynn A. Williams, chief counsel for the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company of Chicago, opened today the plaintiff's case in a patent suit against the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Michigan Bell Telephone company in the Federal court here. Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle had ordered consolidation of two suits started by the Kellogg company. In each of them three patents are involved. These patents are cited as improvement patents on the manual switchboard. The suit has been pending more than two years. Two complete Kellogg switchboards, with six telephones connected with each, have been installed in the courtroom by the plaintiff company and operators have been brought here from Chicago to demonstrate the method of trunking on which the Kellogg company claims priority.

U. S. Values Jacksonville, Havana R. R. at $900,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The interstate commerce commission today announced a tentative valuation of $900,000 on the property of the Jacksonville and Havana Railroad company as of Dec. 31, 1927. The main line of the carrier extends from Jacksonville to Havana, Ill.

Frisco Road Bond Deposits Extended to August 29

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The time for depositing St. Louis-San Francisco railway securities under the readjustment plan developed by the management has been extended to Aug. 29, it was announced today. Approximately 100 million dollars of bonds, or 40 per cent of the total affected by the plan, have been deposited, it was learned.

New York, Aug. 15.—With the technical position of the market substantially improved by the sharp corrective declines registered during the latter part of last week, security prices worked generally higher on the stock exchange today following the fractionally higher openings. Gains of from 2 to 5 points were recorded by leading issues.

Impressed by the evidence of underlying strength exhibited by the market itself and encouraged by the definite announcement that President Hoover would summon to Washington on Aug. 25 leading bankers and industrialists of the country as the initial step in a concerted and active campaign against depression influences, the bull forces again took command of the market today. Buying orders were entered on an increasing scale throughout the day.

One to Four Point Gains.

The market entered the final hour of trading with prices at the best levels of the day and with advances ranging from 1 to better than 4 points. Rail shares pointed higher early in the day and showed the way for the balance of the list.

Steel common closed at 40¼, up 2⅝ on the day; Atchison finished at 46⅝, up 4⅝; American Telephone closed at 109¾, up 4¾; American Can advanced 2¼ to 62⅝; Corn Products was up 2⅝ points to 41, and Du Pont, after dipping to 32½, rallied to 34⅝.

In the more speculative division, Auburn was up 4½ points to 67½; Case closed at 53, up 7; and International Harvester gained 2⅝ points to 29½.

Rail shares continued in good demand throughout the session, with Central, Union Pacific, and Atchison the features, although Northern Pacific, Chesapeake, and Baltimore and Ohio also showed good gains.

Day's Trading Smaller.

Trading was on a greatly diminished scale with total turnover at only 1,905,220 shares.

Around noon the announcement that Du Pont directors had cut the regular dividend from a $3 to a $2 a share basis brought a slight flurry of profit-taking into the market that cut down the gains scored earlier by the general list, but the selling failed to gain headway and the advance soon was resumed under the leadership of Union Pacific, New York Central, American Telephone and other pivotal issues.

Special interest centered in A. T. & T., in view of the directors' meeting this week and the general expectation that the usual quarterly payment of $2.25 a share will be authorized.

Carrier Shares Improve.

As a group the carrier shares gave the best account of themselves, despite the failure of traffic to show the usual seasonal expansion. Early reports of individual roads indicate, however, that the report of car loadings to be issued next Saturday will display a more favorable trend.

Buying also was attracted to the rail shares on the possibility that as the result of conferences of rail executives in Chicago this week a definite announcement may be made that the railroads will seek a further reduction in employes' wages embracing both unionized and unorganized forces.

As an indication of the increasing confidence in the security price structure and the prospects for greater stability in the securities mart generally, a seat on the curb exchange sold at $36,000 today, an increase of $7,500 over the previous sale.

FRENCH RAILWAY POURING GOLD INTO NEW YORK

More than 28 Million Paid by P. L. and M.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—In connection with the redemption today of $33,390,000 of 6 per cent bonds of the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad company, the Bank of France released $28,502,800 of gold held under earmark for it at the Federal Reserve bank. The metal was turned over to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers for the road. They at once sold it to the Federal Reserve bank.

This was the largest reduction of earmarked gold since June 14, 1931. Together with an importation of $213,100 of the yellow metal from Mexico, it raised the gold stocks of the country by $28,715,900, bringing the total recovery in the United States holdings of gold since the middle of June, when the overflow to Europe ended, to nearly $130,000,000.

Reduced Almost Half.

Gold held under earmark for foreign account has now been cut down to $282,902,200, compared with more than $500,000,000 last autumn.

During the last two months, franc exchange, deprived of the artificial support accorded it for many months by the repatriation of the foreign balances of the bank of France, has weakened and in meeting the demand in Paris for dollar exchange the French bank of issue has been compelled to give up a substantial part of the gold it had previously earmarked here.

Tons of Gold Handled.

Gold was hauled by the ton like coal through the streets of the financial district today while the largest transfer of precious metals ever made was under way between the old assay office in Wall street and the new assay office at South street and Old Slip. More than $1,000,000,000 in gold is being transferred.

Federation Bank and Trust Likely to Reopen Soon

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The stockholders of the closed Federation Bank and Trust company, at a special meeting tonight, adopted a new reorganization plan that virtually insures the reopening of the bank within the next three weeks. Frank X. Sullivan of the board of transportation and attorney for the New York State Federation of Labor, also a member of the reorganization committee of the bank, told the stockholders that the $1,500,000 necessary before the bank could reopen its doors was assured. He said of that amount $1,000,000 is being provided through Owen D. Young, who, with a number of other industrialists, has been interested in having the bank reopen for business, and the remaining $500,000 by labor groups.

Hail Office Furniture Sales as Good Trade Omen

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Increased sales of office equipment reported by United States and Canadian dealers during the last two months were regarded today as an indication of returning prosperity by the National Typewriter and Office Machine Dealers' association, which opened its annual convention here.

Consolidated Cigar Corp. Votes to Reduce Stock

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A reduction in capital was approved today by stockholders of the Consolidated Cigar corporation who voted to reduce the outstanding common stock to $2,500,000 from the present figure of $11,855,634.

BONDS MAINTAIN FIRM POSITION; TRADE SLACKENS

Low Priced Rails, Utilities In Principal Gains.

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The bond market maintained a firm position today, although the trading volume was the smallest in around two weeks.

Principal gains were recorded by some of the low priced rails and various utilities. The carriers were aided by the general belief that some of the roads, with the assistance of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, would be able to avoid defaults in interest charges and forthcoming maturities.

A friendlier feeling for the utilities followed reports that the offering tomorrow of $30,000,000 Public Service company of Northern Illinois first lien and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund convertible gold bonds would be oversubscribed.

Active Rail Loans.

The most active railway loans, with gains ranging from 1 to 3 or more points, included some of Alleghany corporation, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake corporation, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, Frisco, Southern Pacific, and Southern.

Among the principal utility gainers were issues of American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, International Telephone, Metropolitan Edison, Postal Telegraph, and Utility Power and Light. The industrials were quiet and steady.

United States treasury loans were soft. Foreign issues had a slightly irregular trend. The Germans finished all even and the British and French were steady.

CURB MART RALLIES

The curb market rallied today after its brief sinking spell late last week, and many stocks gained from fractions to as much as 5 points.

Electric Bond and Share common, which earlier this year had sold as low as 5, was again a feature, soaring up 4½ points to 23¾. Approximately one-sixth of the curb's total sales were centered in this issue. The company's 6 per cent preferred was also a strong feature, advancing 3¾ points in quiet trading.

Other Utilities Gain.

Other utilities joined the procession led by Electric Bond and Share, although their price gains were more modest. Advances of a point or thereabouts were made by American Gas and Electric, Niagara Hudson Power, United Light and Power A, and United corporation warrants. Cities Service common was an active feature, gaining half a point to 5½.

Industrial issues were generally firm, their gains apparently representing a normal rebound after their dip of late last week. The oils displayed a firm tone, Gulf leading the advance with a gain of more than a point. Standard of Indiana and International Petroleum were fractionally higher.

GOODYEAR RUBBER SHOWS PROFIT FOR 6 MOS. ENDING JUNE 30

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company announced a profit of $527,609 for the six month period ended June 30, also its regular preferred dividend of $4.75.

Consolidated earnings for the period were $2,043,445 before interest and discount deductions. Consolidated net sales were $63,953,780. Cash and government securities worth $41,797,727 are listed. Earned surplus on June 30 was $13,527,750.

Continental Diamond Fibre company reports for the quarter ended June 30 net loss of $159,487, compared with net loss of $27,804 in the 1931 quarter.

Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and subsidiaries report for the quarter ended June 30 net income of $4,099,889, equal, after estimating dividend requirements on the preferred stocks, to 22 cents a share in the June quarter, 1931. Net income for the twelve months ended June 30, 1932, was $18,530,661 equal after preferred dividend of $1.09 a share on the common stock, compared with $24,010,387 or $1.55 a share in the 12 months ended June 30, 1931.

Columbian Carbon company reports for the six months ended June 30, net income of $469,945, equal to 87 cents a share, compared with $859,732 or $1.50 a share in the first half of 1931.

The National Distillers Products corporation, which today set forth a plan for the payment by it of a special dividend in whiskey warehouse receipts to common stockholders reports a profit of $319,429 in the first half year after all charges except federal taxes. This compares with $381,137 in the first half of 1931. One investment trust would be entitled under the whiskey dividend plan outlined to receive 5,000 cases.

After two years of unprofitable business due to a combination of price cutting in alcohol and high raw material prices, American Commercial Alcohol is recovering its normal earning power with the return of stabilization to the industry, an analysis indicates.

Net profit in the first six months of this year was $244,405, equal to $1.25 a share on 194,747 shares, against net loss of $42,747 in the first half of 1931.

WHEAT HIGHER WITH RISE IN STOCK MARKET

Technical Position Firmer than Expected.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment prevailed among wheat traders on the Chicago Board of Trade, but there was no material pressure on the market. Prices averaged higher, due largely to sympathy with stocks and on the unexpected strength in Liverpool.

Efforts to bring about a lower range of wheat prices disclosed a stronger technical position than expected. However, there was a lack of leadership on the bull side. The advance of about 1c from Saturday's finish was due in large part to scattered buyer and with some short coverings. A fractional dip early was followed by a rally and the best figures of the day were made shortly before the close.

Profit taking developed around 56c for December wheat, but there was net gains of ¾@1c with September 52⅝@52½c; December, 55⅞@56c, and May, 60⅛@60⅝c.

Winnipeg showed strength and was 1c higher at the last with December at 60¾c in Candian funds. Small worlds shipments and a decrease of over 2,000,000 bu in supplies on ocean passage caused and advance of 1¼@1⅝c in Liverpool.

December in the latter market finished at 57½, which was 1⅞c over Chicago at the time, compared with ¾c under on Friday. The sharp upturn abroad was regarded in some quarters as a readjustment to nearer a world basis, as Liverpool of late has been selling relatively below a shipping difference.

Foreign News Bearish.

There was little in the general run of the news that was regarded as bullish. Broomhall while stating he had made no estimate on probable European import needs expressed the belief that the total might fall below the 558,000,000 bu taken in 1931-32.

The French crop was privately estimated at 369,000,000 bu or approximately 100,000,000 bu in excess of last year and fully equal to home requirements. No improvement was shown in the foreign demand despite the fact that the amount on ocean passage is down to around 24,000,000 bu, or about three weeks actual needs.

Hedging pressure increased somewhat at Minneapolis, although reports from the northwest indicated that while farmers were marketing wheat freely, the bulk of it was being stored for higher prices. In North Dakota the $1 per bu wheat strike is reported as under way with farmers refusing to sell except at that figure. Kansas City also reported increase hedging pressure, although the movement of winter wheat in the west is not large, 31 markets reporting arrivals of 1,265 cars against 2,934 cars last year.

Pit brokers claim that one reason for the sharp falling off in speculative interest in the wheat market is the confiscatory tax on grain futures. This hampers pit operations to a considerable extent and accounts for the erratic fluctuations at times, according to brokers who stand in the pit all day. The tax on a sale of 5,000 bu September wheat at 52c would amount to $1.30.

Corn Resists Pressure.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅝c, and closed at the top with net gains of ⅛@¼c. September was 31⅝c; December, 33c, and May, 37⅝c at the last. The market showed resistance to pressure, but in the main fluctuations were in accord with those in wheat. Outside trade was reported to have fallen off sharply. Country offerings of corn to arrive were the smallest in some time with only 6,000 bu reported as having been bought by local handlers, and it was claimed it would take a bulge of around 2c per bu to result in a large business. Crop comments were again spotted.

All deliveries of oats sold at a new low for the season and since 1896, the September declining to 16⅝c early, or within 1⅞c of the inside figure of that year. A rally came toward the last with the close ¼c higher to ⅛c lower. September showed the most strength and closed at 17c, while December was 18¾@18⅞c, and May 21⅝c. Around 10c per bu was offered for cash oats at interior Illinois points, while Iowa farmers were offered around 8c per bu. Rye was ⅝@¾c higher with wheat. September closed at 32¼c; December, 35⅝c, and May, 40⅜c.

FOOD INDUSTRY LEADER SEES BUSINESS BETTER

Better business is impending in the food industry and other lines, according to the views expressed yesterday at the opening session of the convention of the National Food Distributors and American Bakers' association at the Sherman hotel.

L. J. Schumaker, president of the association, addressing the food purveyors, said that the turn in business is unmistakable.

"The recent trend upward in all lines of endeavor has resulted in better business for all food distributors," he declared. Increased outlets have begun to open up, due to the fact that many industries have started to put men back to work.

"There is an air of confidence throughout the country," he added, "for the first time in several years. The immediate result is better business, which will continue to grow better from now on."

Mr. Schumaker pointed out that the retail stores which were formerly overstocked are now understocked. "We look for the fall to bring back a normal flow of food, not a boom, but a healthy flow," he said.

Several hundred food distributors from all sections of the country are attending the convention, which will continue through tomorrow.

846 RUSH-ST.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

It's a mistake to believe you can't earn a comfortable living selling just because you have tried an unsalable proposition.

We have a plan designed to overcome present conditions and unlike anything you have ever heard of. The men we will select can be successful right now.

We don't ask you to begin on commission. You are paid from the start.

DRAWING ACCOUNT AND COMMISSION.

Salesmen experienced in selling specialties or canvassing preferred, but we will consider men with other experience and are willing to work, apply at once from 9 to 2 p. m. only.

Mr. Jacobs, 834 W. 63d-st.
Mr. Kuber, 3330 Lincoln-av.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

with a most unusual sales and advertising setup has recently been opened by this 76 year old concern. We need clean cut, ambitious salesmen, crew managers, and collectors, preferably with direct to consumer experience. If you desire permanence and a good future and are willing to learn our business our reputation and experience will help you to succeed. Men selected in respective positions are compensated accordingly. Salary, drawing account, commission.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the reduced rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
